

Renaissance In Cougar Sports Seen

By PAT KILLEN
San Francisco — (U.P.) — If new head coach Jim Sutherland develops athletes as well as Washington State college as he did at Santa Monica High, then watch for a great renaissance in athletics at the Cougar school.

Because, spotted around the country in various types of sports jobs, are dozens of athletes developed by Sutherland.

When Parry O'Brien reared back and threw the shot put farther than any human last Saturday, it must have been a certain source of satisfaction to Sutherland. He started Parry in that business.

When Ronnie Knox throws a pass for UCLA and completes it, Sutherland must say to himself, "I knew it," because he coached Ronnie in high school, too.

Started McLaughlin

And when Leon McLaughlin tosses a particularly resounding block for the Los Angeles Rams, Sutherland can say "I expected it" because he started McLaughlin on the road to fame.

These are just a few of the men that got their start under Sutherland.

In 1952 after O'Brien had won the Olympics in Helsinki and set a new standard there, his parents told this reporter that Sutherland was one of the three men responsible for his even being in Finland.

Mr. and Mrs. Parry O'Brien Sr. of Santa Monica, Calif., said that Parry credited Sutherland, Jess Mortenson, freshman track coach at the University of Southern California, and Jess Hill, former track coach and now head football mentor at USC with guiding him to the Olympic winner's platform.

Strong Boy

Sutherland coached football and track at Santa Monica high school when O'Brien was a growing lad. During the track season he worked on the Santa Monica strong boy and did a lot to develop his shot put talents which led to a Southern California high school record in his senior year.

Sutherland also developed the following players:

Dick Horn, former quarterback and safety man for Stanford.

Ike Jones, offensive end for UCLA's 1954 Rose Bowl team.

Sandy Lederman, University of Washington quarterback who was touted as the best Northwest field general and passer since Don Heinrich before he broke his arm during the 1953 season.

YMCA Bounces Rogue River Five For AAU Subdistrict Hoop Title

Medford YMCA last night won the Jackson-Josephine county AAU subdistrict basketball championship and a berth in the four-team district play-off this week end.

The Y survived its own lapse and a Rogue River comeback to defeat the Merchants 63 to 60 in subdistrict finals at Rogue River. Medford's crew joined the Myrtle Point Townies and Skeet's tavern of Klamath Falls in the play-off to decide the district's state tournament entry. Rogue River and Firmco of Myrtle Creek are to tangle at Grants Pass tonight for the fourth position. District tourney action is scheduled Saturday and Sunday nights with games to be played at Rogue River.

YMCA dominated the backboards throughout the fracas last night. During the first half the Medford team hit with regularity from the field but in the early part of the second half cooled off. That coldness almost proved their undoing. Sharp-shooting from the gift line, however, kept them in the game.

MEDFORD TRIBUNE SPORTS

Jackie Puscas Cops NW Golden Mitt Toga

Seattle — (U.P.) — Jackie Puscas and the Moyer brothers, Phil and Denny, led Oregon to its second straight team title in the Northwest Golden Gloves tournament here last night.

Puscas, fighting out of Medford, knocked out Dave Peters of Portland in the second round in the lightweight division. He is defending national AAU lightweight king.

Phil Moyer won the light-middleweight crown by decisioning Henry Brown of the USS Essex, Bremerton. Denny took the welterweight crown with a win over Freddie Ward of Kent, Wash. Willie Richardson of Portland, in the light-heavyweight class, and Louie Johnson, Portland bantamweight, also grabbed titles.

Loren Christie of Medford was knocked out by Richardson in the semi-finals in the first round. Richardson decisioned Willis Mitchell of Seattle for the title. Johnson won a decision over defending champion George Hobson of Everett in the bantamweight class.

Ducks, OSC Eye Tussles

Oregon's Ducks flew to Los Angeles today for a week end series with the high-riding UCLA Bruins, while Coach Slats Gill readied his Oregon State basketball team for an invasion by the Idaho Vandals.

Oregon meets UCLA Friday night and in a regionally-televized game Saturday afternoon. The Ducks were to work out tonight in a high school gym.

Oregon State finds itself favored to knock off the Vandals in the Friday and Saturday night series at Corvallis. OSC has won 96 and lost 41 in the series with Idaho dating back to 1910.

GOOD BIRD POPULATION

Portland — Spring census of upland game birds in the north Willamette valley was completed on February 15 and has shown a good population of pheasants and quail, according to Mel Cummings, district biologist, Oregon Game commission. Sixty-three sample areas, totalling 3,711 acres of pheasant-quail habitat, were covered in the survey. The survey revealed an average of 13.5 pheasants per 100 acres, an increase over last year's count of 10.8 birds per 100 acres.

FINKS TO NOTRE DAME

Pittsburgh — (U.P.) — Jim Finks star quarterback for seven years with the Pittsburgh Steelers notified them that he is quitting to become an assistant football coach at Notre Dame. A spokesman for the Steelers said Finks had been dickering with the university since the end of the National Football League season.

Ed Machen Gets Verdict Over Cuban

San Francisco — (U.P.) — The question of whether Eddie Machen can take it or not remained a moot one today but there was no doubt he is a happy gleam in the eye of the International Boxing club.

The sharp-shooting heavy-weight from Redding, Calif., went before the national TV audience Wednesday night with only 11 professional fights under his belt and punched out a unanimous 10-round decision over experienced Julio Mederos of Cuba.

