Medford Women Attend Meeting

Two Medford women attended a workshop on world understanding for the northwest region of the United States in Missoula, Mont., April 4-6. Mrs. L. B. Pierce, secretary of spiritual life for the Eugene district Woman's Society of Christian Service, of the Methodist church and Mrs. Charles Adamson, Eugene district secretary of the Wesleyan Service guild, represented southern Oregon at the meeting.

An international team of Christian women discussed social, political, and religious problems and what the Christian woman can do about them in her community, church, state and nation.

Team members were Mrs. Kiyoko Tanaka, a leader in woman's work of the United Church in Japan, Miss Violetta Cavellero, a Christian education director in Uruguay, and Miss Eva Shipstone, professor of psychology at the Isabella Thorburn college in Lucknow, India. Accompanying the team as coordinator was Miss Louise Robinson, a former missionary to China. About 60 women from the four states of Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana attended.

Mrs. Pierce and Mrs. Adamson returned to Medford Saturday night.

Dates will be announced later for the subregional workshop on world understanding which is to be held in Medford in May.
