Educators Bicker Over Ability To Instruct Readers

Moorhead, Minn. (U.P.)—Educators bickered today over whether teachers know enough about reading to pass on their knowledge to the nation's youngsters.

The running verbal fight broke out among 300 teachers, psychologists and school administrators attending the five-day reading conference at Concordia College here.

Emmett A. Betts, director of the conference and head of the Betts reading clinic of Haverford, Pa., charged that teachers are getting gyped in the colleges and "are taught reading methods by men who never taught a reading class in their lives."

Must Be Democracy
There must be democracy in the classroom, but "what we have now is the Hitler-Mussolini goosestep," Betts said.

He got a quick retort from Dr. A. L. Knoblauch, president of Morehead State Teachers college, and Dr. Gloyd Robbins, director of professional division at the school.

They objected to Betts' "blanket indictment of teachers' colleges" and his charge that politics influence appointments in state schools.

Knoblauch said his school does not hire teachers unless they know how to teach and suggested that Betts "take another look at these institutions."

Female Frogs Flown From France For Lovesick Croakers in L.A.

Los Angeles (U.P.)—Two female frogs completed a long hop Tuesday from France over the North Pole to the Los Angeles International Airport to join two lovesick bullfrogs which have been croaking in remorse for the last two years.

The long hop was arranged after visitors at Los Angeles County's Descanso Gardens noted that a pair of male bullfrogs imported from France several years ago were croaking love calls in vain. No American female frogs would have anything to do with them.

Attendants at the lush gardens then remembered that two years ago their mates died after being imported from France. Don Hoster, a local photographer, felt sorry for the frustrated frogs so he made a tape recording of their love calls.

The recording was sent to Southern France where the particular species of frogs hangs out. Sure enough, two females jumped at the chance and arrangements were made to fly them on a Scandinavian Airliner over the polar route. It was the first time in history that a frog was flown over the Pole.

So over the North Pole and into California the females leaped in the cause of love. Well at least they jumped at the right time since it's Leap Year.

Portland Attorney Barred by Court

Salem (U.P.)—The Oregon Supreme Court today barred James L. Means, Portland, from the practice of law in Oregon for six months. The State Bar Association had recommended a one-year suspension for Means who recently pleaded guilty of a federal charge of failing to file an income tax return.

The court said the penalty was reduced because Means had preserved his records, had cooperated with the investigation and had dealt honestly with his clients.

The justices overturned a conviction of Robert F. Goodwin of Salem for buying and receiving stolen property because they said an inadmissible confession was used in obtaining the conviction in Marion County Circuit Court.
