

Ike's Name Entered on Minnesota Primary Ballot Without Consent

Washington — (U.P.) — Minnesota Republican leaders entered President Eisenhower in their presidential primary without asking or getting assurances that he would go along, Sen. Edward J. Thye (R-Minn.) said today.

But on the basis of the Minnesota primary law, an argument can be made that no negative answer to the second term question is likely to come from Mr. Eisenhower before Feb. 25. By so doing, he would pull the rug from under his friends and the state GOP organization in Minnesota.

The presidential primary law in Minnesota is similar to the one in New Hampshire in that a candidate may be entered without his consent but is allowed to withdraw.

Entered in New Hampshire

Mr. Eisenhower was entered in the New Hampshire primary last month. He responded by saying he would not object but that his action should not be interpreted to mean that he had decided to run again.

Thye and other Minnesota GOP leaders put his name in the Minnesota primary last week. This action has not yet been acknowledged by the President.

Mr. Eisenhower has his next medical examination scheduled early next week and his doctors will inform him of the results Feb. 14.

The doctors' report on his recovery from his heart attack last fall is expected to weigh heavily in his decision whether to accept renomination.

Decision Expected Soon

Some Republicans expect the President to announce his decision soon after this examination. Senate GOP Leader William F. Knowland, who wants to run if Mr. Eisenhower does not, is making plans on that assumption.

However, Feb. 15 is the Minnesota deadline for entering states of National Convention delegates pledged to a presidential candidate. The candidate can withdraw before Feb. 25.

If Mr. Eisenhower should announce against a second term between Feb. 15 and 25 and follow up by withdrawing from Minnesota he would knock the state organization slate of delegates off the ballot.

Laughs of the Day . . .

Inglewood, Calif. — (U.P.) — Two lawyers arrested simultaneously on identical speeding charges defended each other before Municipal Judge Lester O. Luce.

Attorney Daniel J. Bloomgarten was acquitted, but attorney Dudley Gray was found guilty and fined $10. Said Gray: "I can only conclude that my colleague had a better lawyer."

Washington — (U.P.) — Sen. Alben W. Barkley (D-Ky.) an orator of the old school, asked in the Senate how much speaking time was left for advocates of recommending the natural gas bill to committee.

"Three minutes," he was advised.

"Well, that isn't enough for me," Barkley said and sat down.

Birmingham, Ala. — (U.P.) — Mayor James W. Morgan has proclaimed the week of Feb. 26-March 3 as "National Nothing Week" in Birmingham.

Although "many worthwhile causes" use the medium of the national week to draw attention to themselves, the mayor said, his proclamation was inspired by such "ridiculous" things as "National Gold Plated Diaper Pin Week" and "National Pickle Wart Week."

As We Live

Don't Urge Fiance To Move Nearer Work

Long engagements can be a strain on young people, especially when they must be separated.

(Q) "I am 17 years old and my fiance is 21. I have been going steady with him for two years and we have been engaged for six months. We plan to be married when I am 18 and one-half years old. Do you think I'm too young? I love him very much and I know he loves me. Another thing bothering me is that he travels a long distance to and from his work so he can be near me. He says he can't stay there while I'm here because he misses me. I'll admit I miss him also, but I'd rather have him rent a room and stay there during the week. It would be less travelling after a day's work. How can I make him understand this?"

—T.N.C.

(A) To answer your first question first, I would say you are young to be making a decision that will affect the whole course of your future life. However, you are very wise to plan to wait until you are older before you take the final step. After an engagement of two years, on top of going steady for two years, you and this young man should know each other very well and should know if you want to spend the rest of your lives together.

As for your second question, I am not sure you are wise in suggesting to this young man that he live away from you, even if it will mean cutting down on the time and energy spent in commuting back and forth to his work.

Thought With Her

Living in a place where he knows few people, away from his family and friends, might be all right for a man who is emotionally free. But, this man's thoughts are with you and he would be very lonely and unhappy away from you in the evenings, after his work is over. Because he is engaged, he would not want to go out with other girls and other young men would be dating their girls. That would leave him all alone.

Unless the commuting proves to be too great a strain on his health, I suggest that you do not interfere with this matter. In fact, many people find commuting a relaxation after a day's work. The other possible solution to this problem is to urge him to look for a job nearer where you live so he will not have so much commuting.

Nitro Plant Wrecked By Violent Explosion

Bishopton, Scotland — (U.P.) — A violent explosion wrecked a government nitroglycerin plant in this Glasgow suburb today, killing a workman and rocking the countryside.

The blast wrecked the nitroglycerin section of the Royal Ordnance factory, which makes smokeless powder for the government, shortly after the day shift reported for work.

"Wally says I'm a whiz!"

Wally thinks it's pure magic the way I keep our house spotless and still have so much time for the things I like to do. Of course, it's finding faster, easier ways to do my housework that really does the trick. Just take wood floors. How I hated that messy cleaning and waxing. And my arms and back would ache for days afterwards. Then I heard about Bruce Cleaning Wax. What a joy! There's no floor washing at all because Bruce cleans as it waxes. Takes only half the time. To top it off, my wood floors never looked better. Just try a can of Bruce Cleaning Wax. Everybody who uses it thinks it's wonderful!

Incidentally, I've found other Bruce floor products help me, too. There's Bruce Floor Cleaner for cleaning and lighter waxing, Bruce Paste Wax, Bruce Asphalt Tile Cleaner, Bruce Asphalt Tile Self-Polishing Wax and the new Bruce Self-Polishing Wax. Yes, for floors it's Bruce!
