Comment On This and That

Washington — (U.P.) — It's open season on the tax collector, so another piece about the Internal Revenue Service, seems in order.

It seems some newspapers can be pretty mean. The revenue folks, though, take it in stride and even brag about their press clippings.

Not long back there was a notice of a new Internal Revenue Service building being planned for a large city in the South. One of the biggest papers there around commented: "We shall come to know this as the house our jack built."

The guy who put finger to key and wrote those lines apparently was not aware that he was rattling off a double pun. The head of the collection division in Washington is a nice guy named Robert L. Jack.

In a certain city in the Southwest, there is a federal office building where the regional commissioner holds forth on the fifth floor. Two floors above is the alcohol and tobacco tax division. Just Them Alcoholics

The regional commissioner put his cane to the "up" button and got into the lift after hours. He asked the operator:

"Everybody gone home, Joe?"

"Yes, suh," the man said.

"Everybody but them alcoholics on the seventh floor."

This next one, I'll have to relate just as I got it from the tax people.

Out in Denver, the IRS and the Chamber of Commerce sponsored a series of classes. Personnel of companies there was to be trained in helping colleagues fill out 1935 forms. But there was a mixup. Some letters explaining the plan were not stuffed, so a great many business firms received empty official tax envelopes. Phone calls were made and there were cries of "What goes on here?"

Philomath School Destroyed by Fire

Philomath, Ore. — (U.P.) — Fire late last night destroyed the Philomath high school building.

The blaze broke out about 10:30 p.m. and two hours later only two frame ends of the 35-year-old structure were standing. The roof collapsed about an hour after the fire broke out. Loss was estimated at $60,000.

Corvallis firemen helped the Philomath fire department in battling the flames. A strong southwest wind and oil-soaked floors of the building combined to hamper efforts to bring the fire under control.

Voters here recently approved a new $150,000 high school. The old building was remodeled last summer and was to have served next year as a grade school.

Pope Blesses Many On Holy Thursday

Vatican City — (U.P.) — Pope Pius XII blessed 15,000 persons today to open the Roman Catholic church's observance of Holy Thursday in commemoration of Christ's last supper.

The 80-year-old pontiff appeared at the fourth floor window of his studio to bestow his blessing on the first thousands of Easter pilgrims to assemble in St. Peter's square.

With the temperatures around 70 degrees, Rome was crowded with tourists and pilgrims converging on the center of the Catholic world.

Most significant ceremony of the day was one of the oldest in church rites, the stripping of the papal altar.

A pheasant-like bird in Australia builds a nest as big as a man's house, says the National Geographic Society. Using leaves, sticks and debris, Megapodius reinwardt constructs a home sometimes as much as 15 feet high and 50 feet in circumference. It lays its eggs deep in the pile where they are incubated by the heat of fermenting vegetation.

Comedian's Son Faces Narcotics Charges

Los Angeles — (U.P.) — Billy Anderson, 28, son of comedian Eddie (Rochester) Anderson, has been indicted by the federal Grand Jury on charges of possession and sales of marijuana.

Young Anderson has a previous conviction on a narcotics charge in Kentucky, federal agents said. The Grand Jury returned the indictment yesterday.

Anderson was arrested by federal authorities during a huge roundup of narcotics suspects here over the week end. A federal narcotics agent, Ralph M. Frias, said officers bought two cans of marijuana from the younger Anderson about three weeks ago.
