

Society

Garden Workshop Held in Phoenix; Primrose Studied

Phoenix Garden club held a workshop on dish gardens the morning of February 10 at the Community building in Phoenix. Mrs. Jewel Parr conducted the demonstration, attended by about 25 members of the club. Following the workshop and sack lunch, dessert was served by Mrs. S. E. Cox, Mrs. C. Hockersmith, Mrs. M. Liebman and Mrs. C. Peebler, hostesses for this meeting.

At 1:30 p.m., the regular monthly meeting convened. Guests were Mrs. Wallace Martin, Mrs. P. S. Callaway and Mrs. Ray Edwards, all of Medford.

Program for the meeting was a roundtable discussion on primroses. This was conducted by Mrs. Vaughn Quackenbush, moderator, assisted by Mrs. T. A. Lowe and Mrs. William Elson. A valentine arrangement was shown by Mrs. L. O. Penland.

Mrs. J. Edwin Harper gave a demonstration on flower arranging.

A potted pink hyacinth donated to the club by Berrydale Flower Farms was given to Mrs. S. E. Cox, and a pot of red geraniums donated by Mrs. C. W. Robertson was won by Mrs. Chris Wolff.

Phoenix Auxiliary Plans for Dinner

Phoenix-Nineteen members attended the February meeting of Phoenix Lions auxiliary held at the February meeting dorama at the Kachina Room in Phoenix. Mrs. Herman Gier and Mrs. D. P. Foxworthy were co-hostesses.

A potluck dinner for the husbands is to be held February 23 at Phoenix Community club.

March 17 is the date set for a rummage sale in Medford. All clothing and other items for the sale are to be taken to the home of the president, Mrs. E. R. Claffin, 214 5th street, Phoenix.

Proceeds from them are to be used for Auxiliary projects.

A directors' meeting is called for Monday, March 5 at the home of the president.

It was announced that one of the auxiliaries in District 36E will visit the Phoenix auxiliary March 8.

Club Party Held At West Home

Central Point — The monthly meeting of the Birthday club was held at the home of Mrs. Wallace West, and was in the "hard times" theme.

Honored with gifts were Mrs. Roy Reed and Mrs. Jim Newton. The grand prize for the most unusual costume was won by Mrs. J. D. West. Games were played, and prizes awarded the winners.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Sam Dawson.

"Flower" Apron

7113

by Alice Brooks

Stunning new apron, fashioned of remnants in the form of a big beautiful flower! You'll want several of these gay serving styles for yourself — or gifts, bazaars!

Pattern 7113: Embroidery transfer, directions for making this "flower" apron, 16 inches long.

Send TWENTY-FIVE CENTS in coins for this pattern—add 5 cents for each pattern for 1st-class mailing. Send to Medford Mail Tribune, Household Arts Dept., P. O. Box 168, Old Chelsea Station, New York 11, N.Y. Print plainly NAME, ADDRESS and PATTERN NUMBER.

Order our ALICE BROOKS Needlecraft Catalogue. Enjoy pages and pages of exciting new designs—knitting, crochet, embroidery, iron-ons, toys and novelties! Send 25 cents for your copy of this wonderful book now. You'll want to order every design in it!

Jacksonville PTA Completes Plans For Smorgasbord

Jacksonville—Plans have been completed for the smorgasbord to be given in the Jacksonville High school main building Saturday, February 18 by Jacksonville Parent-Teacher association. Hostesses for the event are Mrs. Fred Richardson and Mrs. LeRoy Mauroni.

A group of eleven junior and senior high school girls dressed in Swedish costumes will assure prompt service. Serving will be from 5 p.m. until 8 p.m.

According to the two chairmen, Mr. Leonard Wicksten and Mrs. Ross Crowley, the menu will include a large variety of traditional smorgasbord dishes.

A group of men will serve coffee under the direction of Frances Gruidy.

