

Dayton Encounters Louisville In National Invitational Final

By JOHN GRIFFIN
New York (U.P.)—Now the National Invitation Tournament heads into the nationally televised final round Saturday afternoon with the big burning question: Can Louisville beat Dayton a third straight time with the title at stake?

The odds-men say "No," and make top-seeded Dayton a very slight favorite.

But a lot of experts say "Yes," and tab second-seeded Louisville as the coming champion.

A crowd of 16,125 that saw both score easy victories in Thursday night's semi-final round at Madison Square Garden came away baffled. First they watched Louisville pull 22 points in front and breeze home, 89-79, over St. Joseph's of Philadelphia. Dayton would have to match that.

But the Flyers more than matched this showing by crushing St. Francis of Brooklyn in the other semi-final, 89-58. Trail-og by 20-19 after 12 minutes of play, Dayton turned the game into a shambles by outscoring the Terriers in the next 17½ minutes by an incredible 44-9 count. The Dayton bench-warmers ran out the final 12 minutes.

TAKES ALMA POST

Spokane (U.P.)—Art Smith resigned as head basketball coach at Whitworth college last night to become athletic director and football coach at Alma college of Michigan, his alma mater.

Dayton came out of Thursday night's easy triumph grimly determined to win "the big one." Seven-foot Bill Uhl, who made a good showing with 13 points was convinced he has finally conquered his Garden "jinx."

Uhl was a factor, but 6-8 Jim Palmer and Jim Paxson, with 18 points each, were the big men in the Dayton romp. Paxson hit seven straight points to touch off the 44-9 spree and Palmer was called by St. Francis Coach Danny Lynch "the guy who broke us."

Charley Tyra, 6-8, tuned up for Saturday's duel with Uhl by zipping in 29 points against St. Joseph's. He led the Cardinals in a surge to a 45-27 halftime lead. St. Joseph's battled back to trail by nine during the second half but that was all.

Fanfare

By DICK JEWETT
Mail Tribune Sports Editor

The Oregon Class A-1 high school basketball tournament booklet is now off the press. This writer received a copy in the mail yesterday. Art Litchman and his staff of University of Oregon publicity men and statisticians have done another bang up job of compiling and preserving the records of the tourney and of making them available to the public in souvenir booklet form. The book is well worth the half-a-buck asked.

MEDFORD TOP SCORER

There are a good number of points of interest to Medford fans. Among the foremost: The Black Tornado was the high scoring team of the tournament in running up its 258 points in its second place team finish. Medford was one of eight of the 16 tourney teams to play four games. In total tourney scoring Medford exceeded by 16 points the championship Franklin Quakers who had 242 counters. Eugene was next with 239. Medford's game average of 64.5 was also high.

SECOND IN AVERAGES

In field goal shooting in the tournament the Black Tornado's overall record of .368 was second only to the Pendleton mark of

There are pictures of Medford and other teams in action, individual pictures of tourney all-stars, including Bob Tisdell and Dick McLoughlin of Medford, a play by play of the final game, statistics of every game of the tourney, individual and team records of the 1956 tourney and for all-time. A complete bracket shows the progress of the 1956 action. We say again its well worth the money and can be had by writing to Tournament Booklet, McArthur Court, University of Oregon, Eugene.

Portland E-R Fight Takes Recall Threat

Portland (U.P.)—Joe Dobbins, chairman of the Citizens for East Side Recreation center, has called upon Mayor Fred Peterson of Portland to demand the resignation of the Exposition-Recreation Center five-man committee or face the threat of a recall.

Dobbins, himself a candidate for mayor, said the committee would meet tonight to draw up the resolution ordering the mayor to demand the E-R commission resignation. He added: "Should this move fail, our only other recourse is to investigate the recall movement against the mayor and appoint a man in his place who will ask for the resignations."

An announcement by the E-R commission this week that an architectural firm is to submit plans for various East Side sites for the $8,000,000 center prompted Dobbins to say: "This means only a study of the Rose City Golf course site. And this is too beautiful a site to be made into a center."
