

HORN BROOK Mill Partnership Dissolved

By MRS. H. H. CHAPMAN
Hornbrook—L. C. Walsh has announced the dissolution of the partnership between him and Richard I. Applegate in carrying on the business of a planing mill known as the Hornbrook Manufacturing Co.

The partnership was dissolved by mutual consent as of Jan. 1, 1956, and Walsh will continue to operate the business, having as his new partner Carl D. Williams. Williams has been with the mill for approximately one year, having moved here from Dorris, Calif., where he had been employed at the Dorris Molding company for several years. He and his family, which consists of his wife, Vada, and his children, Carl Jr., (Skip), 14, Patricia, 12, and Michael, 2, are welcome additions to the community.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bear and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brink attended the annual Chamber of Commerce farmers and merchants banquet held at the Yreka Inn April 12. Rod Baumbach, president of the Yreka chamber, was host for the evening. After a short cocktail hour, the guests were served a steak dinner. A short talk by Baumbach, and a varied and entertaining program followed. Chamber officials were highly encouraged by the favorable comment and large attendance this year and plan to continue these annual dinners.

Mrs. Minnie Bloomingcamp was hostess April 12 for the regular meeting of the Women's society of Hornbrook Community Methodist church. Devotionals were led by Mrs. Bloomingcamp. The meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. Clarence Gowing. Plans were completed for the annual Mothers' day cake and apron sale to be held Saturday, May 12, at the Gordon Jacobs' store beginning at 10 a.m. At the conclusion of the business meeting, the hostess served refreshments of strawberry shortcake and whipped cream, and coffee, to Mrs. Clarence Gowing, Mrs. Bertha Braley, Mrs. Tom Watt Jr., Mrs. Mary Taggart, Mrs. Floyd Burns, Mrs. Ardon Burns, and Mrs. Harry Chapman. The next meeting will be held April 26 at the home of Mrs. Bertha Bradley.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wright have sold their home to George Skein of Hill, who will take possession shortly. After a visit to relatives in southern California, the Wrights will return to make their home at 295 DeBarr st. in Medford. They have lived in Hornbrook some 11 years, and will be missed by all their friends.

The O'Kelly home has been sold to Delbert and Betty Shinar who moved in this week.
Tuesday evening guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Farmer were Mrs. Norma Labate and children, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kassik Jr., all of Yreka.
Mrs. Robert Parshall returned Thursday from a two weeks' visit in Hermiston, Ore., at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Spencer, who came back with her to visit until June.
Frank Lowe returned last Wednesday to the Southern Pacific hospital in San Francisco for further treatment. He underwent major surgery there several weeks ago, and had been home about two weeks.

PHOENIX Resident Back From Trip

By LILLIAN KNIGHT
Phoenix — Mrs. Frank Carland returned home last week from attending the funeral of her brother, Loyde Younkun, at Lusk, Wyo. She motored with her two sisters and brother-in-law, Mrs. W. B. Le Masters and Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Jones to San Fernando, Calif. After visiting a few days with relatives there she returned home by bus.
Mrs. John Cook came home from the hospital Easter Sunday after being there a few days after surgery.
Mrs. Lloyd Watkins is home after spending several days in the hospital.
Phoenix Thimble club met April 6 at the home of Mrs. Enid Caster. Plans were discussed for a rummage sale to be held April 19. A potted plant was presented Mrs. Lillian Coleman in appreciation of her many years of service as clerk of the circle. Mrs. Ray Claffin was co-hostess.

1,263 Visit Museum In March; Several Gifts Are Donated

Jacksonville—A total of 1,263 guests visited the Jacksonville museum from 26 states, Canada, Chile, South America, Cuba, Panama and Alaska during the month of March, museum officials have reported.
This brought the total number of museum visitors to 207,667 since July 10, 1950.
Included in the visitors were several school and Cub Scout groups. Banner day for the museum was March 20 when 41 eighth grade students from Howard school and 25 eighth grade students from Eagle Point school visited.