The ticket price includes games and square dancing. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Tolman will be in charge of bridge, canasta and pinocle games in the music room. Square dancing will be held in the gymnasium with Douglas Fosbury, Kenneth Howe, Harold Evans and Paul Larson.

In charge of the three dining rooms will be Mrs. John Keavney, Mrs. Thelma Mooring and Mrs. A. Pawlowski, who state that ample serving facilities will be provided.

Calendar notices and news for the society section of The Mail Tribune must be submitted in writing and deadline for the Sunday edition is 1 p.m. Friday. Deadline for the weekly calendar is 9 a.m. of the day of publication and for week day news is 5 p.m. the day before publication.

Wednesday 7:30 p.m.—Miss Virginia Mackenzie, missionary speaker, Presbyterian church.

7:30 p.m.—Bethel 14, Job's daughters, Medford Masonic temple.

8 p.m.—Mt. Pitt Rebekah lodge, IOOF hall.

8 p.m.—Amethyst Rebekah lodge, Gold Hill IOOF hall.

8 p.m.—Roxy Ann HEC, Mrs. J. O. Myhrre, 1070 Spring st.

8 p.m.—Medford Jaycettes, Mrs. Gary Schuler, 17 Corning court.

Thursday 10:30 a.m.—Blue Star Mothers of America, Carpenters local union hall, 123 1/2 West Main st.

10:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.—Parish workers guild of St. Peters Lutheran church, at church.

1 p.m.—Just Folks club, Mrs. W. P. Brooks, 335 South Riverside ave.

Westside 4-H Club The Westside 4-H club met Feb. 6 at the Westside school. Talks and demonstrations were given by Fern Kellow, Laurene Kellow and Evelyn Niedermeyer. Refreshments were served by the Barnes.

Evelyn Niedermeyer Reporter

Italian Immigrant Wins $64,000 on Television Quiz

New York — (U.P.) — Michael Della Rocca, a $50 a week shoemaker, tries on a new role for size today—$64,000 impresario. Della Rocca, an Italian immigrant who now lives in Baldwin, N.Y., earned 25 years of cobbler pay Tuesday night by rattling through a long query on "The $64,000 Question." His category was opera.

Had Help of Expert

The 54-year-old Della Rocca won the loot with the help of another shoemaker—opera expert, Gino Prata, who carried off $32,000 on the same program last year. Prata acted as Della Rocca's "expert" on the show, aiding him in building an answer to the big question.

Della Rocca, who runs a small time opera enterprise in his home town, said he would use his winnings to raise the standards of his productions.

"I wanna expand the opera," he said after the show. "We need opera in every corner. I'm very glad that now I get a chance to do this thing."

His question centered around composer Richard Wagner, librettist Arrigo Boito and singer Enrico Caruso.

Named Four Operas He was asked to name the four operas of Wagner's "Ring of the Nibelung." The answers were: Das Rheingold, Die Walkure, Siegfried Die Gotterdammerung.

He was asked the name of a Ponchielli opera for which Boito had written the libretto, under what name Boito had written it, and the names of the two last operas by Verdi for which Boito had turned out the libretto. The answers were: La Gioconda, Tuba Corio, Othello and Falstaff.

He also was asked to name the two teachers who trained Caruso in his young manhood, name the opera which Caruso sang at the Metropolitan on Nov. 16, 1908, give Caruso's role in that production and tell who was making his debut that night. The answers were: Guglielmo Vergine and Vincenzo Lombardi; Aida, Radames and Arturo Toscanini.

Home Economics Club Holds Meeting at Hall

Upper Rogue Home Economics club met recently at the hall, with Mesdames Harding and Tockstein serving luncheon. Next meeting of the group will be March 8, and all members are requested to wear something green in observance of St. Patrick's day. Those who do not, will be subject to a fine.

A regular soap and water bath for lamps and bulbs is necessary to good lighting. Dirty fixtures cut lighting levels as much as 50 per cent.

