

Louisiana Accident Victim's Identity Remains Confused

Luling, La.—(U.P.)—A woman's identity, once concealed by her coma and then her death from an automobile collision, today was again confused by a babel of aliases.

A funeral home shipped the bodies of cattle buyer Oscar Eugene Hoskins and his woman companion to Phoenix, for burial without definitely establishing her identity.

Hoskins, 43, was killed instantly in the collision two days ago and the woman died early yesterday without giving her name. Personal effects of the couple gave no inkling of her identity.

Hoskins' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hoskins, of Phoenix claimed both bodies in the belief that she was his bride.

Trace Woman

Authorities through a six-state investigation meanwhile traced the woman to Odessa, Tex., where police believed she had used as many as six names. The name apparently last used was Leona Wells Mantooth, 45, Odessa police said. She was booked at Odessa for drunken driving.

Hoskins, 43, Washburn, Mo., was quickly identified by his papers and a packet of money orders in his car totaling $17,500. Police also found a blank marriage license in the car.

Police at Washburn said Hoskins, who came there as a cattle buyer about eight months ago from Medford, Ore., could not read or write and frequently carried large sums of money. He left Washburn a week ago, police said.

Chief Deputy Sheriff P. D. Lorio Jr., said a tavern owner near the accident scene in Boutte, La., told him the couple had been in "for a beer or two" and said they were celebrating their marriage.

On The Side

By E. V. Durling

The Institute of Masculine Beauty is a Paris establishment for the improvement of male appearance. Also specializes in cures for the feeling known as a hangover. A similar establishment would do well here. If a woman can be made to appear fifteen years younger than she is why not her husband? Then he can compete with any rivals should his wife get too many "young ideas." The "beauty" should be eliminated from the title of the establishment. Men don't want to feel they are patronizing a beauty shop. Name should be "The Institute of Masculine Appearance Improvement."

Incidentally, Ferragamo says the belief Garbo has large feet is erroneous. That her feet are just about right in size for one of her height.

Phoenix Grange

The meeting of Phoenix Grange March 13 was well attended. Several visitors were present for the lecturer's program, which preceded the regular meeting and was open to the public.

Mrs. Frank Perl showed colored slides taken in Italy and Denmark and in the vicinity of the Mediterranean sea. Many large and old churches and buildings, and their elaborate architectural designs and decorations were described.

The ruins of Pompeii, the city destroyed in 79 A.D. by the eruption of Mt. Vesuvius, Monte Carlo, Eiffel Tower, Isle of Capri, Monaco and the Palace of Monaco and other places of interest which she visited were shown, and described, as well as several slides of children and people she met.

Grange meeting was called to order at 9 p.m. Charles Hocker-smith, reporting on agriculture, gave an account of the chamber of commerce meeting in Medford which he attended as a visitor. The Talent irrigation project was discussed there. The prospect of more manufacturing plants for southern Oregon was considered as handicapped by the distance from material and labor, and also there was no way of disposing of the water, used in such plants without polluting streams.

Another subject of interest to agriculture was the soil bank, which if put into effect would create a big demand for grass seeds.

Alfalfa weevil seems to be gaining headway in Oregon, and is likely due to hay being shipped in from other states where they have been infested by the insect for some time.

Reporting on horticulture, Jake Arnold told of the damage done to apple trees in the state of Washington, by large herds of elk and deer. As many as 3200 of the animals were literally stripping the trees which had already been damaged by freezing.

It is almost impossible to drive them from the orchards because of deep snow, cold, and hunger. He reported Oregon orchards in good condition.

Dee Hendrickson reported that many of the newly constructed warehouses in Washington had caved in and fruit stored therein a total loss.
