

Hitchcock Tells Plan For Juveniles; McKay Lauds Ike's Courage

Hood River — (U.P.) — Phil Hitchcock, candidate for the Republican nomination as U. S. Senator, called for a "special conservation corps to prevent juvenile delinquency" in a speech here last night.

Hitchcock made his remarks before the Hood River Izak Walton League.

"Conservation calls for preserving our underprivileged youths as well as for preserving our natural resources," he said.

Hitchcock added that the program he envisioned would get youths off the streets and into healthful work and would teach them "conservation practices while accomplishing vital conservation work."

The ex-state senator reaffirmed his objections to the construction of Pelton dam on the Deschutes river on the grounds that the state of Oregon should have the right to determine the use of its own water.

Bend — (U.P.) — Douglas McKay, opening his campaign for the Republican nomination for U. S. Senator, called for a long range plan to aid agriculture in a speech here last night.

McKay praised the courage of President Eisenhower in standing for a workable and lasting solution to the farm problem. He added that there is no easy solution to the farmers' problem.

The recently resigned Interior Secretary spoke out for conservation of natural resources and said that he had been working for conservation and preservation for the last 20 years.

"The most important things in our natural resources are water and energy. The only way they can be developed for the greatest good of all of us is through cooperative effort," he said.

McKay also strongly urged maintenance of sustained yield forest management of Klamath Indian timber.

Pretender To Throne of Prince Rainier Sad Over Loss of One More Chance

Ightham, England—(U.P.)—The gaiety in Monaco brought only sadness to a quiet village pub where the pretender to Prince Rainier's throne tends bar.

"I know that this marriage cuts away one more chance of my regaining the throne," said George Grimaldi as he slid a tankard of suds across the mahogany.

Grimaldi, also known as Marquis Grimaldi, is the latest in a branch of Rainier's family which claims the sixth Marquis Alexandra Grimaldi was forced from the Monegasque throne illegally in 1905.

"Would Cost Too Much" "I would press my claim but it would cost too much money," the bartender said in an interview at the bar of the Chequers Inn.

"I can only wait."

Grimaldi had high hopes of regaining the throne during the long years of Rainier's bachelorhood. He thought that if Rainier died without an heir, the people of Monaco might call him back to the throne.

The Prince's marriage to Grace Kelly makes it likely that there will be an heir.

"If I were there it would be hard to keep silent while Miss Kelly is becoming wrongfoll princess of Monaco," he said.

No Ill Feeling The Marquis, tall, 47, did not harbor any ill feeling against Miss Kelly.

"She is a lovely girl and should make a lovely princess," he said.

Grimaldi's wife, Kathleen, who helps behind the bar, was less enthusiastic.

"Who knows," she mused. "There but for the Grace of Kelly go I."

AXLE ACTS UP McKenzie, N.D. — (U.P.) — A burned-out journal, the part of the axle that protrudes through the wheel of railroad cars, caused derailment of 32 cars of a freight train here. The car on which the journal burned out was loaded with new box car axles.

On The Side

Generally speaking, which are more graceful, men or women? Men handle themselves with much more ease and grace than women. Consider the ease and grace of a baseball player. Women cannot run gracefully. Even women who walk gracefully, waddle when they run.

The male member of a great ballroom dance team is usually the most graceful dancer. Male golf and tennis players have a much easier and more graceful style than female players.

Get It Right

A much misquoted poetic passage is that Dorothy Parker wrote about bespectacled females. Dorothy did not say, "men never make passes at girls who wear glasses." She said, "men seldom make passes as girls who wear glasses." A continuously misquoted Biblical passage is the one about money and "the root of all evil." It is not, "money is the root of all evil," but "the love of money is the root of all evil." However, the top spot as to misquotation is still held by "gilding the lily." Shakespeare said, "To gild refined gold, to paint the lily." An excellent way to remember this is to keep in mind what Byron wrote:

"Shakespeare says 'tis very silly
To gild refined gold, or paint the lily."

Briefly

Nature gave men the best eyes of all animals yet two-thirds of human beings need glasses. Poor and unintelligently placed lighting equipment in homes, offices and public places has much to do with this sad situation. . . . Of feminine first names the most common in this country is Anna, including its variation such as Ann, Anne, etc. Second on the list is Mary. By the way, has there ever been a song about a girl named Anna?

Please Note

How right that fellow was, who said, "Them that has gits." When John D. Rockefeller reached 96, he received the face value of his life insurance policies, which was $5,000,000. When a man reaches 96, most life insurance companies pay him off in full.