'Wobbies' Work To Offset WCTU's Anti-Liquor Drive

New York — (U.P.) — Temperance leaders in America are making headway with a sort of "creeping prohibition"—local option elections that dry up the countryside bit by bit—but the liquor people say they aren't worried.

For one thing, the ladies of the WCTU have the "Wobbies" to contend with now.

Ladies Favor Drinking The Wobbies are ladies, too, but they are in favor of drinking. In moderation, of course. Their organization — The Women's Association of Allied Beverage Industries, Inc., or WAABI for short—is the female corps of the liquor industry's public relations force.

The Wobbies are pledged to defend the reputation of the liquor industry and to resist those "dangerous outside forces" that would destroy it.

WCTU's Anti-Liquor Drive

A Wobbie goes to PTA meetings and the like, ready to stick up for legalized liquor if the girls get to talking on the subject. She may even give a speech. Temperance workers say they detect a rising public sentiment against the use of alcohol. They believe publicity given to the problems of alcoholism and juvenile delinquency is working in their favor.

WCTU Gaining Memberships The Woman's Christian Temperance Union has been gaining in membership. It now claims 400,000 members in its 10,000 state and local unions.

Against this the Wobbies are pretty outnumbered. They list 3500 members in 42 chapters. Most Wobbies are connected with some phase of the alcoholic beverage industry through their jobs or their husbands.

President Eisenhower doesn't know it, but he's about to get a special gift from "one ardent fisherman to another."

According to my pipeline at Army Information Headquarters in Germany, Justinus Sturn of Munich worked for weeks making three spinners—all hand-tooled. Justinus tacked on a little note: "If my spinners work over here, they should work in American waters."

"Potri Heil." That is the fish-worm variety of greeting from one rod and reel man to another in Germany.

And while we are over there, here is a report from a U. S. Army claims officer who was approached by a German farmer after a Patton tank dug up his garden.

"How much was the damage?" asked Lt. John J. Cowan, of Chester, Pa.

"You owe me nothing," the farmer said. "My kids had a wonderful time at your party. I cannot ask you to pay for a few damaged potatoes."

The American Red Cross, desperate for whole blood, is thinking about sending its bloodmobiles to summer resorts around the country. The government is behind the drive, too. For instance, the State Department goal is 900 pints.

The United Mine Workers Journal has a lovely lady named Margaret Moran, who forever is looking for ways to save the common man money. She says sauerkraut with sausage, wieners, pig-knuckles, fried liver or baked fish is right fine and won't

As We Live

By ELIZABETH HURLOCK, PH.D.

No one is physically perfect. Everyone must learn to live with certain features he or she does not like.

(Q) "I am very upset about my face. In fact it upsets me so much that I do not like to go out socially. I am 22 years old, weigh 128 pounds, and am 5 feet, 3 inches tall. My face is completely round, just like a moon, and I have a double chin. Otherwise, I am not heavy. All the weight seems to be in my face and chin. Is there any way to change the shape of a face?"

(A) There is no known way to change the bone structure of the face because that is fully developed by the middle teens. However, there are several things you can do and these should solve or partially solve your problem for you.

First of all, go to your doctor and discuss with him the matter of your weight. As people's weight varies according to their bone structure, it would be impossible to say that you are "overweight" without a physical check-up. You may not be "heavy" but you are certainly not thin.

The doctor can recommend a reducing diet that will help you to lose weight but will not impair your health. He can also suggest exercises to tighten the muscles of your chin and the lower part of your face. You are much too young to have a double chin or even sagging muscles.

Have Hair Styled Then, go to a beauty specialist and have him style your hair to minimize the roundness of your face. You will be amazed to see how the whole shape of your face seems to change with different hair styles. You may not be able to wear your hair in the prevailing fashion or like your friends do, but I am certain that any specialist can find a style to make your face seem longer.

