Treatment of Children's Allergies

According to a recent splendid article by Dr. Normal W. Clein, of Seattle (Modern Medicine), a good treatment can do much for the allergic infant or child. Often the first thing needed is some home detective work. The mother can learn much by keeping a notebook to see what happened to the child just before a spell of sniffles or colic, diarrhea, vomiting, or eczema—where he went, what he ate, what pet animal he played with, or what dust he got into.

In the case of an infant on a cow's milk formula the first thing is to change to goat's milk, soy bean milk, meat milk, or some other proprietary milk-like preparation. The infant can be allergic to the fish oil or other vitamins he is getting. As Dr. Clein wisely says, citrus fruit juices are often very rough on infants, and "should be avoided the first year." Dr. Clein objects, also, to giving mixed cereals to allergic children. The safest single cereal is rice. It rarely causes trouble. Eggs are likely to cause trouble.

Watch Allergic Child

The allergic child should be kept away from animals, birds, ferns, kapok and feathers in pillows. Desensitization to pollens, molds, fungi, and house dust can often help. An injection of influenza vaccine in October may help the child to get through the winter without a bad cold. Clein doubts if "cold shots" do anything to help. The theory behind them is not logical.

As Dr. Clein says, today it is fashionable to blame allergies on psychic factors, but he has his doubts. Strong emotion can aggravate an allergic manifestation, but Clein does not believe it ever causes allergy. Certainly, one cannot talk a person out of an allergic reaction; it is not "in his head," as so many persons fully believe. To prove this all one has to do is to introduce surreptitiously into the meal given to a highly allergic person some of the food to which he is sensitive. He may then retch and purge half the night.

Man's Body Found Near Klamath Falls

Klamath Falls (U.P.)—The body of a man, tentatively identified as that of Edison Tupper Duffy, about 45, was discovered Saturday by two young boys as they searched the roadside for empty bottles near here.

Klamath county officials said that the body was partly decomposed, making positive identification difficult. They estimated that the body had been exposed for several days, possibly a week.

Stolen Wheat Said To Be Poisonous

Portland (U.P.)—Authorities warned Saturday that four tons of wheat stolen from a loading platform is poisonous and not fit for consumption by humans or animals.

The wheat was stolen Thursday night from a north Portland loading platform. It had been treated with a benzene derivative for use as a seed. The stolen wheat had been fumigated too heavily and left on the platform.

Thomas M. Rice, inspector for the Food and Drug Administration said it was not certain just how poisonous the wheat was.

The poisoned wheat has a pink tinge because of coloring added so it could be distinguished from untreated wheat.

Farouk To Leave Europe

Damascus, Syria (U.P.)—A Syrian newspaper has reported that former King Farouk of Egypt has decided to leave Europe and live in Iran as soon as he can place his children in boarding schools. Al Anbaa, Damascus daily newspaper, said the deposed king would be welcomed by the Iraqi government.
