University Honors Medford Doctor; Attend Graduates

Dr. and Mrs. L. D. Inskip returned to their home on Hillcrest road last week after attending graduation at the University of California, Berkeley, and at the university's branch at Santa Barbara.

Dr. Inskip, who took his bachelor's degree from the same university in 1921, was honored by being invited to march in the graduation procession with the president, board of regents and other distinguished persons. About 35,000 guests watched the graduation of some 5,800 students.

Dr. Inskip wore the academic robe which his mother, Dr. Annie Dolman Inskip, wore when she received her doctor of philosophy degree from the University of Chicago in 1900, and had also worn the robe when he received his doctor of medicine degree from the University of Oregon.

Later the Inskip family were in Santa Barbara to attend graduation of the university's branch there since their son-in-law, Paul Lawrence Vigas, received a bachelor's degree in geology. Mr. and Mrs. Vigas will be on the staff of an oil company.

Today the Inskips planned to be in Palo Alto for the graduation of another son-in-law, Forrest Riordan, who will receive his doctor of medicine degree from Stanford university. He will also wear the Inskip academic robe. Dr. and Mrs. Riordan will move from Burlingame to San Francisco in the near future where Dr. Riordan will begin his internship at San Francisco City and County hospital.

Dr. and Mrs. Inskip were accompanied to California by their two sons, Charles and Jonathan, who the former missed his own graduation ceremonies at Medford High school in order to attend the California graduations.

Newlyweds Live at Air Base; Rites Take Place in Kansas

Of interest here is news of the wedding of Miss Ardis Geraldine Hamm of Bird City, Kan., to Lt. Stephen Paul Meyers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Meyers, 181 Black Oak drive, Medford. The ceremony took place May 6 in St. Joseph Catholic church in Bird City, and the newlyweds are living at 1517 North Pontiac in Roswell, N.M., where the bridegroom is stationed at Walker Air Force base.

The Rev. Julian Patterson performed the double-ring ceremony at four o'clock before an altar, decorated with baskets of white gladioli and candelabra.

Miss Jane Roberts was organist and accompanied Mrs. Robert Boersma, cousin of the bride, who sang.

Students Give Recital

A group of piano students of Mrs. Roberta Ward Bebb presented a June musicale Monday evening at Mrs. Bebb's residence studio.

The major part of the program was devoted to the performance of the compositions of the old masters and introductory synopses of their lives.

Miss Margaret Selby demonstrated a technical study on the art of finger dexterity by Czerny and related statistics on the recent "Maturity of Music in America."

Played were works of Beethoven, Schubert, MacDowell, Mozart, Gounod, Mendelssohn, Schumann and Chopin.

A surprise conclusion was the appearance of William F. Perl Jr., a former student of Mrs. Bebb. He recently was dismissed from active duty as a lieutenant with the Royal Air Force at Brize Norton base, England. He entertained the guests with compositions of Chopin and Gershwin.

Mrs. Bebb paid tribute to two of her pupils, who were graduated last week from Medford high school, Miss Katherine Gott, voted "girl of the year," and winner of the Kiwanian award of merit for outstanding work in school music; the other, Dick Arnold, a member of the high school band and choir and winner of a scholarship to Lewis and Clark college, awarded by Elk Lumber company. Miss Gott and young Arnold presented Mrs. Bebb a gift and she was given a corsage by her other students.

Participating in the musicale were Linda Beatty, Alden Stewart, Heather Rode, John Flanagan, Carolyn Carr, Michael Phair, Kay Lee Ruhl, Mary Lou Cole, Miss Selby, Katherine Gott, Richard Arnold and Mr. Perl.

Art Instructor Exhibits Work In Kansas City

Eleven paintings done by Warren Wolf, Medford High school art department head, are on exhibition for the month of June at the Lawrence galleries in Kansas City, Mo. The exhibit is a two-man show, the other artist being Meyer Lieberman of Kansas City. All Mr. Wolf's work is done in oils and all are moderns.

About 75 persons attended the cocktail party held in connection with the exhibit opening on June 3. Two of Mr. Wolf's paintings were sold at that time. One, entitled "Autumn" was exhibited here at the former Art center, and was of greens, yellows, golds and browns.

The other is a sculptural structure work.

Mr. Wolf also has exhibited a painting in the annual art exhibit at Grants Pass sponsored by American Association of University Women, being held this week end. The painting, mainly in water colors, is of pear trees in blossom and the artist has incorporated several techniques with the use of India ink, tempera and sponge.

Several works done by students in his Medford high school classes also are being exhibited this year at the AAUW show, and is the first time that students' works from Medford have been shown.

Former University Professor Speaks for UN Chapter Here

The lack of trust and the hatred of one group for another is the biggest single factor that make living in Europe so much different than in the United States according to Dr. Edna Landros, who spoke for a meeting of Medford chapter, Oregon United Nations association Thursday night.

The meeting, held at the home of the president, Lawrence Solin, and Mrs. Solin, followed a potluck dinner. Dr. Landros, professor-emeritus of foreign languages at the University of Oregon, recently returned home after traveling in Europe.

"With work and help and education, we may, through the United Nations, alleviate some of these attitudes in Europe; but it will take a long time, as these wrongs have been going on for generations," Dr. Landros said.

The three distinct patterns of living in Europe at the present time were stressed by Dr. Landros. First, the pattern of the recently occupied country was mentioned, of which Austria was the example. Then, Spain, which represented the country living under a dictatorship and East Germany, which is still occupied.

Dr. Landros said that she was trying to give her audience a picture of the little things, which are not mentioned in books, but which still impress the outsider far more than the larger facts, which are more apparent.

The paper shortage in Spain is particularly expressive of the almost incredible poverty of this charming country, she said. Bus tickets are used until they are in shreds, the buses meeting and handing the tickets back and forth, as there are not enough of these printed tickets to take care of one day's operations, she added.

Newspaper Analyzed

The Spanish newspaper is unbelievable to Americans used to the operations of our free press. Dr. Landros mentioned the A. B. C., which is the largest daily in Madrid. The first three pages of one issue were devoted to a discussion—a dull, pedantic, polysyllabic discussion, of Nietzsche. The middle six pages were devoted to advertising and the last seven listed all the processions and observances of Holy Week in Spain. As far as foreign news went, there was a three inch, one column article at the bottom of one page in the middle of the paper, announcing the freeing of Spanish Morocco, advising Spain's neighbors to the north to follow suit.

The brotherhood and true social democracy of the Spaniards is outstanding, particularly in the context of complete political dictatorship, she said. However, Dr. Landros pointed out, there is not much evidence of political awareness on the part of the general population. "The Austrians, with whom we associate the gaieties of the Mozart opera, are an exhausted people," the speaker said. "After six years of war and ten of occupation by the USSR, they have no energy to expend on present pleasures. They act as if every iota of extra energy they have must be saved to get them through the remaining years of their life," she added.

The Austrians are still passionately fond of music and every performance of the Opera House in Vienna is still filled to capacity, which is 4,000 seats, with as many standees as fire regulations permit. The people come in their work clothes, and even though Austria gets bitterly cold, no gloves are to be seen, as they are considered a luxury now that the country is so poor.

East Berlin, under the Russians, is still unreconstructed. West Berlin, though poor, is slowly being rebuilt by hand labor and hand tools. One of the biggest problems of West Berlin is to find some sort of employment for the stream of refugees, the speaker declared. From New Year's Day until April 17 of this year, there were 5,000 refugees from East Berlin alone.

Dr. Landros mentioned that one of the most shocking things to her, indicative of the political immorality of the Russians, was the fact that the black market in East Berlin is operated by the government.
