

Romantic Fashions Forecast For Fall by Designer of Hats

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY
United Press Correspondent
New York — (U.P.)—One of the earliest fall fashion predictions came out today. Forecast: Romantic.

Hat designer Fred of John Fredericks broke the silence that has surrounded guarded showings of fall clothes in recent weeks. Top designers traditionally release their fall and winter styles in July.

Fred invited a few reporters to his mirrored showroom and revealed the hats he's designed to go with the still-secret dresses and suits.

"It's a romantic time," the designer said. "People are getting sick of starkness."

Then came feathers, furs, veils piled like cake frosting; silk leaves glistening with crystal drops and shimmering mounds of tulle and satin.

Draping Brims

Many of the brims were wide and drooping. Satin turbans draped down over the ears and often left the crown bare. Sometimes a turban crown was filled with a detachable cluster of silk flowers or a jeweled and feathered centerpiece.

Hats to wear with tailored suits came in a downy soft material Fred called moussé. One daytime cloche had a turquoise moussé crown and an emerald green velvet brim that cupped down over the cheeks and rose to a V-shaped peak over the forehead.

"We have had such a naked hat for so long," the designer said.

The severe mushroom shapes of untrimmed felt that became popular last spring were missing, although there were many round crowns and down-turned brims. But removable bands of ribbons and feathers and softened shapes made of crushable fabric disguised the stark outlines.

Three Types

"I think we will have three types of hats next winter," Fred said. "We will have the tall daytime hat, the turban and the gala hat, or the dramatic hat to wear with evening clothes."

Some of his tall daytime hats have the shaped crowns and narrow brims of men's top hats. He calls them "Belle Brummel."

The evening hats have cartwheel brims made of wispy materials.

Feathers, brushed to silken flatness with an occasional frothy end left to curl aloft, are made into high-crowned cloches and wide-brimmed evening hats. Even feather flowers are used to trim felt hats.

The romantic era of the 1890's obviously inspired many of the billowing bonnets. One daytime soft felt with a ruffled brim and a puffy crown, shaped much like a workaday dusting cap, goes all the way back to Byzantine days, Fred explained.

Return

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Rector, 1229 Morrow road, have returned to their home after spending two weeks in Ft. Worth, Tex., and Globe, Ariz.

Friendship Night Held For Lodges

Jacksonville — Ruth Rebekah Lodge held its first friendship night Monday at the historical IOOF hall. A short business meeting was held and Mrs. Charles LeMoine, who recently represented Ruth Rebekah lodge at the 69th session of the Rebekah Assembly of Oregon held in Tillamook, read the president's report.

Visiting lodges represented were Amethyst Rebekah lodge from Gold Hill, Olive Rebekah from Medford, Mt. Pitt Rebekah of Central Point, Hope Rebekah of Ashland, Marguerite Rebekah of Kerby, Arbor Vitae Rebekah of Myrtle Creek, La France Rebekah of Clatskanie, Oregon, Plympton Rebekah of West Port, Ore., and Etna Rebekah of Grants Pass.

The program consisted of several short skits by Olive Rebekah members, numbers by Gold Hill and a musical number by the Kerby lodge.

Jacksonville presented a scene from an initiation as it might have been done 60 years ago. Kerosene lamps were used for light and appropriate costumes of that day were worn by Mrs. Albert Hackert, Mrs. Jack McDaniels, Miss Lucile Taylor, Mrs. James Noble, Mrs. P. E. Matheny and Mrs. Paul Thompson of Gold Hill. As each lady modeled the garments a brief history of their origin was narrated by Mrs. John Black.

A total of 92 members, including several men members, were present at the gathering.

An exchange of gifts was held between the lodges and refreshments were served in the downstairs dining hall at the conclusion of the evening.

Grange

Eagle Point Grange met June 5 at 8 p.m.

Mrs. Ray Ragsdale took the office of Flora, so Mrs. Tom Vestal would serve as secretary. Mrs. Grant Hubbell, the regular secretary, is attending State Grange convention in Pendleton this week. She and her husband were elected as alternate delegates.

Mr. and Mrs. John Clarke of Lakeview, Calif., were in attendance. It has been nearly six years since they moved to California, but they have retained continuous membership in Eagle Point Grange, and attend when possible.

The regular committee reports were heard, Mrs. Augusta Perry's report for the educational committee told how Father's day was originated in 1936 in Spokane, Wash.

Cliff Moore gave a final report about the fire district project. Our Grange has had to call a halt to this project, for the time being, at least, because of complications which have developed.

Jake Brown reported that the sprinkler system is now installed and the lawn is already starting to grow.

The Grange gave a vote of appreciation to Mrs. Augusta Perry for the many beautiful flowers she has provided for Grange decorations these past months. The large pennies used for this meeting were outstanding. Roses, too, were used. The program was a special memorial service, led by the chaplain, Mrs. Jake Brown. Among flowers placed on the altar was a special spray of red roses, in memory of Rosa Smith, Ross Kline and Bob Fowler, members who have passed away, since last Memorial day.

Mrs. Gertrude Stanley stated that next meeting the display will be hand-woven rugs. Next serving committee will be Mr. and Mrs. Tom Vestal and Mr. and Mrs. David Wright.

Ladies of the Grange provided strawberry shortcake to honor the men for Father's day, coming Sunday, June 17.

The next meeting will be June 19. Bob Bitterling will have charge of the program.

CLAMS FOR DIP

New York — (U.P.) — To vary your cocktail dips, try this one with clams and tomatoes. Mix a 3-ounce package of cream cheese with 2 tablespoons each of finely diced tomatoes, minced clams, 1 tablespoon of clam juice, ½ tablespoon of minced fresh parsley, ¼ teaspoon of salt, ¼ teaspoon each of ground black pepper and celery salt, and a dash of garlic powder. Beat until the mixture is fluffy. Serve as a dip for potato chips, fresh vegetables, etc. Yield, 1 cup.

Combinations Good In Spring Vegetables

New York — (U.P.) — Fresh peas and carrots combined are a menu standby, but actually there is no limit to the number of tasty combinations of vegetables.

Now that the fresh ones are filling the markets, here are some suggested combinations from the test kitchens of the Western Growers Association. Try carrots and celery chunks or green beans; fresh tomatoes and summer squash; or sautéed fresh corn and green pepper. Or, cook separately carrots, green beans, small whole onions, broccoli flowerets and new potatoes. Combine them and top with grated cheese or a hollandaise sauce.

Here is a recipe for another duo — creamed peas and cucumbers.

2 cups fresh, shelled peas (1½ lbs.); ½ medium onion, sliced thin; 1 teaspoon salt; 1½ cups of boiling water; 1 small cucumber peeled and diced; 2 teaspoons butter or margarine; ½ cup light cream and a dash of pepper.

Combine the peas, onions and ½ teaspoon of salt in saucepan, add boiling water and cook covered for 10 minutes. Add cucumber and continue cooking covered for 10 more minutes. Add the butter, the rest of the salt, cream and pepper. Heat slowly for 2 or 3 minutes, until the cream is heated. Serve immediately. Makes 4 servings.

Older Women Now Getting Job Breaks

Boston — (U.P.) — Women between 65 and 70 are finding it surprisingly easy to get jobs here these days.

In fact, the demand for elderly women has increased so that the Women's Educational & Industrial Union has appointed Mrs. Marjorie Roberts to direct the placing of the oldsters.

Many of these older women have been retired by some of the larger firms at 65. They receive social security, but the law permits them to earn an additional $1,200 annually in either part-time work or temporary jobs.
