

Annual Installation Held By Eagle Point Association

Eagle Point—Installation of officers was held at a recent meeting of Eagle Point High school Parent-Teacher-Student association. Mrs. Lester Bradshaw, president of Jackson County Council of Parent-Teacher association, conducted the installation. Mrs. Herbert Purdue, president, was installed by proxy, since she had been called away by her daughter's injury. Corsages of spring flowers were made by Mrs. Clarence Davies. Stewart Hopper presided over the business meeting, which was opened by the flag salute led by Glenn Hale and the invocation given by Miss Suzanne Palm. A myrtlewood gavel was presented to the association in appreciation of cooperation and assistance with projects completed this year. Les Warner made the presentation for the faculty. Achievement-visitation night will be sponsored by the association May 16, at the high school. Parents of all high school students are invited to visit classes, confer with the teachers and see the displays of the students' work. Class schedules will begin at 8 p.m.

A report on scholarships was given by Art Thompson, who urged students to become more interested in working and making applications for these scholarships. Lady Lions of the Shady Cove-Trail area are giving a scholarship of $100 to the school.

Clarence Davies, reporting on the success of the show, "Faculty Frolics," stated the money raised would be put into a teachers' fund. This fund will provide an assistant scholarship of $150 this year and $50 will be put into a sinking fund toward a future scholarship. He said there would be no restriction as to the type of scholarship, and it would be awarded on character, merit and need.

A representative from the Eagle Point grade school announced a spaghetti dinner will be served Saturday, May 5 in the grade school cafeteria from 6 until 7:30 p.m. Proceeds will be used to purchase a record player and record library for the school.

The variety program, presented by high school students, was announced by Miss Diana Gardner. The program included a piano duet by Suzanne Palm and Georgia Weidman, a reading by Carole Lee West, a song by a trio composed of Margaret and Juanita Cearly and Georgia Weidman, a report on the Pacific university journalism contest held at Forest Grove and given by Cathy Carol, and a song by a sextet made up of Barbara Henderson, Sudi ne Christian, Marie Walters, Chloe Wilson, Jane Westover and Margaret Cearly, accompanied by Georgia Weidman.

Refreshments were furnished by the executive committee and served in the school library by Mrs. Ray Palm, Mrs. Ed Grey, Miss Chris Nelson, and Miss Janet Johnston.

Grace Second American To Wed Monacan Prince

By ROBERT ZIMMERMAN

United Press Correspondent

New York—(U.P.)—Grace Kelly will be the second American woman to marry a prince of Monaco.

Her predecessor was a New Orleans beauty, named Marie Alice Heine, who married Prince Albert of Monaco in 1889. Albert was the great grandfather of Prince Rainier III, who will marry Miss Kelly next week.

Princess Alice was an American by birth who spent most of her life in Europe. She was born in New Orleans in 1858, a granddaughter of the wealthy Parisian banker Solomon Heine. He is better known in another connection—as a "rich uncle" to whom the great German poet Heinrich Heine often appealed for help.

Alice first married a French nobleman, the Duc de Richelieu. He died in 1880, making Alice a widow at the age of 22. Prince Albert's first wife, who had borne him an heir, divorced him in 1880, and nine years later the prince married Alice.

Of the many American girls who have married lords, barons, counts, dukes and princes only two—Princess Alice and the soon-to-be Princess Grace—have become the bride of a man who reigned supreme within a country of his own.

Memorable Case
History records one other memorable case where it almost happened—the near-miss of Baltimore's Wallis Warfield Simpson in 1936.

Except for the fact both Grace Kelly and Wallis Simpson are "commoners" there is not much comparison between their famous international romances.

Prince Rainier reigns over 20,000 subjects in a principality smaller than Central Park. His palace chaplain approves wholeheartedly of his union with a girl of good Catholic upbringing in a prominent Philadelphia family. His subjects are anxious for a royal marriage and the prospect of a royal heir.

But in the London of 1936 the prospect of marriage between King Edward VIII and the Mrs. Simpson was a national crisis.

The Prince of Wales had ascended the throne of no postage-stamp kingdom. His domain was the vast and tradition-bound British empire. The thought of the king marrying a commoner, and a divorcee at that, sent shivers through the peacocks.

The prince had met Mrs. Simpson at a Buckingham Palace reception in 1931. She had been born Bessie Wallis Warfield, and her widowed mother had taken in boarders for a time back in Baltimore. Wallis grew up to marry well, however.

Two Marriages
In 1915 she married a handsome Navy flyer, Winfield Spencer, Jr., but the marriage held together only until 1927. In 1928, Wallis married Ernest Simpson, an American businessman she had met in New York the year before. His business required that they live in London.

In the summer of 1934 Edward invited "Wallis" on a Riviera cruise—without her husband. A photographer snapped them doing the rumba, and they became a frequent item in newspaper columns throughout the following year.

In 1936, Edward became king. Reserved Britons were shocked when, even as his coronation was being planned, Edward continued to be seen with the 40-year-old American woman.

The climax came in December, 1936, when Edward, faced finally with a choice between his throne and the now-divorced Wallis Simpson, cast his lot with "the woman I love."

Married the following June, the new Duke and Duchess of Windsor slipped into relative obscurity. The duke's brother was crowned King George VI and the line of English monarchs descends now through his daughter Elizabeth II.