If you keep strictly to your diet and do your exercises regularly, you will soon discover that your face itself is thinner. Your double chin will disappear and, when you tighten the neck muscles, your neck will look thinner and longer. This, too, will make your face appear less moon-like.

(Copyright 1956, General Features Corp.)

TWIN CASE Des Moines, Ia.—(U.P.)—Twin brothers, William and Willard Eaton, were admitted to the Veterans Hospital here within minutes of each other for treatment of the same ailment. Willard lives at Humeston, Ia. and Willard works at the hospital.

Comment On This and That

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS United Press Feature Writer

Washington — (U.P.) — What's new in Washington:

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was asked a rather tricky question about meteorological balloons at a recent press conference. "That whole subject," he replied, "as I think somebody said about Russia, is a mystery wrapped in an enigma." That "somebody" was Winston Churchill.

President Eisenhower doesn't know it, but he's about to get a special gift from "one ardent fisherman to another."

According to my pipeline at Army Information Headquarters in Germany, Justinus Sturn of Munich worked for weeks making three spinners—all hand-tooled. Justinus tacked on a little note: "If my spinners work over here, they should work in American waters."

"Potri Heil." That is the fish-worm variety of greeting from one rod and reel man to another in Germany.

And while we are over there, here is a report from a U. S. Army claims officer who was approached by a German farmer after a Patton tank dug up his garden.

"How much was the damage?" asked Lt. John J. Cowan, of Chester, Pa.

"You owe me nothing," the farmer said. "My kids had a wonderful time at your party. I cannot ask you to pay for a few damaged potatoes."

The American Red Cross, desperate for whole blood, is thinking about sending its bloodmobiles to summer resorts around the country. The government is behind the drive, too. For instance, the State Department goal is 900 pints.

The United Mine Workers Journal has a lovely lady named Margaret Moran, who forever is looking for ways to save the common man money. She says sauerkraut with sausage, wieners, pig-knuckles, fried liver or baked fish is right fine and won't cut too deep into the take-home. She has all the recipes.

And speaking of frying pans and aprons and the like, don't sell short on the angels of the press. The Women's National Press club baked a $20,000 dish when they put out their booklet called "who says we can't cook." That's not all. They're still selling 'em at about 350 copies a week.

Michigan's Future Grand Rapids, Mich.—(U.P.)—Michigan some day will pass Florida as the nation's No. 2 fruit and vegetable state and challenge California for top position, two Michigan State University horticultural exports predict.

Washington — (U.P.) — What's new in Washington:

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was asked a rather tricky question about meteorological balloons at a recent press conference. "That whole subject," he replied, "as I think somebody said about Russia, is a mystery wrapped in an enigma." That "somebody" was Winston Churchill.

President Eisenhower doesn't know it, but he's about to get a special gift from "one ardent fisherman to another."

According to my pipeline at Army Information Headquarters in Germany, Justinus Sturn of Munich worked for weeks making three spinners—all hand-tooled. Justinus tacked on a little note: "If my spinners work over here, they should work in American waters."

"Potri Heil." That is the fish-worm variety of greeting from one rod and reel man to another in Germany.

And while we are over there, here is a report from a U. S. Army claims officer who was approached by a German farmer after a Patton tank dug up his garden.

"How much was the damage?" asked Lt. John J. Cowan, of Chester, Pa.

"You owe me nothing," the farmer said. "My kids had a wonderful time at your party. I cannot ask you to pay for a few damaged potatoes."

The American Red Cross, desperate for whole blood, is thinking about sending its bloodmobiles to summer resorts around the country. The government is behind the drive, too. For instance, the State Department goal is 900 pints.

The United Mine Workers Journal has a lovely lady named Margaret Moran, who forever is looking for ways to save the common man money. She says sauerkraut with sausage, wieners, pig-knuckles, fried liver or baked fish is right fine and won't cut too deep into the take-home. She has all the recipes.

