

On The Side

By E. V. Durling

Here's to the crown and blessing of my life, the much loved husband of a happy wife. To him whose constant passion found the art to win a stubborn and ungrateful heart. And to the world by tenderest proof divers they err who say that husbands can't be lovers.

Lady Winchelsea.

Has your wife started to worry as to how she is going to look in swim suit? If so, urge her not to go in for a quick weight reduction method. The speedy weight shedding system often leads to a serious illness. To reduce 25 pounds at least six months should be allowed. However, if your matrimonial mate is only around 10 pounds overweight and has a 28 inch waist and 38 hips, she can be streamlined in time for the summer season. Safe methods for taking a couple of inches off the waist and his in a few months are available.

By Request

It is said when Gertrude Lawrence realized the end was near, she requested the song titled "Shall We Dance?" from the musical show "The King and I," be played at her funeral service. It wasn't played, the belief being such a tune was not appropriate for a funeral. I think it should have been played. This incident recalls that when May Irwin was nearing the end she asked, "Has the dressmaker finished that red dress I ordered?" The answer was in the affirmative, "Bury me in it," said May.

Eyes

Of course, you know the color of your wife's eyes. But how about your secretary? Or the glamorous receptionist at your office? Or your favorite waitress, manicurist or dental nurse? You can't be certain as to the color of a woman's eyes after a first meeting. Her eye coloring may be changeable. She may have chameleon eyes. The eye coloring of Simone Silva, European film actress, changes so frequently that she has four eye colorings listed on her passport, namely, gray, green, blue and purple.

Wifeless Men

The statisticians say a wifeless man is 40 per cent more likely to die before 60, nine times more susceptible to mental disease and 95 per cent more likely to meet with a fatal accident than a married man. Bachelorettes should make a note of these statistics so they can mention them when making a leap year proposal.

So They Say

Men born under Aquarius (Jan. 21-Feb. 19) make the best fathers and baby sitters. Aquarian males have an exceptional talent for handling infants and are also adept in keeping older children in line, or, so say the stargazers.

Horses and Women

The poet Byron, discussing his native land, England, referred to "our cloudy climate and our chilly women." The British climate is about the same as in Byron's day but the women seem to have changed. Larry Solon, an experienced and observant fellow, recently observed, "Temperamentally the long limbed, pearl skinned, exquisitely bosomed English girl is as languorous as she is odalisque, as playful as a seal in a tub and, for those who know her truly, as sensual as an opium smoker's dream."

Proposals

Between the ages of 19 and 25 the average woman gets at least three proposals of marriage. Does this check with your wife's experience? Who were the other two fellows who proposed to her besides you? Do you ever wonder if she wishes she had accepted one of them?

Around Hollywood

By ALINE MOSBY
United Press Correspondent

Hollywood—(U.P.)—The movie scoop of the year is not a new blonde, but a motion picture that claims to show actual film of so-called "flying saucers" taken from government files.

The motion picture, "Unidentified Flying Objects," is a documentary account of the flying saucer history from the time the first such object was sighted in 1947 and the nation went saucer-crazy.

Producers Clarence Greene and Russell Rouse used eye witness accounts of sightings and the Air Force investigation of same.

Three Key Men

The movie was made in cooperation with three key men of the Air Force saucer investigation: Capt. Edward Ruppelt, former director of the investigation, called Project Bluebook; Albert Chop, public relations chief for the group; and Maj. Dewey Fournet, liaison officer between the Pentagon and Project Bluebook.

Through various connections Greene was able to obtain documents on the saucer investigation and two pieces of motion picture film—allegedly showing saucers—that had been turned over to the government.

One was taken in Great Falls, Mont., by Nicholas Mariana, general manager of the Great Falls baseball club. The other was taken by a naval officer on vacation, Delbert Newhouse, who happened to have a camera with him when he sighted some objects near Tremont, Utah.

I saw the motion picture. In the Montana film, two white saucer-like objects move in a horizontal line across the sky. In the Utah film, a formation of saucers move in various directions. They look like tennis balls dancing in the sky.

Producer Greene has stacks of documents from scientists and Air Force investigators saying the objects could not have been birds, known aircraft or balloons.

Not one actor was used in the movie. Greene recruited newspaper men, police officers and friends to portray the various real-life characters connected with the saucer investigation. Some of the characters were portrayed by the actual persons—including Mariana, Newhouse and Capt. William Sperry, an American Airlines pilot who reported a saucer in 1950.

The movie company shot for 18 months in Washington, D. C., and other areas where saucers were sighted. The film tells about one incident when "saucers" were reported over Washington on radar. Then they were explained as temperature inversion, but Greene claims he dug up the true details.

Didn't Trust Him

"At first the Air Force people didn't trust me because I was a Hollywood producer," Greene said. "I finally convinced them my movie would be factual and tell the truth."

"I notified the pentagon what I was doing. I also notified my congressman, Joe Holt. I divorced myself from anybody who might be a crackpot. We stuck to the facts."

The picture will be premiered in Los Angeles May 9. There will be no little men with pointed heads present, the producer says.

First National Bank Directors Meet Here

The board of directors of the First National Bank of Portland yesterday inspected the new branch building in Grants Pass and last night was host to about 100 stockholders and patrons of the bank at Rogue Valley Country club.

Elwood Hedberg, vice-president of the bank and manager of the Medford branch, was master of ceremonies during a brief program. C. B. Stevenson, president of the bank, spoke briefly and introduced the 19 directors present.

Among those introduced were E. B. McNaughton, chairman of the board; Gene Thorndike, retired vice-president and former manager of the Medford branch; and Alan Eames, new assistant manager of the Medford branch.

permitting a pupil to be questioned by a police officer. "School boards have authority to enact rules or regulations on the subject," the opinion stated, "and out of courtesy should notify parents if a pupil is taken from their custody by police officials."

An inquiry as to whether or not school authorities should permit an officer to talk with a student without first obtaining permission from his parents prompted the decision.

Singing Is Good Therapy, Kratt Says

"A nation that forgets to sing is doomed," Ted Kratt, dean of the school of music, at the University of Oregon told members of the Medford Rotary club at a luncheon meeting Tuesday.

Speaking at the Jackson hotel, the educator and director of the Eugene Gleemen said singing is good therapy in this complex age.

It is untrue that only a few people have the ability to sing; everyone can sing because music is the universal language of the soul, he said. Three essential elements of music are melody, harmony to enrich the melody, and rhythm for character.

Today the rule of a few decades ago has been reversed and more boys are studying music than girls, he said.

Dean Kratt demonstrated group singing techniques by leading the Rotary club in popular songs, and illustrated the construction of simple but pleasing melodies. Leonard Mayfield, superintendent of Medford schools and Rotary program chairman, introduced the speaker.
