Big Pines District Scout Camp-o-Ree Sets New Record

A new attendance record was set at the Agate Desert Camp-O-Ree grounds when 483 Scouts and Leaders participated in the Big Pines District Camp-O-Ree over the week end, according to Robert Church, Big Pines district chairman. The 19 Scout Troops and three Explorer units were from Gold Hill, Central Point, Prospect, Shady Cove, Jacksonville, Phoenix, Talent, Ashland and Medford.

The Camp-O-Ree started with registrations Saturday at 10 a.m. and concluded Sunday at 3:30 p.m. after the awarding ceremony.

N. H. "Duke" Gladfelter, Big Pines district commissioner and the commissioner staff conducted the Camp-O-Ree and Harry Chipman served as chairman. Lawson Scott directed the registration and served on the judging staff. James Grigsby conducted the Camp-O-Ree events.

The purpose of the camp was to give the Scout Troops actual experience in good Scout camping so that they would be able to conduct their own camping trips closer to good camping standards.

The Scouts set up their camps on a patrol basis and were judged on how they camped, their patrol cooking, patrol organization, camp sanitation, participation in activities and how clean and neat their camp was during the entire session.

Saturday afternoon was spent arranging and setting up their camps by patrols in troop sites that the Scouts selected. They also identified trees, shrubs and had mapping projects to complete during the day.

A large campfire was held in the evening under the direction of Jack Holmes, assistant Camp McLoughlin director. Each troop gave a stunt interspersed with songs led by Dick Lamb, assistant Scout executive. Bruce Nelson told several Indian lore stories of Crater lake and other local Indians. Lighting of the campfire was done by the Order of the Arrow.

A Protestant Scout church service was held Sunday morning with the Rev. John Reynolds of the First Presbyterian church conducting the services. He was assisted by Dick Swinney, who lead the responsive readings. Catholic Scouts attended Mass at Camp White.

The Camp-O-Ree events followed the church services. Judging of the patrol camps was under the leadership of Shirrel Doty and Ted Garhart, assisted by Jim Baumer, John Patton, J. A. McDougall, council commissioner; Harry Barneburg Scott; Gladfelter, Grigsby and Chipman, Clifford J. Hanson, Scout executive, assisted in the over-all program.

All patrols who participated received ribbons denoting the rating received.

This was one of the finest jobs of camping that the patrols have done and the standard was exceedingly high this year," Ted Garhart, who was in charge of the ribbon award presentation ceremony, said.

Explorers Assist

Explorers Scouts of Squadron 14, Posts 8 and 13 and Explorers from Troops 6 and 9 assisted in the events and judging.

This was one of the two Camp-O-Rees held in the Crater Lake Area council this week end. The Roaring Rogue District, Josephine county, held their affair Friday and Saturday in the Grants Pass City Park with 150 Scouts attending.
