Fate of Twins Depends on Tests

Wheeling, W. Va.—(U.P.)—The fate of 14-year-old twin boys accused of bludgeoning to death a nine-year-old Cub Scout hung today on the results of a study of lie detector tests taken by the youthful suspects.

The twins, Thomas and Joseph Williams, spent nearly eight hours yesterday answering questions about the slaying of David Powell last Thursday night.

Prosecutor Joseph Gompers made no official statement on the results of the lie detector tests. He said they would be studied by a State Police expert and all officers who worked on the murder would meet tomorrow to definitely announce if the case would be sent to the Grand Jury.

Gompers issued a flat "no" when asked if the twins had confessed.
