

LANDSLIDES HIT BRAZIL TOO—Brazil has joined the many countries throughout the world suffering from tragic landslides. Here rescuers carry out a victim who was trapped in home demolished by landslide caused by torrential rains in coffee-growing town of Santos. Thirty persons lost their lives and the toll is expected to go higher.

Surgeon Tortured by Sadistic Burglar; Both Hands Mangled

Evansville, Ind. — (U.P.) — A wealthy surgeon said today he thinks he can still perform operations even though his hands were mangled by a sadistic burglar.

However Dr. Justis F. Wynn's medical colleagues weren't so sure. They said the torturer had gouged chunks of flesh from the 40-year-old doctor's hands and had left deep marks on his fingers.

The doctor may be injured much more seriously than he believes, they said.

Attacked in Bedroom
Wynn was attacked in the darkness of his bedroom early yesterday by a gunman who stole $3000 and then tortured him in an attempt to get more.

Donald Lockwood, 31, nephew of Wynn's brother-in-law, was arrested on an anonymous tip one hour later. He denied the attack and Wynn was to view him in a police lineup today.

Wynn said he was alone in his home and asleep after returning from a Florida vacation when he heard a voice asking "where is your money?"

"I was sure that it was a gun pressing against my stomach," the husky doctor said. He estimated its position and "grabbed for both the gun and the man."

The two men lurched around the room in a deadly struggle. Then the gun went off, missing the doctor, and he relaxed his grip. The burglar slugged him and Wynn "went down dazed."

Wrists Bound
"At this point my wrists were bound and ankles taped," he said. "The robber then rolled me over on my face and told me 'I'm going to use these pliers on your fingers until you tell me where the rest of the money is. He tried to get a grip on my thumbnails but the pliers slipped off. Then he started working on the flesh of my fingers. It felt as if he was pinching the flesh off my hands."

"I told him 'I make a living with these hands—if I had any money in the house I'd tell you where it was. But I don't have any!'"

The gunman finally gave up his torture and left.

Only Three Major Spots Require Chains on Autos
Salem — (U.P.) — The State Highway Department said chains were required at only three major spots around the state today.

—Timberline, Government Camp and Warm Springs junction. Highway officials advised motorists to carry chains, however, at Green Springs and Santiam pass.

Water content of snow above 5000 feet is 140 per cent of the 5000 year average and below the 5000 foot level the water content is 150 per cent of the average. Record-breaking snows have been measured in the Rogue-Klamath area and in the Willowa mountains.

Reservoir water supplies are generally excellent. Other reservoirs are assured adequate inflow from the present snow cover, Frost said.

Stored water in 20 important irrigation reservoirs is 44 per cent greater than last year at this time and 9 per cent above average.

Spring water flows are expected to equal or surpass record highs in the Malheur, Burnt, Powder, Innaha, Willowa, Applegate, John Day, Grande Ronde, Illinois, Rogue, Klamath and Warner Lake basins.

School in Police Methods Starts at City Hall Today

A school in advanced police methods for law enforcement officers from this area started at the Medford city hall today.

The classes are sponsored by the Oregon Association of City Police Officers and the Oregon State Sheriffs association, and include 21 hours of instruction. Medford Police Chief Charles Champlin is in charge of local arrangements.

Subjects Listed
Subjects include public relations, the Constitution of the United States, the local law enforcement officer, burglary investigation and suppression techniques, functions of the state board of parole and probation, basic fingerprinting, uniform report writing and use of notebooks, information resources of state agencies, traffic accident investigation, interrogations, and confessions and signed statements.

The League of Oregon Cities and the bureau of municipal research and service of the University of Oregon are cooperating in conducting the classes. Instructors include Julius Rice, special federal bureau of investigation agent; John E. Nolan, detective sergeant, Portland; Hal Randall, director, state board of parole and probation, Salem; John T. Truett, Bend police chief; Lt. Paul Morgan, Oregon State police; and Vern Hill, Eugene police chief.

Creswell Farmer To Get More Orphans

Creswell, Ore. — (U.P.) — Harry Holt, the Creswell farmer who last year brought 12 Korean war orphans to this country and adopted eight of them himself is going back for 500 more.

He said "Lots of these orphans have died for lack of care this winter and we want to get them over here as quickly as possible."

Holt is particularly interested in rescuing the half American-half Korean offspring of American servicemen and Korean mothers. He said between 200 and 500 of them remain in Korea. There are about 250,000 full-blooded Korean orphans.

Working with Holt is the World Vision religious organization which maintains orphanages in Korea. It was the Portland-headquartered organization which helped Holt cut through red tape to bring the 12 children to the United States last year.

Compromise Proposal For High Supports Gets Cool Reception

Washington — (U.P.) — Backers and opponents of high, rigid price supports for basic farm crops were cool today to a compromise proposal to return to 90 per cent of parity supports for this year only.

The compromise feeler advanced as the Senate neared a show-down on a Democratic bill to provide for 90 per cent supports this year and next year for corn, cotton, peanuts, millable wheat and rice consumed domestically.

Sen. Francis Case, (R-S.D.), said that he probably would offer an amendment calling for 90 per cent supports for this year only if the reaction of enough senators is favorable.

