Truman Rites To Be Simple

New York — (U.P.) — Margaret Truman went ahead today with plans for a simple wedding minus traditional trimmings in her home town on April 21.

The long white dress and the sentimental solos both will be missing when she weds E. Clinton Daniel, 43, Miss Truman said in a news conference late Monday. She will wear a short beige dress made in Rome by designer Nicole Fontana and have only organ music.

The 32-year-old daughter of former President Truman, who is frankly sentimental about true love and old acquaintances, is not superstitious about wedding customs. She said she won't even wear "the usual something old, something new, etc.," unless somebody in the family insists.

Miss Truman disclosed her future wedding plans in person a day before she discussed her past boy friends in print in the second installment of her memoirs, "Souvenir," appearing in Good Housekeeping magazine.

Only the two families will be invited to the 4 p.m. ceremony in the Trinity Episcopal church in Independence, Mo., where her mother and father also were married, Miss Truman said. Only old and close friends will attend the reception at the Truman home afterwards, she said, and added, "Mother is running most of this anyway, so I don't know all the details."

Her two attendants will be Mrs. John E. Horton, the former Druce Snyder, and Mrs. W. Coleman Blanton, the former Mary Shaw, both of whom are mentioned frequently in her memoirs, including references to their first love.

Miss Truman names more than a dozen of her own escorts in the White House, but she omits the name of the suitor who first proposed marriage in 1948.

"Much as I liked him, he wasn't the one," she wrote, adding that she always wanted a man who would sweep her off her feet. "Who will tell me what to do in no uncertain terms and see that I do it."

If the regular Episcopal wedding ceremony includes the word "obey" she told reporters Monday, that is fine with her. She thinks it is "splitting hairs" to omit it.

Shady Cove HEC Holds Meeting at Dusenberry Home

Shady Cove—A St. Patrick's day theme was used for decorations at the March 13 meeting of Shady Cove Home Economics club and one of the members read the history of St. Patrick's day.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Lewis Dusenberry, and Mrs. Harry Harding, master of the Upper Rogue Grange, was among those who attended. A dessert luncheon was served.

During the business session the women voted to support the Spencer Memorial fund and the child's Guidance Clinic.

Mrs. Cecil Kee and Mrs. Walter Cross were given past president's pins.

The group will enter a float in the annual Pear festival parade to be held in Medford and Mrs. Travis Littlefield has been appointed to take charge of arrangements for the float.

Also during the meeting Mrs. Bertoglio presented the club a set of tablespoons for the Grange hall dining room.

A meeting was planned Thursday, March 22, as a work day to complete quilts and is to be held at the Phil Motchenbacher home. Sack lunches will be needed for the all-day session. Mrs. Ed Hosten is in charge of the project and household articles and clothing also are being collected to be available if needed for welfare work.

Eight Home Colors Promote Harmony, Decorator Declares

West Hartford, Conn.—(U.P.)—A gal's chance of living happily with her husband is greater if she also is in harmony with her house.

Hawley, who has been a decorator for 51 years, says if a red-haired wife nags hubby it may not be the fault of either. It could be because her home has red walls or furnishings.

Hawley has found that women with red hair have an east-going temperament if their homes are decorated in blends of blue, gray and rose. Red is fine on the head of a woman or on the walls of a house but put 'em both together and they clash.

But a red motif is dandy for brunettes. "Brunettes like bright colors," said Hawley. "They love red and green."

Two Return

Mrs. Virgie Garner and Agnes Ackerman returned home Saturday night after spending a week in southern California on vacation. They spent some time in Santa Barbara, also visited Knott's Berry farm.

Phil Hitchcock Speaks Here For Republican Luncheon

Jackson County Republican Women yesterday heard Phil Hitchcock, Republican candidate for nomination for the United States senate, outline his political ideas and review his background during the group's March meeting, held at the Jackson hotel. Mrs. R. J. Keeney, president, conducted the meeting and the Rev. George R. V. Bolster introduced Mr. Hitchcock. The Rev. D. Kirkland West gave the invocation.

The candidate, after pledging his support to the Eisenhower philosophy of humanitarian liberalism and financial responsibility, stated that one of the main issues of political campaigns this year is world peace, and that leadership of the right sort is essential if the world is to remain peaceful.

Mr. Hitchcock stated that prosperity without inflation would assure a stable economy in this country which in turn would be reflected in help for the rest of the world.

Mr. Hitchcock touched on the Eisenhower program for highways, federal aid to schools and on foreign policy and then reviewed his own record during the time he served as a member of the Oregon senate. This included support of civil rights, penal reforms and workmen's compensation; the speaker added that he thought he had always "been fair to labor" and that he had a high regard for the laboring man. The candidate said he was opposed to negative loyalty oaths.

In the question period he stated his support for United Nations and pointed out that he is president of the Portland chapter of Oregon United Nations association. The UN is the only organization through which "we can deal with our enemies and talk over world problems," Mr. Hitchcock declared.

He was questioned on his stand about power, and after explaining that there is a potential power shortage in the Pacific northwest, Mr. Hitchcock added that he believed some power projects were of the type which must be federally financed, and that others could be financed under the so-called "partnership" plan. "The Pacific northwest needs all the power it can get," he declared.

Questioned about the Bricker amendment, the candidate said he was opposed to it.

Mr. Hitchcock concluded by saying that he was untroubled by President Eisenhower's recent praise of Secretary McKay, who is also a candidate for the senate, and that he did not believe the president had meant to endorse one Republican candidate over another but only to commend Mr. McKay for his work as Secretary of the Interior.

In introducing Mr. Hitchcock, the Rev. Mr. Bolster praised him highly saying that he had known the candidate for many years and that he is a man of "unswerving loyalty, unquestioned integrity and of the highest moral character." The minister spoke of Mr. Hitchcock as an "outstanding layman" who is a former moderator of the Presbyterian church in Oregon and a former president of the Oregon Council of Churches.

In 1953 Mr. Hitchcock received the Oregon Brotherhood award from the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

Together with his public information representative, Frank Herbert, Mr. Hitchcock left Medford immediately after the luncheon for Roseburg where he was to meet with supporters at 4 p.m. He was booked for a meeting in Portland last night, will address a noon meeting of the Hood River Lions club today and tonight is to be guest speaker for the annual meeting of the Oregon Council of Churches in Milton-Freewater.

Prior to Mr. Hitchcock's introduction, the organization passed a resolution praising Mrs. Frank Bash, county Republican chairman, for her outstanding accomplishments and service to the party.

More than 150 members of the club, their guests and interested persons heard Mr. Hitchcock speak.

Later the group held a routine business meeting and made plans for further meetings to hear other candidates and to aid the Republican campaign in Medford and Jackson county this summer and fall. Plans to encourage registration, which is running behind that of 1954, were discussed.