Gifts included a picture of William C. Butler, who came to Jacksonville in 1849, then to Jackson county where he joined Capt. Cutton's First Oregon Volunteers in the 1855-56 Indian wars. He was the grandfather of John F. Butler, who made the presentation.
Mrs. Beverly Maplesden brought a picture of the Oregon coast made by her grandmother. Mrs. Esther Benedict, who came to Oregon in 1875. Clark Landers, of Hanna Nickel Smelting company, Riddle, Ore., presented a specimen of Nickel Laterite and Glenn Fountain, supervisor, first district, Merced county, Calif., sent an old rocking chair that has been in the Hoekersmith family since 1864.
Mrs. Charles Hoover gave the museum a small 100-year-old trunk that belonged to her grandmother.

Several other items were lent to the museum for display.
Lowry Urges Support At Railroad Hearing
State Senator Philip B. Lowry in a speech to the Ashland Chamber of Commerce last week urged the public to promote continuation of passenger service on the Siskiyou line of the Southern Pacific railroad by attending hearings later this month.
Lowry filed a complaint last summer with the public utilities commission against discontinuance of the service. Supporting the Jackson county legislator's move were Sen. Paul Geddes of Douglas county and Sen. Gene L. Brown of Josephine county.
Commissioner Charles H. Heltzel ordered restoration of the passenger service, but a Marion county court ruled the SP was within its legal rights to suspend any service inside the state without a hearing.
Public hearings will be held April 26 at Ashland and Medford. Another hearing will be held in Roseburg.

Neuberger Sets Up SOC Scholarship

A $500 scholarship to Southern Oregon college for "the encouragement of idealistic young men and women who intend to make careers in government" has been announced by Sen. Richard L. Neuberger (D-Ore.).
Senator Neuberger said the scholarship was the result of a speaking fee received for recent addresses on public affairs in eastern localities.
Details as to how the scholarship should be administered will be left to the responsibility of Dr. Elmo N. Stevenson, president of SOC, Senator Neuberger said.
"My only stipulation," he said, "is that the funds must be distributed without regard to the creed, color, sex or political philosophy of the successful students."
Presentation of the scholarship probably will be made during the autumn recess of congress, Neuberger said. Similar scholarships for the same amount have been donated to Linfield college of McMinnville and to the University of Portland by Neuberger.

Access Road Funds Are Restored to Plan

Amendments restoring $2,000,000 for the bureau of land management access roads program and increasing to $1,200,000 funds for management of land and resources were passed Thursday by the U.S. senate.
Sen. Richard L. Neuberger wired the county court Friday the passage and added that he will "seek support of house conferees in approval of senate action since restored road funds and increased amount for processing timber sales and other work is vital to sound program for O and C lands."
There are said to be no full-size trees in Greenland.

Four Courses, Other Activities Slated For Foreman's School

Four courses, two demonstrations, and training films have been scheduled for more than 100 participants in the two one-day sessions of a foreman fire fighting school at forest patrol headquarters on Table Rock rd. Thursday and Friday, April 19 and 20.
The school was first organized last two days, but because of enrollment, courses were scheduled to be completed in one day. About 50 men from about 30 lumber industry companies, state and federal agencies will participate each day.
Instructors will be from industry, state forest patrol, federal forest service and the bureau of land management.

The school was organized through the cooperation of industry, various agencies and the Southern Oregon Conservation and Tree Farm association. Need for such a school developed last September when trained foremen were moved into this area from other sections.
Lewis L. Simpson, secretary-manager of SOCTFA, said cooperating organizations recognized the need for trained foremen from this area because they would be more familiar with men fighting forest fires, the topography, burning conditions, and other factors affecting fire fighting in a particular locality.
The school will start with an introduction and orientation at 8 a.m. by George Flanagan, vice president and general manager of Elk Lumber company; Curt Nesheim, southwest district warden for the state; Jack Wood, supervisor of the Rogue River National forest; and E. K. Peterson, district forester for the bureau of land management.

