

Chancellor Discusses Educational Problems At Kiwanis Luncheon

Confidence that Oregon can continue a "distinguished" program in higher education was expressed here yesterday by Dr. John R. Richards, chancellor of the Oregon state system of higher education.

Richards addressed Medford Kiwanians at the noon luncheon meeting at Rogue Valley Country club.

The chancellor brought out his theory that the program can be continued if the explanation can be put across to the people of the choice they have. This choice is whether they should continue support of higher education in the way they have or whether they want to keep up with the surge in population.

Inflation Problem
Richards spoke of the problem of inflation and of the complex requirements of higher education. He reported that higher education is the least able of public institutions to adjust to inflation and that a two or three-year lag in resources is the result. This is hitting the schools in the direction of salaries, he stated.

If the next legislature feels as poor as the last, Richards remarked, state higher education institutions are in danger of diminished services.

Needs of schools in equipment, techniques, materials and experts to "keep up with the parade" in education were pointed out by the chancellor.

Flood of Children
Mentioning the flood of children passing through Oregon schools, Richards emphasized that the growth of these children adds to the potential of the state. He stated that these young people are a "resource." The chancellor said that it will cost to develop them but that their entry into business is going to make a "tremendous difference" in Oregon.

Richards spoke of the space problem and the more intensive use of space and staffs with the increase in students. He said that the possibilities of closed circuit television are being studied as a means to meet the space and staff problem. Also the matter of "selective admission" to colleges is being investigated although state colleges in Oregon traditionally have offered admission to all high school graduates. The feeling of citizens on this proposal is sought, Richards reported.

Portland State
On the function of Portland State college, which has met some objections outside of Portland, Richards pointed out that students at that school can be taught at a lower per capita cost and that the physical facilities can be used both day and evening.

The chancellor pointed to the development of the state colleges of education into regular "regional colleges" not just teacher training schools. He told of the ease of travel from students between Medford and Southern Oregon college at Ashland and between Grants Pass and the Ashland school as well.

Richards was introduced by Dr. Elmo Stevenson, president of Southern Oregon college.

Speaks at SOC
Dr. Richards spoke at a Southern Oregon college faculty and student assembly yesterday. He discussed the role of the faculty and administration within the state higher education organization with reference to standards, faculty welfare problems, and educational functions in general.

He said the aim of the state board of higher education is to make SOC a complete regional institution designed to handle the majority of high school graduates from this area who plan to attend college.

Holdup Suspect Held On Tip By Artist

Portland — (U.P.) — A tip by an art student working as a night clerk in a bus depot led to the arrest last night of a suspect in yesterday afternoon's $3,831 holdup of the 6th and Morrison street branch of the First National Bank here.

The suspect was identified by the FBI as William John Simon, 21, who was booked under $10,000 bail early today.

Joseph F. Santoianna, special FBI agent in charge of the Portland office, said the art student, Lee Crotchet, had heard of the robber's description from a radio report. Crotchet called authorities and Simon was taken into custody about 10 p.m., some six hours after the holdup.

CHURNING ALONG
Gorham, Me. — (U.P.) — Mr. and Mrs. Willie Lamb, who run a 73-acre farm here, still makes butter every Thursday, using an old-fashioned churn. They have made about 2,000 pounds of butter annually for the past 32 years.

Supreme Court Hears Sack Plea

Salem — (U.P.) — The State Supreme Court yesterday heard arguments in the appealed murder case of George F. Sack.

Sack's attorney, J. P. Hannon, asked for a reversal of Sack's death sentence claiming that adverse publicity in two Portland newspapers had prevented a fair and impartial trial.

Sack, a Portland apartment house operator, was convicted in September, 1954, of the murder of his wife, Goldie. He is now in Multnomah county jail.

Attorney Hannon said trial Judge Frank J. Lonergan erred when he refused to continue the case to a later date because of the adverse publicity. He also claimed there was not enough evidence as to a motive for the crime and the location of the crime was not proved.

J. Raymond Carskadon, former assistant district attorney, presented the state's case. He said Sack and his car were identified at the scene where the body was found. He also said motives for a crime are admissible as evidence even if they appear to be remote.

Oregon Graduate To Join Neuberger

Corvallis — (U.P.) — Lawrence Hobart, 24, a graduate of the University of Oregon school of journalism, has been awarded a one-year research internship on the Washington staff of Sen. Richard L. Neuberger.

