Russian Twin-Jet Airliner Displayed At International

Reds Praise Britain's New Hunter Mark VI

Zurich, Switzerland — (U.P.) — Russia's new TU-104 twin-jet civilian airliner stole the thunder from the latest American and British jet fighters Saturday at the International Air Show at Kloten airport.

Russians at the show were high in their praise for Britain's gleaming Hawker Hunter jet fighter. And they peered closely at the new U.S. Air Force F-100 Supersabre, descendant of the planes that downed Russian-made MIGs in the Korean war.

But the crowds went for the Russian airliner which was first revealed to the west at London last month.

The onlookers even ignored a display of American guided missiles to gaze at the gleaming silver plane which made a brief flight over the field. The Russians were kept busy passing out leaflets giving details of the plane and its capacity.

Russia killed off chances of an aerial match between their latest MIG-17 jets and the Super-sabre, much to the disgust of the American pilots present. A Soviet official said MIGs definitely will not take part in the flying display which will be featured at the show today.

The Russians themselves seemed most interested in the Hawker Hunter Mark VI, never shown publicly before and reported to be one of the fastest jets in the world. The British kept it in an isolated hangar under guard.

Salem Man's Body Found in Rogue

Gold Beach — (U.P.) — Searchers Saturday afternoon recovered the body of Philip Johnson, about 45, Salem restaurant owner, from the waters of the Rogue river.

The body was discovered by Sam Tatum and Richard F. Chambers, both of Salem. They sighted the body in an eddy of the river about 10 miles upstream from the community of Agness.

Dean Johnson, McMinnville, piloting a helicopter landed near the river and searchers removed the body to Agness.

Johnson drowned Wednesday when the boat in which he and two companions were fishing, upset in the swift current of the river.

British Accept Red Invitation to Moscow

London — (U.P.) — British Air Minister Nigel Birch has accepted a Soviet invitation to attend an Air Force day celebration in Moscow next month, it was reported last night.

The Air Ministry said Birch will be accompanied by a group of high-ranking Royal Air Force officers, but they were not identified.

A similar invitation to attend the Air Force Day show in Moscow also has been sent the United States government, but Washington has not yet replied.

The only western officers to have seen previous Soviet air displays have been the air attaches at foreign embassies in Moscow.

Published Captured German Documents Relate Work Between 'Well-Known Congressman,' Propagandists

Washington — (U.P.) — The State Department Saturday published captured German documents which said a "well-known Republican congressman" worked in "close collaboration" with Nazi propagandists in 1940 in an effort to build up isolationist influence at the GOP presidential nominating convention.

The long-secret documents referred also to a need for funds—$3,000 in one case and $30,000 to $40,000 in another—to help finance the unnamed congressman's activities. But they did not directly allege the German Embassy actually supplied any money.

Sam Hersh Named Chairman of UMC Campaign Next Fall

Sam Hersh, general manager and director of the Big Y, has been named campaign chairman for the United Medford Crusade next fall, the board of directors has announced.

William Prentice, president of the board, said Hersh was the most outstanding candidate considered by the committee for the chairmanship. Plans have been made for the first meeting the third week of June at the Rogue Valley Country club for campaign leaders.

Prentice said agency budgets are now being prepared for submission by June 15. The UMC budget committee plans to complete budget reviews early in July. Members of the committee are Ray Sorenson, chairman, T. K. Oliver, Edward Branchfield, John Dellenback, David Holmes Jr., Tom G. Polk, and Robert J. Cunningham.

Hersh was born in Oakland, Calif., and graduated from Alameda High school. He attended Hastings Law school in San Francisco. Prior to entering the grocery business, he was employed by the Bank of Italy.

He came to Ashland in 1948 as manager of the Fridger Grocery company, and in 1952 became president and majority stockholder in the company. In February this year, he sold his interest in the Fridger company and joined the Big Y Super Markets, Inc.

Hersh, his wife, and children live in Ashland temporarily. A daughter, Valerie, is a junior at the University of Oregon.

Grants Pass Man To Be Shipped to Iowa

The body of John Gerald Grove, of 344 SW H st., Grants Pass, who was killed in a logging accident Friday afternoon, will be forwarded to Red Oak, Iowa, his home town, for funeral services and interment.

Grove, an employee of J. H. Baxter and company of Grants Pass, died almost instantly when he was struck in the back by a log on the Persist ranch about 44 miles north of Medford near Elk Creek.

County Coroner Carlos Morris said he was standing on a pile of logs, loading poles on a self-loading truck when one of the logs started to roll. He jumped to the ground and made an unsuccessful attempt to outrun it, Morris said. The log was about 55 feet long and 14 inches in diameter.

Grove was a veteran of World War II. Conger-Morris Funeral home is in charge of local arrangements.

Algerians Attack Oasis Village; 12 Europeans Killed

Victims Include Road Maintenance Foreman

Algiers, Algeria — (U.P.) — Algerian rebels, wielding knives, massacred 12 Europeans, including one woman, in a surprise attack on an oasis village on the edge of the Sahara desert in eastern Algeria, French authorities said Saturday.