Compromise Rejected
But leaders in the farm bill fight abruptly rejected the compromise. Chairman Allen J. Ellender (D-La.), of the Senate Agriculture committee said he will stick with his committee's bill in its present form.

Sen. George D. Aiken (D-Vt.), leader of the flexible support forces, said that President Eisenhower wouldn't sign a farm bill calling for 90 per cent supports for either one or two years.

Voting will start on the farm measure tomorrow with the first vote on the price support issue. The administration opposes ditching the present flexible price support program in favor of 90 per cent supports.

Both 90 per cent and flexible support forces claimed to have lined up enough votes to win. But they agreed the outcome would be close and might be changed by last-minute decisions of a few senators.

Strenuous Schedule
Senate leaders set up a strenuous schedule in an effort to get a final vote on the measure before adjournment Friday. Debate continued until 9:39 (EST) last night. Another late session was probable tonight.

These two late sessions are designed to give senators an opportunity to get speeches into the record before voting starts. But they knew there was virtually no chance of the speeches influencing any votes. At last night's session Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn.), who favors the bill, spoke to an audience that included only himself and the presiding officer.

Brothers Win $32,000 On Television Quiz
New York — (U.P.) — A team of two brothers won $32,000 on a television quiz program last night by answering a series of questions on English literature.

The brothers, James L. and William E. Egan, Hartford, Conn., both are attorneys. They have put a new twist into the CBS television program, "The $64,000 Question," by volunteering to answer questions from various categories instead of just one category.

Albany's Millmen's Union Files Unfair Practice

Portland — (U.P.) — The Albany local of the Millmen's union yesterday filed unfair labor practices charges in Federal District Court here against Linn Plywood Corp.

The Albany plant has been idled by a strike of more than 200 workers. Herman Schmunk, business agent for the union, said the local's complaint charged the cooperative firm with violation of its union agreement.

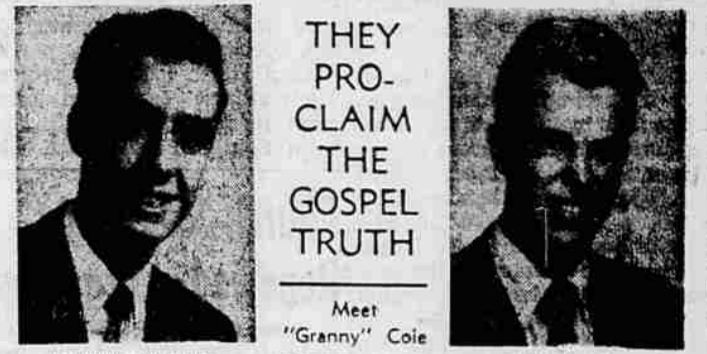

About 40 of the firm's employees are shareholders. Several gallons of sap are required to produce one gallon of maple syrup.

Fruit Tree Spray Blamed for Death

Milton-Freewater — (U.P.) — James H. Bolar, 20, died from drinking a poisonous fruit tree spray, thinking it was wine.

Louis Olson, owner of the farm here where Bolar found the deadly liquid in a wine bottle, confirmed that it was spray when he learned of the incident from police. Olson was away from the farm at the time of the incident.

Bolar and a 15-year-old companion were looking for scrap metal and old bottles Sunday to sell for "movie money" when Bolar found the bottle and drank its contents. He was dead before he could be taken to a hospital.

Water Supply in Oregon Seen Good

Portland — (U.P.) — The exceptionally heavy snow fall in Oregon this year will mean "good" to "abundant" spring and summer water supplies, the U.S. Soil Conservation Service said today. The record breaking depth of snow in the mountains also may mean flooding in many areas this spring, W. T. Frost, Oregon snow survey supervisor, said.

Water content of snow above 5000 feet is 140 per cent of the 5000 year average and below the 5000 foot level the water content is 150 per cent of the average. Record-breaking snows have been measured in the Rogue-Klamath area and in the Willowa mountains.

Reservoir water supplies are generally excellent. Other reservoirs are assured adequate inflow from the present snow cover, Frost said.

Stored water in 20 important irrigation reservoirs is 44 per cent greater than last year at this time and 9 per cent above average.

Spring water flows are expected to equal or surpass record highs in the Malheur, Burnt, Powder, Innaha, Willowa, Applegate, John Day, Grande Ronde, Illinois, Rogue, Klamath and Warner Lake basins.

Western Air Lines Negotiations Off

Los Angeles — (U.P.) — Negotiations between Western Air Lines and the striking Brotherhood of Railway Clerks have broken off in a dispute over the union shop issue.

Leverette Edwards, chairman of the Federal Mediation Board, said hopes for an early settlement of a prolonged strike against the company were set back yesterday when negotiators walked out. He said no further meetings have been scheduled.

Edwards said negotiations failed after the company turned down a union proposal that the 850 clerks return to work providing Western would submit the union shop question to a union vote.

Meanwhile, new contracts were pending between the company and two other unions, the Air Lines Pilots association and the International Association of Machinists. Edwards said all three contracts must be signed before Western could resume operations in 12 Western states and Canada.

The three-day dispute has grounded the company since Jan. 9. More than 2000 employees have been idled.
