Search for Cancer Drug Under Way

Washington —(U.P.)—The Public Health Service today set in motion a vast program to test thousands of chemicals in a search for a drug to cure cancer.

Surgeon General Leonard A. Scheele announced the award of contracts for the work to five laboratories. He said they will begin work at once.

At present the only cancer cures come from surgery or radiation. Some forms of cancer, such as acute leukemia cannot be treated at all in this way. Other forms may be diagnosed only after they have spread throughout the body, too late to be benefited by either surgery or radiation. Chemical treatment appears to offer the greatest hope in such cases.

Compounds now in use have successfully prolonged the useful life of patients suffering from some non-operable cancers. But these compounds are not curative.

The laboratories awarded the contracts include the Stanford Research Institute, Menlo Park, Calif.

O&C Timber Salvage Speed-up Announced
Washington —(U.P.)—Interior Secretary Douglas McKay today announced an amendment to Oregon and California lands regulations designed to encourage speedier salvaging of damaged and dead timber in OC lands.
The amendment gives Edward Woolley, director of the Bureau of Land Management, discretionary authority to waive marketing restrictions governing the sale of O&C salvage timber whenever good forest management requires it.

McKay said "the bureau now has full authority to proceed with the lifting of any or all area marketing restrictions without holding a public hearing, where the effect on the economy of a timber-dependent community would be negligible or in cases of emergency where speed would be the governing factor."

Packaged Poultry Weight Errors Found

Salem —(U.P.)—The State Agriculture department said today a number of weight and labeling violations had been turned up in checking cut-up poultry sold in Willamette valley stores.
The check was made in 22 plants from south of Portland to Eugene which pack poultry for retail channels and in 64 retail stores. Weight and label violations were found in 12 plants and label violations in one additional plant.

In the retail stores, 59 were found selling packages of poultry which did not weigh as much as the label said, or which were not labeled to show the entire weight. Only one store was entirely free of violations on either count, and in four stores no weight labels were found on pre-packaged poultry.

Five Reds Executed in Hungary Purge Now Said To Be Innocent

Vienna, Austria —(U.P.)—Communist Hungary admitted today that former Foreign Minister Lazlo Rajk and four other Red leaders were "innocently tried and executed" in 1949 in one of the last of the great Stalin era purges.

Rajk, the longtime police boss in Hungary who rose to even greater prestige as foreign minister in 1948, was executed in 1949 with four other Hungarian Communists as a traitor. Until today Hungary had held him up as one of its worst examples.

Radio Budapest announced today the Supreme Court of the Communist trial had re-examined him and the other four victims of the purge. The Communists have used the term to mean restoring someone's good name.

Quotes Rakosi Speech
The radio quoted a speech by Matyas Rakosi, the Communist boss of Hungary and first secretary of the Hungarian Workers (Communist) party at a party meeting at Eger. He admitted they had been wrongly tried and executed as state enemies.

Rajk was the first major Communist leader in a satellite state to be "rehabilitated" since the recent Communist Party congress in Moscow started its campaign to downgrade Josef Stalin and to repair some of the "enormous" harm he did.

Rajk "confessed" during his trial that he and his companions were conspiring with Yugoslavia to overthrow the Communist regime in Hungary. Rakosi's speech broadcast today strongly indicated the alleged confession was a forgery.

Falling in Line
The speech, also published in today's "Szabad Nep," the central organ of the Communist Party of Hungary, showed Hungary was falling in line with Russia in confessing the errors of Stalin's "cult of personality."

Creswell Farmer in Korea for Orphans

Seoul, Korea —(U.P.)—Harry Holt, the Creswell, Ore., farmer who last year adopted eight Korean war orphans, said today he returned to Korea to set in motion an "orphans assembly line" that will put more than 1,000 more homeless waifs in new American homes.

Holt said he hopes to place the Korean-American children in homes in 46 states before the end of the year.
Interrupting spring planting on his 350-acre farm, Holt returned to Korea this week as adopting agent for American families requesting war orphans.
Under the national refugee act of 1953, U.S. citizens are permitted to adopt by proxy one or two war orphans if an American resident of Korea acts as their intermediary. The act expires this year.

Nunley Asks Opinion On Billboard Signs

A request that Attorney Gen. Robert Y. Thornton give an opinion concerning state legislation banning advertising signs posted outside the city limits has been made by District Attorney Walter Nunley.

The move followed notification to local election candidates from Norman O. Nilsen, commissioner of labor, that the ban included campaign posters.

500,000 Trees To Be Planted in Region
More than 500,000 trees will be planted in the Rogue River National forest this spring, according to Supervisor Jack Wood.

Planting was started by a small crew last Monday on the Applegate ranger district and additional men will be added to the project as snow recedes from the higher country, Wood said.

In another three weeks the Ashland, Butte Falls and Union Creek ranger districts expect to begin planting. Heavy snow pack has delayed the work.
Douglas fir, Shasta red fir, ponderosa pine, Jeffrey pine and sugar pine are being planted with nursery grown stock. Large numbers of the trees were carried over to this spring after last fall's early snows stopped planting.
Both regular forest service employees and contractors are doing the work.

Further Delay Seen In Air Base Location

Washington —(U.P.)—Rep. Walter Norblad said today that the Air Force has informed him it will be at least another month before any decision on the site of the proposed new air base in the Portland area will be reached.

Norblad said that he made the inquiry after hearing reports that a location near Woodburn had been chosen. He quoted Lt. Col. Roy R. Walker, chief of community relations branch as saying, "No decision has been made and none will be made for another month."

Roseburg Youths Quizzed For Breaking Windows

Roseburg —(U.P.)—Police estimated today that at least $5,000 worth of plate glass windows in 11 Roseburg businesses had been damaged by high school youths armed with a B-B gun.
Two youths were remanded to the juvenile department of Circuit Court and two others were picked up for questioning. Two of the teenagers were 17, one was 18 and the other 15.