18-Hour Search for Shady Cove Boy Ends

Shady Cove — An 18-hour search for a 13-year-old Shady Cove boy ended early Saturday afternoon when he was found hiding in a shed near his home, hungry and tearful.
State police aided in a search which his family and others began Friday night when the boy failed to return home when left by the school bus.
They said he was found by two friends.

School Certificates Awarded Garagemen

A total of 15 garagemen from Jackson county received certificates Friday night for completing a course at a hydromatic transmission school at Littrell parts, 319 East Sixth st. The school met Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights for the past three weeks.
Jay W. Schaffer was instructor for the course, which was under the auspices of the Auto Mechanics institute, a national organization with headquarters in Hot Springs, Ark.
Those who attended the school include Horace Dormer, Joe Dunn, Keith Shulz, Albert E. Davis, Art M. Flowers, Clarence (Slim) Staley, Dick Miller, Paul Cowell, John F. Williams, Ralph White, Arthur C. Griffard, A. G. Buck, A. W. (Archie) Adams, Ernie Rasmussen and Cliff Gabie.

A Nichol's Worth of... Comment On This and That

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Feature Writer

Washington—(U.P.)—If you are a parent, you must have curled up with the kids and read and re-read a lot of Mother Goose.
And if you are old enough to remember some of the originals, you know that a lot of the classics have been re-written to conform to the modern pattern of non-violence.
For example, the fat old hag who lived in a shoe and had "so many children she didn't know what to do" used to skin her younguns half to death and send them to bed without even any crumbs from the corn bread.
Today, folks, she kisses them fondly" after she tucks them in.
The gingerbread boy no longer is slapped to death by the fox from whom he hitch-hiked a ride back "happily into the arms of the little old man and little old woman who lived on the side of a hill."
One Exception
One standout exception to this tinkering with the old standbys is the "Little Engine That Could." It remains across the years the same nice little old engine it always was.
The little old chugger still has a hard time making it up that grade. The art work pictures it face twisted, and the stack of puffing out black smoke.
Toady as always it says on the upgrade: "I think I can, I think I can," puffing away hard as it approached the top. Then "I thought I could, I thought I could, I thought I could."
Truly a great victory which put a lot of kiddies to sleep, especially if the reading daddy puts the soft pedal in the last "I thought I could."
Arnold H. Munk, head of a New York publishing company, recently offered a bunch of prizes trying to trace the origin of the little engine story.

First Prize
A Miss Ruth L. Arthur of Philadelphia thought she had the answer, and mayhap she did. Anyhow she got first prize. She sent in a photostatic copy of the "Pony Engine" by Mary C. Jacobs, which came out in a magazine in 1910. A thing called "Kindergarten Review." Miss Jacobs got all of a dollar bill for her effort.
Funny thing was that Miss Jacobs herself filed her original a little late and wound up with second prize. Rules, you know.
Other entries came in too late. One was from a Miss Erica May Brooks, of New York, who forwarded a photostat of an autobiography published in Germany back in 1894. It mentioned "I think I can."
Miss Mary H. Corley of Connecticut recalled having heard the story in Sunday school in 1888.
Too bad the person who really did put the little engine on paper could not have collected royalties. It's still a best seller.

DAV Sponsors Dance For Disaster Car

Disabled American Veterans will sponsor a public benefit dance for the Jackson County Disaster Car April 19 in the Rogue Valley Ballroom.
Bob Roberts' western swing band will play for the dance with funds made available by the Medford local of American Federation of Musicians. Buck and Sonny Smith have donated the ballroom for the event.
Pat Graham, DAV member, said all proceeds will be turned over to the Disaster Car and the benefit dance will not conflict with the DAV's annual fund raising program scheduled for later this year.
The dance will commemorate the anniversary of the original organization of the Disaster Car group and subsequent purchase of the car.
Tickets will be available at the door on the night of the dance.
