From Arizona the four traveled into Mexico, visiting Guaymas, Mazatlan, Mexico City and Guadalajara. Returning to the United States, the Grays spent some time with Mr. Gray's cousin, Mrs. Winifred Wise, Sedona, Ariz., in the Oak Creek canyon country. En route to Medford they spent three days in the Sacramento valley.

Medford City Schools Plan Programs for Music Week

As has been the custom during the last few years, Medford city schools are devoting special attention to the observance of National Music Week, May 6 through May 13. Each of the eight schools will feature classroom and hall bulletin board displays, based on this year's slogan "Music Keeps Your Life in Tune."

Displays will include library books about music, pictures of composers, student art work, and other appropriate materials which suggest any musical activities.

Among the special building activities observing National Music week are a television presentation by the McLoughlin Junior High school band Wednesday at 2:30 p.m. and the Washington school spring program on Friday evening by fourth, fifth and sixth grade students.

Jefferson school will hold a student assembly, at which time community singing and musical contributions from each room are to be featured. A Senior High school string ensemble will play for the Kiwanis meeting on Wednesday noon.

The high school boys' chorus will present a short assembly for intermediate grade students of Lincoln school.

Friday afternoon, Mrs. Lorraine Evensen, vocal music supervisor of city schools, will present small groups of vocal students from grade one through grade twelve in a demonstration, "Development of the Young Voice," for Roosevelt Parent-Teacher association. Friday evening Hedrick Junior High school's spring band concert will be given.

This is the thirty-third national observance of music week. National Music week is an attempt to make every individual more music conscious, to recognize the value of music education, and to increase interest in the works of American composers. It is with these purposes in mind that the music teachers and students of the Medford city schools present their special music observances, Mrs. Evenson states.
