

Quotes From the News

By UNITED PRESS

Dallas—Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.) on his struggle with Gov. Allan Shivers for control of the Texas delegation to the Democratic National convention:
 "A man (Shivers) who professed to be my friend has turned on me with wild and abandoned fury. He has leveled grotesque and senseless charges against me and—even more important—against my friends."

Hollywood—Actor Donald O'Connor, on the merits of old-time silent movies versus modern talkies:
 "I would love to have been a part of that silent era. I'm a great believer in pantomime. Most pictures now are overburdened with dialogue."

New York—Pitcher Mel Parnell, one time ace of the Boston Red Sox, on a game this week against the Detroit Tigers that may make or break him in baseball for the future:
 "This is the chance I've waited for. It's the top spot again—or nothing. If I can't make it, and big, then I'll get out of the game and go into some other business."

London—Harold E. Stassen, President Eisenhower's disarmament aide, on efforts to obtain Russian cooperation on ending the arms race:
 "The United States will patiently and persistently seek a sound agreement which will improve the prospects of a just and lasting peace. I believe the day will come when such a sound agreement will be reached. It is evident that day is near at hand."

Brooklyn—Peter O'Shea, father of one of six Marines who died in the Parris Island, S.C. "death march," on the coming court-martial of Staff Sgt. Matthew C. McKeon, who ordered the march:
 "It is up to the United States government, but I don't want the man punished. I have nothing against the man."

Washington—Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.) who took his oath as a congressman with the late Sen. Alben W. Barkley in 1913 on Barkley's death:
 "I may not see his like again. God bless his memory. God comfort his loved ones. God comfort me."