And speaking of frying pans and aprons and the like, don't sell short on the angels of the press. The Women's National Press club baked a $20,000 dish when they put out their booklet called "who says we can't cook." That's not all. They're still selling 'em at about 350 copies a week.

Michigan's Future Grand Rapids, Mich.—(U.P.)—Michigan some day will pass Florida as the nation's No. 2 fruit and vegetable state and challenge California for top position, two Michigan State University horticultural exports predict.

Washington — (U.P.) — What's new in Washington:

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was asked a rather tricky question about meteorological balloons at a recent press conference. "That whole subject," he replied, "as I think somebody said about Russia, is a mystery wrapped in an enigma." That "somebody" was Winston Churchill.

President Eisenhower doesn't know it, but he's about to get a special gift from "one ardent fisherman to another."

According to my pipeline at Army Information Headquarters in Germany, Justinus Sturn of Munich worked for weeks making three spinners—all hand-tooled. Justinus tacked on a little note: "If my spinners work over here, they should work in American waters."

"Potri Heil." That is the fish-worm variety of greeting from one rod and reel man to another in Germany.

And while we are over there, here is a report from a U. S. Army claims officer who was approached by a German farmer after a Patton tank dug up his garden.

"How much was the damage?" asked Lt. John J. Cowan, of Chester, Pa.

"You owe me nothing," the farmer said. "My kids had a wonderful time at your party. I cannot ask you to pay for a few damaged potatoes."

The American Red Cross, desperate for whole blood, is thinking about sending its bloodmobiles to summer resorts around the country. The government is behind the drive, too. For instance, the State Department goal is 900 pints.

The United Mine Workers Journal has a lovely lady named Margaret Moran, who forever is looking for ways to save the common man money. She says sauerkraut with sausage, wieners, pig-knuckles, fried liver or baked fish is right fine and won't cut too deep into the take-home. She has all the recipes.

And speaking of frying pans and aprons and the like, don't sell short on the angels of the press. The Women's National Press club baked a $20,000 dish when they put out their booklet called "who says we can't cook." That's not all. They're still selling 'em at about 350 copies a week.

Michigan's Future Grand Rapids, Mich.—(U.P.)—Michigan some day will pass Florida as the nation's No. 2 fruit and vegetable state and challenge California for top position, two Michigan State University horticultural exports predict.

Washington — (U.P.) — What's new in Washington:

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was asked a rather tricky question about meteorological balloons at a recent press conference. "That whole subject," he replied, "as I think somebody said about Russia, is a mystery wrapped in an enigma." That "somebody" was Winston Churchill.

President Eisenhower doesn't know it, but he's about to get a special gift from "one ardent fisherman to another."

According to my pipeline at Army Information Headquarters in Germany, Justinus Sturn of Munich worked for weeks making three spinners—all hand-tooled. Justinus tacked on a little note: "If my spinners work over here, they should work in American waters."

"Potri Heil." That is the fish-worm variety of greeting from one rod and reel man to another in Germany.

Comment On This and That

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS United Press Feature Writer

Washington — (U.P.) — What's new in Washington:

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was asked a rather tricky question about meteorological balloons at a recent press conference. "That whole subject," he replied, "as I think somebody said about Russia, is a mystery wrapped in an enigma." That "somebody" was Winston Churchill.

President Eisenhower doesn't know it, but he's about to get a special gift from "one ardent fisherman to another."

According to my pipeline at Army Information Headquarters in Germany, Justinus Sturn of Munich worked for weeks making three spinners—all hand-tooled. Justinus tacked on a little note: "If my spinners work over here, they should work in American waters."

"Potri Heil." That is the fish-worm variety of greeting from one rod and reel man to another in Germany.

And while we are over there, here is a report from a U. S. Army claims officer who was approached by a German farmer after a Patton tank dug up his garden.

"How much was the damage?" asked Lt. John J. Cowan, of Chester, Pa.

