Detroit — (U.P.) — The father of a 5-month-old boy who was savagely chewed by rats today vowed to burn his slum home if the child dies.

Washington State Places Embargo on Turkey Shipments

Portland — (U.P.) — The state of Washington issued an embargo yesterday on importation from Oregon of live turkeys, poult and turkey hatching eggs as result of an outbreak of psittacosis in two Oregon turkey flocks.

Sverre Omdahl, Washington state agriculture director, said the embargo order was effective immediately. He added that he hoped the order could be modified as soon as infected areas are defined.

Turkey growers in the two states said the embargo would work a considerable hardship on both sides of the state line. Normally there is a large movement of both hatching eggs and poult between the two states.

Flocks Quarantined

The Oregon agriculture department has placed under quarantine the two flocks where the pneumonia-like disease broke out. One is located at Scappoose and the other on Sauvie Island.

Two persons died in Oregon last week as a result of what has been preliminarily listed as psittacosis. In one of the cases, though, Dr. Harold Erickson, state health officer, said the primary cause of death has been attributed to pneumonia with psittacosis as a possible secondary cause.

Some 30 other persons in Oregon who had been in contact with the infected birds, have been reported ill of the disease. Dr. Erickson said there are indications that persons other than the 30 listed last week have contacted psittacosis.

PROSPECT

By MONA ODOM
Miss Bonny Holmes, former student from Prospect High school, is in the Sacred Heart hospital of Medford. Her condition is not serious and she will return home shortly.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Burrill and family have been in Portland over the week end visiting relatives. They will return home the first of the week.

Airman 3rd class Bob Darrohn and Morris Jones, who have been home on furlough visiting their parents, returned to their air base in California, Sunday, March 11. When they return to base they will be sent to Florida.

The Prospect Junior-Senior prom was held in the Medford hotel Friday, March 9. There were about 40 who attended. This is the first year the prom has been held in Medford.

Mrs. Helen Hubbard of Prospect returned home Sunday after being in the hospital. She is feeling like her own self again.

than 20 times on the face and arm.

The thumb and little finger of one hand virtually were chewed away. The infant's face was raw from bites on his tongue, nose, chin and cheek by the rodents which invaded his crib.

Condition Serious

Doctors said Nathaniel's condition was "serious" and it would be some time before they learned whether infection sets in. A hospital spokesman said a rat's bite was second in danger of infection only to that of a human.

Cannors made the gruesome discovery when he awoke early Monday in his dark, grimy 5-room flat. His wife, Marion, 20, said she fed the baby—who has three brothers under four years of age—at 2 a.m. and noticed nothing wrong.

Policewomen described the second-floor rear flat as a "filthy hovel." They said the dwelling, one of four in the building, was unpainted and littered with debris.

Mrs. Connors was held for investigation of neglect.

Connors said he had complained about rats to the landlord, Ben Magid, and was given some powder and wood fabric and wire to plug up the holes.

"If my baby dies, I'm going to burn that place down."

Magid said he had arranged for repairs which were to begin this week. A workman was on the job Monday—fixing another dwelling which had been damaged by fire nearly a month ago.

Robert L. Hansen, a Health Department inspector, said he would recommend that Magid repair the building within 30 days or vacate the premises.

Dying Winter Pulls Double Reverse Act

By UNITED PRESS
The dying winter pulled a double reverse act today, chilling the Southwest with a cold wave and boosting temperatures in the Dakotas.

The cold wave bit all the way to the Gulf of Mexico and Texas' temperatures dropped 20 to 30 degrees. Laredo came down from 75 to 46 and Brownsville from 71 to 50.

New Mexico also got a cold snap, with temperatures dropping 20 to 35 degrees. But in North Dakota, the mercury climbed as much as 40 degrees, going from 20 below to a still-chilly 20 above at Bismarck.

Rains accompanied the cold front, which stretched from Southeast Texas northeastward through the lower Mississippi Valley, Alabama, Tennessee, and the middle Atlantic Coast states.

The nation's coldest state was Wisconsin, where it was five below zero at Wausau and four below at Lone Rock.

The petition, to avoid court costs for the action, will be argued March 19.

Chief Judge William Denman of the appeals court granted the right for a new appeal on Feb. 27, after Federal Judge Louis E. Goodman had denied a Chessman petition for a new trial.