Passing By

Harry Richman, veteran vocalists and pianist, began as a piano pounder in a cafe in Salt Lake City. Then joined the vaudeville act known as the pianophenies. After that became Mae West's pianist. Was as the peak of his popularity during the prohibition era when he operated the Club Richmond in Manhattan. That's when he started to sing "Laugh, Clown, Laugh." He is still singing it.

Horses and Women

Billy Rose in explaining the presence in his shows of so many statuesque females, said, "I have had an unusual number of girls of six feet or over in my shows. However, I did not select these girls because they were six feet in height but because of their being long-legged. Girls with long legs are not only usually more beautiful than short-legged females but they are more intelligent."

Laughs of the Day . . .

Grand Rapids, Mich.—(U.P.)—A sign in front of a store leveled by a tornado points to the northeast and announces:

"It went thataway but we'll be back."

Riverside, Calif.—(U.P.)—Jerry Leighton, 2, chewed several rusty nails and tried to wash them down by drinking a jar of gasoline.

He suffered no ill effects and left the emergency hospital asking his mother for a cookie.

Des Moines, Ia.—(U.P.)—Mrs. Eugene Gillespie complained to police that someone cut a hole in a screen, opened a window and put a cat in her bedroom while she was away for the week end.

She returned to find the cat on her bed, along with three new-born kittens.

Chicago—(U.P.)—Mrs. Mamie Brandson won a divorce when she testified her husband insisted it was degrading for a man to wash dishes.

'Queen for a Day' Missing in Desert

Hollywood — (U.P.) — Authorities today feared that a 78-year-old great-grandmother, winner of a television contest, and her daughter are lost in the Southwest desert because of failing to appear in Gallup, N.M., for a special Indian festival held in her honor.

Mrs. Mary Kazmier and her daughter, Molly Bernard of Tulsa, Okla., were last seen in Las Vegas, Nev., Saturday night en route to Gallup. The trip was part of a scheduled two-month, 31-city tour of the country won by Mrs. Kazmier on the "Queen for a Day" TV show.

NBC network officials yesterday alerted authorities in Nevada, Arizona and New Mexico to search desert roads for the missing pair who were making the tour by automobile.

Officials said Mrs. Kazmier failed to make a scheduled stop at Winslow, Ariz., Sunday and never appeared yesterday at Gallup, where special Indian ceremonies were arranged in her honor.

SAVAGE CREEK-ROGUE RIVER Service Station Sale Told

By CHRISTINA MARSHALL

Savage Creek-Rogue River—Keith Barnes, who formerly operated the Barnes Auto Parts store in Central Point, has recently purchased from Bob Wedlock the Texaco Service station at the Rogue River Junction and 99 Highway which is known as Bob's Texaco.

The Wedlocks, who have operated the station for several years, have no definite plans as to just what they will do in the future or where they will settle, but they like the valley and feel it will be somewhere near. They recently spent several days in California where they attended the wedding of their son, Robert E. Wedlock, who was married in Oakland to Jo Ann Parks of San Lorenzo at the Chapel of the Chimes. The couple will make their home in San Jose, Calif. Bob and Mrs. Wedlock are soon to visit his sisters and brother in Thermopolis, Wyo.

Mr. and Mrs. Lilly of Lilly's Shell Station and Grocery at Rogue River Junction and Highway 99 are in Inglewood, Calif., where Mrs. Lilly is undergoing treatment. Bob Williams is tending the store and station during their absence.

Mrs. Eva Sherman of Savage Creek is home again after her recent visit with relatives in California.

Roy Larson, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Larson of Savage Creek is confined at home with the chicken pox.

The ladies of the Savage Creek Hobby club met at the home of Kathryn Burkhardt April 16, where they spent the day sewing and visiting. A luncheon was served at noon. Those present were Libby Dodge, Wynn Hinch, Lois Blackman, Betty Wage, Hilda Racine, Thelma Draise a guest, and the hostess, Kathryn Burkhardt.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Betty Wage a week from Tuesday.

Joseph C. Gernert, who has been living in a cabin owned by Mr. and Mrs. A. Larson, will return to southern California in the near future. Gernert is a radio and TV technician and had hoped to make his home in the northwest, but arrived just in time for the December floods.

That and the general lack of employment in these parts has made him decide to return to the south where opportunities in his lines are much better. He had hoped to purchase property somewhere around this area and go into business for himself but general conditions discouraged this idea.

DEFENSES INSPECTED