"You owe me nothing," the farmer said. "My kids had a wonderful time at your party. I cannot ask you to pay for a few damaged potatoes."

The American Red Cross, desperate for whole blood, is thinking about sending its bloodmobiles to summer resorts around the country. The government is behind the drive, too. For instance, the State Department goal is 900 pints.

The United Mine Workers Journal has a lovely lady named Margaret Moran, who forever is looking for ways to save the common man money. She says sauerkraut with sausage, wieners, pig-knuckles, fried liver or baked fish is right fine and won't cut too deep into the take-home. She has all the recipes.

And speaking of frying pans and aprons and the like, don't sell short on the angels of the press. The Women's National Press club baked a $20,000 dish when they put out their booklet called "who says we can't cook." That's not all. They're still selling 'em at about 350 copies a week.

Michigan's Future Grand Rapids, Mich.—(U.P.)—Michigan some day will pass Florida as the nation's No. 2 fruit and vegetable state and challenge California for top position, two Michigan State University horticultural exports predict.

Washington — (U.P.) — What's new in Washington:

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was asked a rather tricky question about meteorological balloons at a recent press conference. "That whole subject," he replied, "as I think somebody said about Russia, is a mystery wrapped in an enigma." That "somebody" was Winston Churchill.

President Eisenhower doesn't know it, but he's about to get a special gift from "one ardent fisherman to another."

According to my pipeline at Army Information Headquarters in Germany, Justinus Sturn of Munich worked for weeks making three spinners—all hand-tooled. Justinus tacked on a little note: "If my spinners work over here, they should work in American waters."

"Potri Heil." That is the fish-worm variety of greeting from one rod and reel man to another in Germany.

And while we are over there, here is a report from a U. S. Army claims officer who was approached by a German farmer after a Patton tank dug up his garden.

"How much was the damage?" asked Lt. John J. Cowan, of Chester, Pa.

"You owe me nothing," the farmer said. "My kids had a wonderful time at your party. I cannot ask you to pay for a few damaged potatoes."

The American Red Cross, desperate for whole blood, is thinking about sending its bloodmobiles to summer resorts around the country. The government is behind the drive, too. For instance, the State Department goal is 900 pints.

The United Mine Workers Journal has a lovely lady named Margaret Moran, who forever is looking for ways to save the common man money. She says sauerkraut with sausage, wieners, pig-knuckles, fried liver or baked fish is right fine and won't cut too deep into the take-home. She has all the recipes.

And speaking of frying pans and aprons and the like, don't sell short on the angels of the press. The Women's National Press club baked a $20,000 dish when they put out their booklet called "who says we can't cook." That's not all. They're still selling 'em at about 350 copies a week.

Michigan's Future Grand Rapids, Mich.—(U.P.)—Michigan some day will pass Florida as the nation's No. 2 fruit and vegetable state and challenge California for top position, two Michigan State University horticultural exports predict.

Washington — (U.P.) — What's new in Washington:

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was asked a rather tricky question about meteorological balloons at a recent press conference. "That whole subject," he replied, "as I think somebody said about Russia, is a mystery wrapped in an enigma." That "somebody" was Winston Churchill.

President Eisenhower doesn't know it, but he's about to get a special gift from "one ardent fisherman to another."

According to my pipeline at Army Information Headquarters in Germany, Justinus Sturn of Munich worked for weeks making three spinners—all hand-tooled. Justinus tacked on a little note: "If my spinners work over here, they should work in American waters."

"Potri Heil." That is the fish-worm variety of greeting from one rod and reel man to another in Germany.

And while we are over there, here is a report from a U. S. Army claims officer who was approached by a German farmer after a Patton tank dug up his garden.

"How much was the damage?" asked Lt. John J. Cowan, of Chester, Pa.

"You owe me nothing," the farmer said. "My kids had a wonderful time at your party. I cannot ask you to pay for a few damaged potatoes."