

Seaton Urged to Slow Plans for Fisheries Bureau

Washington — U.P. — Representatives of 13 conservation groups has been urged Interior Secretary Fred A. Seaton to slow down plans to establish a new bureau of fisheries until Congress can act.

The conservationists, who met with Seaton at his request, told the new interior secretary they are "unalterably opposed to the new bureau" which would split the Fish and Wild Life Service.

The meeting was closed to the press. But the conservationists met with reporters later. They said they told Seaton to slow down plans to set up the new bureau on July 1 in order to give Congress a chance to take appropriate action.

Assured 'Second Look'

In a statement after the closed door session, Seaton said he assured the conservationists a "second look" would be given the pending reorganization of the fishery function of the department. Seaton said he was interested "in examining all sides of this important question."

Seaton also assured his callers that "the department is continuing its vigorous efforts to resist transfer of Wichita national refuge land to the military."

The White House announced on June 4 that the new bureau would be established to take over administration of all fishery activities now vested in the fish and wild life service.

C. R. Gutermuth, vice president of the wild life management institute and a spokesman for all the conservation groups, said Seaton was told that separation of the service would lead to costly duplication of effort.

Around Hollywood

Hollywood — U.P. — Is Elvis Presley a "sexy" singer? A psychiatrist thinks the new rock 'n roll sensation is so sensual that the bobby-soxers feel the same way, but Elvis insists he's "just a wiggler."

Presley has skyrocketed this year by belting out a combination of hillbilly and rock 'n roll tunes such as "Heartbreak Hotel." While he sings he rotates his hips and bounces around the stage, a behavior that earned him the nickname of Pelvis Elvis.

It also causes bobby-soxers to bounce out of their theater seats in a screaming frenzy.

One psychiatrist I queried on the subject decided Presley's movements "have sexual overtones and can prompt a group of listeners to imitate him."

'Silly Statement'

But when I interviewed Presley during his tour here he scoffed, "That's a silly statement."

"I don't try to be sexy," said Presley, a sleepy-looking man of 21 with a drawl learned in his native Memphis, Tenn.

"I don't do any vulgar movements. I just do a lot of wiggling, and quiverin'—but I never do a bump and grind. I can't stand still when I sing so the kids can't sit still."

Presley thinks the bobby-soxers' behavior is "just great." He does not mind that young females with braces on their teeth trail him around the streets and send him neckties and billfolds tucked into romantic letters.

Fans' Antics Liked

"I like it," he grinned. "The time you worry is when they stop 'throwin' themselves at you."

In private life Presley and his four Cadillacs cut quite a romantic figure, too. He dates various young women nearly every night.

A year and a half ago Presley was an unknown Tennessee truck driver. He paid to have a song recorded and a record agent heard it and signed him. He's conquered TV and personal appearance tours. Next the public will see Elvis as—a dramatic actor. He returns to Hollywood in August for his first picture under his seven-year contract with producer Hal Wallis at Paramount studio.

"I'm not going to sing in the picture," he said. "Singers come and go—they die out. I want to be a dramatic actor."

Finding of Body Ends Two-Week Hunt

Kelso, Wash. — U.P. — A two-week long manhunt ended yesterday afternoon when Cowlitz county sheriff's deputies found the body of Manthus H. Witty, 60, in the Cowlitz river about two miles north of here.

Witty had been the object of an intensive search since the shotgun slaying on June 2 of his former wife, Gladys, 49, and Marvin Marcross, 32, in Mrs. Witty's apartment in Kelso.

Witty had been wanted for questioning about the shootings. His car was found abandoned near the river.

Dynamite Blast To Clear Way for Actual Building of Brownlee Dam

Brownlee, Ore. — U.P. — A blast of 2,800 pounds of dynamite was touched off at Brownlee today to clear the way for the start of actual construction on a dam that could nearly double southern Idaho's electrical power output—if it is completed.

BEWARE OF CAT

Wilmington, N.C. — U.P. — Miss Reta Rema, a Swiss employee of the United Nations, was asked by police to keep her cat confined for two weeks. The animal, a "usually-gentle" Indian jungle cat, Thursday bit a hotel housekeeper who came too close to the bed.

The explosion was to complete a 2,555-foot long tunnel that will divert the Snake river from its normal course and permit construction of the $63,000,000 Brownlee dam designed to generate 360,000 kilowatts of power.

Brownlee is one of three highly controversial rock-fill dams to be constructed on the deepest river gorge on the North American continent by Idaho Power company. Construction of the other two dams in the 7,000-foot chasm at Oxbow and Hells Canyon has not yet started.

'Calculated Risk'

However, the three dams may never be completed and Idaho Power company is proceeding with construction on a "calculated risk" basis.

Some 700 men worked in two shifts throughout the winter, despite up to 10 inches of snow on the ground, to complete the horseshoe-shaped diversion tunnel that was finished today.

River Too High

Water from the Snake river will not be diverted through the tunnel for about 30 days because the river is now too high to permit construction of two small cofferdams just beyond the tunnel opening.

The cofferdams will back the river up to a height where it will enter the tunnel opening, which is now slightly above the level of the water.

Once the river is diverted through the tunnel, water will be pumped out of that part of the river channel which is bypassed by the tunnel, and the 395-foot high dam will be erected in that area.

Brownlee dam will be one of the 15 highest dams in the world. It will be double the height of the Idaho state capitol building and 107 feet higher than the dome of the nation's capitol in Washington, D.C.

Officials of Idaho Power company, the largest electrical power utility in the state, said the big Brownlee unit alone would about double the firm's power output in southern Idaho and eastern Oregon. The three dams together will generate a total of 1,175,000 kilowatts.
