

Quotes From the News

By UNITED PRESS

Naples, Italy—Former President Truman, denying his reported remark that "some squirrel-headed general" planned the bloody Salerno landing in World War II:
"I would make no comment like that."

Chicago—White House assistant Howard Pyle, on estimates that the nation's traffic death toll will reach a new high this year:
"We are now heading toward the most devastating year that we have ever known."

Washington—President Eisenhower, on why military leaders—currently feuding—must carry out orders:
"The day that discipline disappears from our forces, we will have no forces and we should be foolish to put a nickel into them."

London—An authoritative source, on reports Cypriots will try to assassinate the Duke of Edinburgh:
"We do not think there is cause for alarm."

Washington—James P. Richards (D-S.D.), chairman of the House Foreign Affairs committee, on why military aid to foreign countries should be cut:
"They've got plenty of money to do whatever needs to be done and if they run short, Congress will be back in January."

Hollywood—Actress Debra Paget, on why she had her Cadillac repainted and covered with jewels:
"I had it painted strawberry just like the velvet bedspread and drapes in my bedroom, and them added jewels like I have on handbags."

Army Reserve Trainee Promotions Changed
Army six-month reserve trainees are now eligible for promotion to private E-2 after serving four months. The Army announced last week. Previously, reservists could not be promoted until after they had completed training and returned to hometown units. The new policy will raise the

Dr. Allen Accepts Portland Teaching Job
Portland — Dr. John Elliot Allen has been appointed professor of geology at Portland State college, it was reported this week. He will come here from Socorro, N.M., was economic geologist with the New Mexico bureau of mines.

Dr. Allen is known in southern Oregon as he was stationed at Grants Pass for several years as field geologist with the state department of geology and mineral industries. He later became chief geologist with the department, before returning to teaching at Pennsylvania State college and the New Mexico school of mines.

pay of the individuals from $78 to $85.80 per month and will be retroactive to April 1 of this year, the Army said.
