Parents Keep Album Of Children's Voices

Pittsburgh — (U.P.) — Mr. and Mrs. Charles Renner keep an album of their children's doings, but it is not the conventional photo album. They are blind.

Their album consists of recordings of the voices of their children, Larry, 13, and Janet, 12, who have full vision. The Renners have microphones hidden in their home at Ben Avon to catch the unheard recordings of the children's voices.

"I wish I could see the looks on their faces when we play back the recordings," said Renner, a piano tuner.