Officials said a band of rebels swooped down on the defenseless village of Oumache Friday night in what appeared to be a well-organized attack.

They slit the throats of the 12 Europeans, most of them from metropolitan France. The victims included the French foreman of a road building and maintenance crew, and his wife.

Children Spared The couple's two children were spared, the officials said. The rebels also permitted 30 Moslem workers to flee unharmed.

The Rebel attack on the sleeping palm tree desert village was the worst against Europeans since a 17-man French army patrol was wiped out in a Rebel ambush eight days ago.

All the victims of Friday night's raid were members of a road construction crew housed at Oumache, 12 miles south of Biskra and 200 miles south of Algiers.

Rebels slit the throat of a French settler Friday on a lonely road outside of Batna, 66 miles south of Constantine. Elsewhere in Algeria, the bodies of seven Moslem victims of similar assassinations were re-covered.

In Batna Saturday two persons were seriously wounded when a bomb was hurled into the entrance of a synagogue crowded with worshippers. The alleged bomb-tosser was arrested.

Bulgaria's Bid for Relations Rebuffed

Washington — (U.P.) — The United States has rebuffed Communist Bulgaria's bid to reestablish diplomatic relations angrily broken off in 1954, it was disclosed Saturday.

Administration officials said American diplomats in Paris recently informed Bulgarian diplomats that this nation does not even want to talk about resuming relations. The Bulgarians were told, it was added, "that this government is not prepared to continue even informal talks on the matter."

The rebuff followed "several Bulgarian approaches" in Paris, at United Nations headquarters in New York, and at other places. The first approaches were made last February.

The United States recalled its diplomatic staff from Sofia and ousted Bulgarian diplomats here on Feb. 20, 1950.

The Jackson county board of equalization Friday concluded hearings on petitions for correction of property assessments. The board will give further consideration to the petitions in daily sessions that are expected to continue for at least two weeks.

San Francisco — (U.P.) — Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell will fly here Monday to make the principal address at a $100-a-plate Republican preparedness dinner.

REPAIR FLOOD DAMAGE—Repair work on Rogue River Valley Irrigation district's Bear Creek diversion weir is about 35 per cent complete, according to Harold Sexton, manager. The weir was extensively damaged in floods and high water last winter. Sexton said service is expected to be restored about June 10. A cantilever dam is being constructed to replace the section damaged. Sexton said it is designed so the type construction may be used in replacing present sections in the future, and that provisions are being made so the base of the dam can be lowered as the creek bed is lowered through erosion. —(Brainerd's Photo).

Kootenai Expected to Remain At High Level; Dikes Holding

By UNITED PRESS The Kootenai river was flowing inches from the tops of protective dikes at Bonney Ferry, Idaho, Saturday and was expected to remain at a dangerously high level until sometime next week.

However, dikes protecting the town held throughout Friday night and flood fighters said they were "holding our own" in the battle against the swollen river.

Nearly 16,000 acres of low-lying farmland has been inundated by the Kootenai and had forced some 400 persons to evacuate homes.

The river continued throughout Friday night at a level of 36.15 feet — flood stage is 31 feet — a decline of about five inches from its record high. But Army engineers were not sure whether the Kootenai had already crested or whether that peak had yet to come.

The U. S. weather bureau predicted the river level would continue near the 37 foot mark, then fall to 34 feet by Monday. However, Gilbert Bean, technical liaison officer for the Army engineers, said the river showed no marked sign of receding.

Bonny Ferry, a community of 2,000 residents, was not believed in imminent danger as dikes have been bolstered with sandbags to withstand a flood stage higher than 37 feet.

But some 1,000 weary soldier and civilian flood workers were having their hands full plugging up boils that were attempting to undermine the dikes and pour water into the city. The river receded early Friday as it spread through newly breached dikes, but the level rose again shortly after noon toward the record mark as high temperatures melted mountain snowpacks.

Revises Prediction Portland — (U.P.) — The weather bureau Saturday revised

Oregon Caves Goes on Summer Schedule Today

The Oregon Caves National monument went on its summer schedule this week end, according to Tom Williams, superintendent of the monument and Crater Lake National park.

The lodge at the Caves, which has been open so far this season only for daytime guests, began accommodating overnight visitors, he said. The road from the junction with the Redwood Highway at Cave Junction is in good shape, Williams said, and the Caves area has been cleaned up for the summer season.

Land Withdrawn for Klamath Reclamation

Washington — (U.P.) — The interior department has withdrawn 2,069 acres of public domain land in northern California for possible use for additional construction of the Klamath Reclamation project.

Reclamation Commissioner W. A. Dexheimer said Saturday the land may be used in construction of the Butte Valley Irrigation project.

Studies for the Butte project have not been completed. Present plan calls for irrigation of about 70,000 acres by importing water from the Klamath river.

