"Let's see who sticks his head up next. I think it might be a little dangerous."

New York—Actress Diana Barrymore, on why she is to appear in a play at $30-a-week in an effort to make a comeback:
"I was drinking too much. I spent January and February in a private sanitarium, and I'm on the wagon now."

Dallas—Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, on why his followers should not try to oust from the Democratic state executive committee followers of his rival, Gov. Allan Shivers:
"I do not interpret our victory as a mandate to punish and avenge."

Washington—Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall, on the Stevenson-Kefauver television debate:

The Family Council

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, a newspaper editor, a women's page editor and two newspaper writers. These consult with clergymen of all faiths and denominations. All letters are held in complete confidence.

Mrs. N.B.R.—He wants to marry a waitress.
Jimmy—I prefer her to college co-eds.

Mrs. N.B.H.—My husband and I have made difficult sacrifices to send our boy, Jimmy, through college. Now that he has got a start in life on a good job with good prospects, he has met up with a girl who may ruin his life. This girl is pretty enough, but I don't see how she can do anything but hurt Jimmy. Certainly she will be no asset to him. She is only a waitress, and I hate to think what my friends will say behind my back after all the sacrifices we have made to improve the lot of our family.

Jimmy—My mother takes an impossible attitude. Clara is not only a pretty girl, but bright, intelligent and good in every way. I have dated college girls who did not possess half her intelligence, let alone her looks and her charm.

She is a waitress because she is too smart to knock herself out working as a low-paid clerk in an office. She works in one of the better downtown restaurants and, probably because she is so attractive and pleasing, she gets good tips. She has a flexible arrangement whereby she can get time off and put on extra time, depending on her needs. She makes much more money than office girls, and she meets interesting people among her customers.

I met her the first time I went to this restaurant with my boss. He thinks the world of her, as does everyone else who knows her, but my mother is prejudiced and she has influenced my father to feel the same way. I know she is the girl for me because I have seen a great deal of her at work as well as on dates, and I know she is the kind of girl who is naturally pleasant and could preside over the best home with

Attorney General Rules on Reports

Salem — (U.P.) — Attorney General Robert Y. Thornton said yesterday it was proper for reports of the State Board of Parole and Probation to be introduced in court when the court was considering circumstances in aggravation or mitigation of punishment after conviction.

The opinion further noted that the circumstances to be considered included matters other than those attendant to the commission of the crime itself. Thornton pointed out, however, that where there was a record of prior felonies, the punishment to be mitigated or aggravated was that prescribed by the habitual criminal statutes.

The defendant must consent to use of the report and have an opportunity to examine its contents, Thornton said.

Actress Anita Ekberg Weds British Actor

Florence, Italy — (U.P.) — Movie star Anita Ekberg married British actor Anthony Steel yesterday despite a prim mayor who refused to let them hold the ceremony in the ancient City Council chamber.

It took the beautiful blonde and the former paratroop officer three hours to find another setting in the City hall for the ceremony.

It also took the glamorous actress known as the "Swedish Iceberg," three hours to squeeze herself into a form-fitting wedding dress, but she succeeded.

So the wedding came off at last, regardless of last minute complications that included a lovers' spat Monday night, rainy weather this morning and a hasty search for a suitable setting today.

Portlanders Indicted On Wire Tap Charges

Portland — (U.P.) — James B. Elkins, 55, and Raymond F. Clark, 33, were indicted on a wire tapping charge by the Multnomah county grand jury yesterday afternoon.

Elkins, Portland nightlife figure, and Clark, a former policeman, were freed on $12,000 bond each.

The charge stemmed from recordings seized last week in a raid by county police on Clark's home.

It was the second indictment of the day for Clark. Earlier he and Mrs. Sonny Martin were indicted on a charge of possessing "one armed bandit" slot machines.

Meanwhile, a District Court motion by Clark and Mrs. Martin to have slot machines, wire recordings and other material seized in last week's raid returned to them was continued over until today.