Dr. John M. Swarthout, Oregon State college, chairman of the committee appointed by Sen. Neuberger to make the selection, made the announcement here yesterday.

Hobart received his journalism degree in 1953 and currently is a reporter for the Oregon Statesman, a Salem newspaper. He will take up his duties in Washington Sept. 1.

Wildlife Specialist Visits in County

Andy Landforce, wildlife management specialist for Oregon State college, is consulting with owners of far fish ponds, in Jackson county. He and Earl Jossy, county agricultural agent, are visiting various ponds, inspecting fish and preparing information to improve fish life. There are about 20 ponds in the county, Jossy said.

Landforce will meet with the Applegate 4-H fishing club tonight. He will leave for Grants Pass tomorrow.

Senate Votes Higher Doctor, Dentist Pay

Washington — (U.P.) — The Senate has voted to raise the pay of military doctors and dentists to encourage them to stay in uniform.

The bill—approved yesterday by voice vote—now goes to the House for action on Senate amendments.

The measure would grant pay increases ranging from $50 to $250 a month for medical and dental officers in the regular branches of the armed services and the Public Health Service. It would cost about $19,455,000 in the first fiscal year after it takes effect.

Hearing Cancelled for Redmond Hatchery Man

Salem — (U.P.) — On April 23 hearing on behalf of George Gilmouth, operator of Gill's hatchery at Redmond, has been cancelled by the State Department of Agriculture.

Gilmouth was called to show cause why he should not be removed from the national poultry improvement program. However, he has withdrawn his membership in the program, agriculture officials said.

Movie Director Solves Problem of Lindbergh

Hollywood — (U.P.) — Director Billy Wilder has avoided getting into a long standing controversy over the first words Charles A. Lindbergh supposedly said at the end of his historical flight to Paris.

Jimmy Stewart, cast as Lindbergh in the film, "The Spirit of St. Louis," is lifted from his plane, mobbed by French extras and carried across the field. He doesn't say a single word.

Miami Paper Solves Kelly Wedding Problem

Miami — (U.P.) — The Miami Herald carried a brief notice, in fine print, on its front page Wednesday, to wit:

"Grace Kelly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kelly of Philadelphia, Pa., was married in a civil ceremony in Monte Carlo, Monaco, Wednesday to Rainier L. H. M. B. Grimaldi."

Let's romantically-minded readers be disappointed, however, the paper carried a full account of the wedding, with pictures, on page two.

Michigan has 11,037 inland lakes within its boundaries with an average size of 67 acres.

Steelworkers Chief Tells Wage Demand

Gary, Ind. — (U.P.) — David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers Union, gave a preview of demands for a "substantial" wage increase Wednesday night.

He said the USW will also demand a guaranteed annual wage plan and premium pay for week end work for its 650,000 members in the basic steel industry.

The USW will not spell out its contract demands until its Wage Policy Committee meets in Pittsburgh, May 14-16.

However, McDonald gave a general outline of the Steelworkers' platform in a speech before Gary businessmen and the union's 30-man executive board.

"We expect to get substantial increases in pay for the Steelworkers," he said.

TOO MUCH SAMENESS
Allegan, Mich. — (U.P.) — City Manager P. H. Beauvis has asked the city council to do something about local streets that have the same names. There are two Sherman Streets, two North Streets, and three that are known as Park — Park Ave., Park Court, and Park Drive.

Bolivian Police Take To Warpath

La Paz, Bolivia — (U.P.) — Police are on the warpath in the mountains of Southeastern Bolivia today, seeking Indian murderers who dragged four men behind horses for a mile and then shot them to death.

The Indians also wounded the chief of police and a school teacher in the mountain village of Cupina.

The newspaper El Dia said the outburst of violence resulted from friction between Indian and halfbreed leaders of the governing party in Chuquisaca province. No details were available

Elections Interfere With Tourists in Italy

Rome, Italy — (U.P.) — Tourist agencies asked Parliament to help prevent next month's elections from interfering with tourists.

The center of the town of Capri was so jammed Monday with local citizens listening to political speeches the tourists were imprisoned in the crowd while Communist speakers charged the visitors were causing prices to rise in Italy.

There are more than 20,000 kinds of insects in Michigan, according to officials of Michigan State University's entomology department.