Machen weighed 193, Mederos 191.

IBC Secretary Truman Gibson, beaming in concert with Sid Flaherty, who handles Machen, said that a fight between handsome Eddie and Nino Valdez, "would be a good bout," and predicted it may be held here in about six weeks.

Valdez originally was supposed to have met Machen Wednesday night, but dropped out with a broken nose.

Few Jolts

Macheros, a workhorse who knocked out Roland La Starza early last year, never landed enough jolts to Machen's curly head for observers to tell if Eddie can take a punch.

But the Cuban showed he could take plenty himself when Machen staggered him with a repeating right-left blast in the sixth round and followed it up with a shower of lefts and rights in the seventh that had Mederos wobbling.

Machen, who took the first four rounds to get the television jitters out of his system, never was able to deck his opponent although he belted him with approximately a dozen lefts and rights to an unprotected jaw in the lop-sided seventh.

NCAA Names Seattle To Tournament List

By JOE SARGIS

United Press Sports Writer

Oklahoma City and Seattle joined the growing list of teams named to the NCAA's basketball championship today and Little St. Joseph's College of Philadelphia just about clinched a berth in the National Invitation tournament by scoring its second big upset victory in a week.

The NCAA named Oklahoma City (17-53 and Seattle (15-10) to at-large berths in its 25-team tournament.

Other teams previously named to the NCAA tourney include Holy Cross (20-4), at large, Connecticut (17-8), Yankee Conference, Memphis State (16-5) at large, Marshall (17-3), Mid American, and Idaho State (16-7), Rocky Mountain. First round play gets underway in New York, Fort Wayne and at two as yet unnamed sites, March 12 and 13.

St. Joe racked up its 17th win in 21 starts by upsetting eighth ranked Temple, 77-68, Wednesday night.

The NCAA probably will make a bid for St. Joseph's, but officials of the loosely-knit Middle Atlantic Conference aren't expected to make their choice between the Hawks, Temple, Lafayette and Muhlenberg until next week. St. Joe more than likely will grab at the invitation if the backers of the NIT offer one in the next couple of days, thus paving the way for Temple (20-2) to be named to the NCAA tourney.

Already named to the 12-team NIT carnival are Louisville (21-3), Seton Hall (18-3), third-ranked Dayton (21-2), Niagara (18-5), Duquesne, the defending champion (11-9), Marquette (11-9), Xavier of Ohio (14-8) and St. Francis, N.Y., (18-1). First round play in the NIT is scheduled for March 17 in Madison Square Garden.

Black Tornado Faces Cavemen Here Friday

Southern Oregon Conference basketball reaches the end of the 1955 trail this week end. The championship and state tourney qualifiers are already decided but that won't deter the also-rans in their efforts to embarrass the leaders and improve their own records in the final opportunity.

Medford championship Black Tornado plays Grants Pass high while runner-up Klamath Falls vies at Ashland. In games at Medford Friday and in the Caveman gym on Saturday, Grants Pass will be aiming to keep out of the loop cellar while at Ashland the Grizzlies will be trying to climb out of it.

The Tornado enters its Caveman series without the pressure of crucial play upon it but with knowledge that it will still have to be "up" to trim the Cavemen.

While not underestimating the Cavemen because of their poor record, the Medfordites still like the thought of a couple more tough games to help them groom for the state A-1 tournament at Eugene. The week end tussles will be the last for both Medford and Klamath Falls before the mid-March jaunts to the University of Oregon campus.

GP Can Be Tough

That Grants Pass can give Medford a battle was shown in the previous series in January when the Tornado won 42 to 39 and 67 to 57. Tornado hope is that its big men will give them the same backboard control and scoring they provided in the second conflict for both series this week end.

The Cavemen almost upended the Medfordites in the 42 to 39 first brush with a slow 'em down offensive which gave them control of the ball much of the way and with a tight defense. Coach Ray Davis may have the GP crew using the same strategy

Orange Grapplers Defeat Cougars

Pullman, Wash. — (U.P.) — Oregon State College wrestlers, defending Pacific Coast champions, downed Washington State 22-6 last night.

The only pin in the bouts was in the 147-pound class when Oregon State's Gordy Gretz pinned WSC's Bill Randall in 1:40 of the first period.

Washington State forfeited the heavyweight division because its only man in that division was a freshman. An exhibition bout in that class, however, saw Al Williamson of WSC pin Oregon State's Jim Schuster in 2:26 of the first period.

Stengel and the Washington Senators revealed that Dean Stone, star rookie pitcher of 1954, is a holdout.

Friday game here will be at the Hedrick junior high gymnasium. Junior varsity clubs will collide in 6:45 p.m. prelims both nights.

Brooklyn Dodgers No Prima Donnas

By UNITED PRESS

The Brooklyn Dodgers served notice on their rivals today that winning a world championship hasn't made them prima donnas.

Four of the team's highest-paid stars—pitcher Don Newcombe, catcher Ray Campanella, first-baseman Gil Hodges and outfielder Carl Furillo—worked as industriously as the lowest sub Wednesday when Manager Walt Alston greeted his "advance guard" of 27 pitchers and catchers.

Newcombe, who had been advised by a doctor to go slow because of a recent virus attack, was the first man on the field. A 20-game winner last season, "Big Newk" looked like an 18-year-old minor leaguer determined to win a job by impressing the manager with a fast start in training.

Also, the American League champion New York Yankees' pitchers and catchers started workouts under Manager Casey
