Armed Police Guard General Motors Plant

Grand Blanc, Mich. — (U.P.) — Armed police guarded against further violence today when 121 riggers return to their jobs at the General Motors Corp. plant.

Five carloads of officers armed with riot guns were stationed outside the Fisher body plant to prevent a repetition of the riot which flared Friday between riggers and other union members in a jurisdictional dispute. Ten men were injured, two of whom still are hospitalized in serious condition.

Raul C. Allen, business manager of Riggers Union, Local 575, Sunday ordered the workers to return to their jobs after officers of the local met at Detroit.

Allen said he expected no renewal of violence today.
