

Suspect Arrested In Child Kidnaping

Portland —(U.P.)— Marcus H. Renhard of Portland was taken into custody at Vancouver, Wash., Saturday and was being held for Eureka, Calif., authorities who want him on a kidnaping charge.

With Renhard when he was picked up was his three-year-old son Johnny whom Renhard is accused of taking from a Eureka day nursery Thursday.

Police in three West Coast states had been looking for the 43-year-old lumberman since his wife filed the kidnaping charges. She claimed that she had been granted full custody of the child when she and Renhard were divorced in Grants Pass, Ore., a year ago.

Renhard was taken into custody at a Vancouver motel by Clark county sheriff's officers.

Defense Secretary Flies to Eniwetok

Honolulu —(U.P.)— Defense Secretary Charles Wilson and Adm. Felix B. Stump flew to the Pacific testing grounds at Eniwetok yesterday to observe the current series of H-bomb tests.

Wilson, who arrived here Sunday, said he was making the trip because he wants to keep abreast of the latest developments in the field of nuclear weapons.

He is scheduled to return to Honolulu June 2.

ADMIRAL WARNS TYRANTS

South Bend, Ind. —(U.P.)—Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, chief of naval operations, said Sunday the United States will never start an aggressive war, but "we will not be pushed around." U.S. strength rests basically on "moral principles," he told a commencement audience at Notre Dame university. These principles, coupled with economic and military strength, will be used against "any tyrant or groups of tyrants that threaten the cause of freedom in the world," he said.

Brother David, Heartbreaker of Silent Films, On Way Back To Beloved Indians

New York —(U.P.)— Brother David is on his way back to his beloved Piute Indians without funds for the house trailer he wanted to help him bring the word of God to them.

He is not bitter. Quite the contrary, he is happy and humble. But the failure could have been galling to a man of weaker spirit.

For it was in New York, before the first world war, that he got his start as a stage matinee idol, and from here he went to Hollywood to become a movie star in the days of Valentino and Nazimova.

Silent Film Heartbreaker
The man the Indians of three Nevada reservations know and love simply as Brother David, a Protestant Episcopal lay missionary, is Gareth Hughes, heartbreaker of the silent film era. He is still handsome, at 62. With flowing white hair, he looks a bit saintly.
For 12 years he has lived and worked with the Indians around McDermitt, Nixon, and Wadsworth, Nev. Poor health now has forced him to give up active Indian work for the church, but he plans to devote the rest of his life to them in a non-denominational capacity.

Became Nervous

The mileage between reservations is great. About the only way he can live while visiting the Indians is in a trailer which can be pulled by his old station wagon. He came to New York for a few days "to see the old place again and get the bite on somebody to put me a little 20-foot trailer so I can visit and help my friends."

But a few days of pounding the pavements made him nervous—"because I saw only white faces, and I realized I could not live away from the Indians." So he took off without a trailer. He had had some radio appearances planned, but he cancelled them, fearing they might not be in keeping with the religious nature of his work and the dignity of his Indian friends—"They're our only aristocrats."

With half of Hollywood supporting Las Vegas in one part of Nevada, it might seem odd to some to find a former star living with the Indians in another part. But Hughes says: "I worshipped the Piutes from the start. I never saw so much beauty as in their old faces—never such patience. I thought of the broken treaties, and I thought: 'Maybe I can show them one white person who loves them.'"

Lived in Indian Country

He lived in Indian country for four years before going into a Massachusetts monastic order. He emerged as Brother David and was assigned to the three reservations. For the last eight years, as a lay missionary, he has preached, baptized, conducted burials, run sewing guilds, distributed clothing, shared tragedy and happiness with the Piute people.

From such signs as "Church tomorrow, 11 a.m. — Bro. David," the Indian kids deduced his name was "Bro" and that affectionate name has stuck: "Bro, I need dress. — Bro, Johnny don't have shoes. . .

Bro, our child is ill; please pray for him."
Brother David's past is coming back in a queer way, now. Sometimes some Indians get to Reno and look at old silent films on television: "Bro, I see you on picture the other day. Good!"

It was 1919 when Gareth Hughes left the New York stage for Hollywood to play opposite Clara Kimball Young in "The Eyes Of Youth." He can't return here without growing nostalgic about such things as dancing with Isadora Duncan in a Shakespeare masque in 1917, drinking ale with Mrs. Fiske, taking Lily

Langtry to a John Golden opening.
He'll never go back to acting, he says. Life as Gareth Hughes is gone. But Brother David is running right along.

They'll Do It Every Time

DEPENDABILITY? Let's face it! No car at any price can match the solid ruggedness you'll find when you . . .

DISCOVER THE DIFFERENCE IN DODGE!

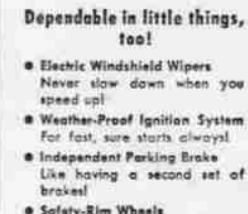

Dodge gave the most amazing proof of dependability ever recorded! In a grueling test of endurance at Bonneville, the '36 Dodge was driven at top speed night and day for 14 full days. It went over 31,000 miles at an average speed of 92.86 mph without a single breakdown!

The Dodge frame is built to take it! Massive box-section side rails extend the full length of the frame, are stronger than U-channel or I-beam types used in other cars. Short, rigid brackets anchor the body securely to the frame.

Dependable power on demand! 240 hp. aircraft-type V-8 whipped all cars in NASCAR acceleration tests.

Mechanically perfect! Dodge push-button driving with its fool-proof mechanical design is the most dependable of any on the road.

- Dependable in little things, too!
- Electric Windshield Wipers Never slow down when you speed up!
 - Weather-Proof Ignition System For fast, sure starts always!
 - Independent Parking Brake Like having a second set of brakes!
 - Safety-Rim Wheels For added blow-out protection!
 - Safe-Guard Brakes Have two cylinders for surer stops!
