Applegate Fishing Club
The Applegate 4-H Fishing club went to Butte Falls fish hatchery March 10 to find out something about how fish are hatched. We saw thousands of little minnows. There were some fish just hatched that still had the egg sac attached to them. They get their food from this egg until they are about 45 days old. Then they are big enough to eat their own food. We saw rainbow trout and silver side salmon.

When we were coming back from Butte Falls we stopped at a gravel pit to eat our lunch. We met some people that were interested in finding rock crystals. The fishing club members all found some rock crystals to bring home.

Ex-Sweet Home Police Chief Held For Counterfeiting

Portland — (U.P.) — Federal agents said today a counterfeiting operation was nipped in the bud last night with the arrest of four persons, including a former Sweet Home chief of police.

Frank J. Kenney, special agent in charge of the secret service here, said the arrests were made at Clackamas and that a printing press, plates and a quantity of counterfeit $20 bills were found.

No bills had been passed into circulation, Kenney said.

Arrested were Orville Quincy Mitchell, 32, ex-chief of police at Sweet Home; Archie Lee Mishler, 48; Gordon August Bizard, 54, Clackamas; and Margaret Geraldine McIntosh, 19, a girl friend of Mitchell. They were booked on counterfeiting charges.

State, city and county officers joined in the arrests, made at Mishler's home.

Kenney said authorities had been gathering evidence on the operation for three or four months. He said it was believed plans called for having $80,000 in passable bills ready to circulate by Easter week. The bills found were still crude, he said.

Mitchell also is a former police officer at Bremerton, Wash. He was free on $3,000 bail on a bad check charge.

Sand Seen Solution To Disposal Problem

Portland — (U.P.) — O. H. Hinsdale, of the State Fish commission, said here yesterday that the sand dunes of the ocean shore may be a solution to the disposal problem of pulp waste in coastal streams.

Hinsdale told members of the commercial fishery's regulatory group that he expected the Georgia Pacific Plywood company, which proposes to build a mill in the Toledo area, to propose piping mill waste effluents past the "jaws" of the bay into the sand dunes.

Laughs of the Day . . .

Chicago — (U.P.) — Police Capt. William Hennessy told the story about how a German Dachshund got lost during the St. Patrick's Day parade.

The dog, named Fritzie, slipped his leash and went high-tailing after the marchers, Hennessy said.

Fritzie's owners had thought him lost but the dog turned up later at the home of Thomas Leahy, Hennessy said. "Leahy was having a spot of McNamara's band" on his phonograph when into the house came Fritzie," he said.

New York — (U.P.) — The New York Fire Department publicly asked New Yorkers to avoid fire hazards because snow drifts and stalled vehicles made it hard for fire-fighting equipment to get around.

Hackensack, N. J. — (U.P.) — A weary commuter boarded a city bus holding a long-handled shovel. He said he had to shovel his way from his front porch to the bus stop and wanted to make sure he could get back to the house when he got home from work.

Milwaukee, Wis. — (U.P.) — Frank Wipijewski wondered where his paycheck had gone until he spied his pet puppy, Moe.

Wipijewski gave Moe a piece of paper which the puppy ate with relish.

Wipijewski concluded that "circumstantial evidence" had proven what happened to his paycheck.

Milan, Italy — (U.P.) — The parents of at least 187 Italian children are finding their sons' names embarrassing.

The parents are Communists and had christened their children "Stalin."

Los Angeles — (U.P.) — A municipal judge ruled that water softener salesman Harold Hester must give back Mrs. Viola Fredieu her gallstones and pay her $80 for renting them.

Mrs. Fredieu said the stones, removed from her gall bladder in an operation nine years ago, were rented by Hester for use in a demonstration but complained he hadn't paid the rental fee.

Jonesboro, Tenn. — (U.P.) — Baxter Shipley, told by his principal to quit driving a car to school, drove a truck instead.

The result: A suspension from school for young Shipley, a black eye for the principal, J. Boyle Bingham; a felonious assault charge for Shipley's father.