Adlai, Estes Head For Showdown in Florida Primary

By UNITED PRESS Adlai E. Stevenson and Sen. Estes Kefauver headed toward a showdown Saturday in their hard-fought battle for Florida's 28 Democratic presidential votes.

Florida Democrats will choose between the two hopefuls Tuesday in the next to last presidential primary before the national convention in August. The outcome could be crucial to either candidate.

The Florida primary will top a week of heavy political activity. On Monday the Missouri democratic convention is expected to endorse Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) as a favorite son candidate and on Tuesday Kentucky Democrats will decide a bitter senatorial scrap.

North Carolina Democrats voted Saturday to nominate a senator, a governor and six members of the house of representatives. Interest centered on three of the House races where incumbent congressmen who refused to sign the "Southern Manifesto" against the Supreme Court's anti-segregation ruling faced stiff opposition.

The three are Reps. Harold D. Cooley, chairman of the House Agriculture committee, Thurmond D. Chatham and Charles B. Deane. Gov. Luther H. Hodges and Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. were expected to win renomination with little difficulty.

In Milwaukee, the Wisconsin Republican convention met Saturday to give the party's official blessings to a senatorial candidate for the seat now held by Sen. Alexander Wiley.

Wiley, who has been at odds with state party leadership, was seeking endorsement for a fourth term. But he was opposed by four challengers. Convention endorsement carries with it the party's financial support in the September primary.

Kentucky's Democratic primary Tuesday, Sen. Earle C. Clements is opposed for renomination by former Rep. Joe Bates in a fight that has split party ranks. Bates has the backing of Gov. A. B. (Happy) Chandler.

The primary winner will face formidable GOP opposition in November. Republicans will also choose their candidate in Tuesday's primary from a field that includes former Rep. Thurston B. Morton. He resigned as an assistant secretary of state to make the race.

In presidential politics, the expected endorsement of Symington as a favorite son by Missouri Democrats Monday will boost his stock as a "dark horse" contender.

No opposition was seen to the move to endorse Symington. The action will give him Missouri's 38 convention votes.

Official Tabulation Of School Votes Made

Official tabulation of votes in last Monday's Jackson county rural school district budget election showed 590 in favor of the proposed $1,786,719.92 budget and 281 opposed.

The unofficial count indicated 589 were in favor and 281 opposed. Superintendent Alf Meko said one vote was originally discounted in the West Side district because the ballot had not been marked in accordance with regulations. The vote was later declared valid, he said, since the voter's intent was clearly indicated.

Results of the Pinehurst area election were declared null and void, Meko said, because the election was held in that district on Tuesday, rather than Monday, the date advertised for the election. All 11 votes cast in that area were in favor of the budget.

The budget is for operation of schools in the district in the 1956-57 school year.

Parade Highlights Shriners Activities In Ceremonial Here

A throng of parade-lovers lined downtown streets Saturday afternoon to watch several hundred Shriners from Pacific coast temples parade as part of Hillah Temple's annual spring ceremonial festivities.

Overhanging clouds and a brief shower before the parade failed to discourage onlookers, who stood shivering on the sidewalks and crowded into the street.

Uniformed Hillah and Ben Ali marching units, drum and bugle corps, oriental bands, horse riders, floats, vehicle units and costumed comic characters of scooter riding Ben Ali Shriners who performed numerous riding antics with sirens screaming.

Among other parade eye-catchers were the "rope gang" of Hillah initiates and a dual-direction red car with white polka dots and two front ends.

A large portion of the parade consisted of Sacramento, Calif., Hillah temple participants. Among others represented were Portland, Klamath Falls, Cottage Grove and Roseburg clubs.

Theme of the Jackson county Shrine club float was the Shrine hospital. Aboard the float were a bed-ridden child, a doctor and two football players.

Shrine dignitaries riding in cars led the parade. Also in the parade were past potentates, wrecking crews, temple guards, patrolmen and chanters of the various participating temples.

Following the parade a pagant and flag ceremonials were held at Medford Senior High school. A reception was held later for Hillah Temple's divan, Ben Ali guests, rajahs and other dignitaries.

Ceremonial activities continued through the evening. Ben Ali temple's special train will leave at 10 a.m. today for Sacramento.

Fresno Man Fatally Injured in Dorris

Klamath Falls, Ore. — (U.P.) — One man was injured fatally and two others suffered hurts in a two-car collision about midnight Friday near Dorris, Calif., about 20 miles south of here.

John Harris, 57, a Southern Pacific railroad section hand from Fresno, Calif., was pronounced dead on arrival at Klamath Valley hospital here.

Two passengers in the Harris, Emerson Wells, about 40, of Sacramento, Calif., and James Mason, about 25, of Stockton, Calif., were injured. Hospital attendants described Wells' injuries as critical, Mason suffered facial cuts. Both are SP section gang workers.

Dorris Assistant Police Chief Clarence M. Houston said the Harris car was northbound when it collided with a pickup truck and house trailer on a curve near the Dorris city limits. Driver of the truck, Douglas Walton, 25, Yakima, Wash., was not hurt.
