

Russia Aiding Egypt in Campaign To Woo Libya From Western Ties

Tripoli — (U.P.) — Russia is assisting Egypt in a campaign to woo strategic Libya from her western military alliances, according to western diplomats.

The expressed fears that the additional backing Egypt is receiving from the Soviet Union may, in the long run, lead Premier Mustapha Ben Halim or a successor government to oust the United States from its massive Wheelus Field air base and force the British to remove large army detachments from Libyan soil.

Western observers here point out that "neutralist" Egypt and Communist Russia have the same objective here, elimination of a strategic western foothold in the Arab world and close to Russia's exposed underbelly.

They say this common objective has led the two nations unofficially to join hands in a campaign to make Ben Halim adopt a militarily neutral position.

The Libyan government is presently pursuing a difficult fence-sitting policy, trying to maintain a necessary friendship with Egypt and at the same time hold on to alliances with the West.

Libya needs western money it gets for the bases and in economic aid to balance its growing budget and finance development plans. At the same time, the young kingdom cannot afford to alienate Egypt, which one western observer described as "Libya's inescapable big brother."

The struggle has continued about even so far, western observers believe. This is true despite tremendous Egyptian influence in Libya, particularly in the educational system and the judiciary, which causes concern among Libyans as well as western officials.

But the Russians are now in the picture and cooperating with the Egyptians to lure Libya from her pro-western position, western diplomats say. They cite the following as such:

1. The Russo-Libyan agreement to establish diplomatic relations was made in Cairo.
2. Western diplomats say Egypt strongly urged Libya to accept Russia's recent aid offer.

Actor Suffers Cut In Filming Accident

Hollywood — (U.P.) — Actor George Montgomery, husband of Singer Dinah Shore, was recovering today from a serious gash on his hand suffered when a knife took a wrong flip during the filming of a movie scene.

The actor was injured Tuesday at the Iverson ranch in San Fernando Valley where scenes from "54 Washington Street" were being filmed. Montgomery tossed the knife into the air but instead of catching it by the handle he grabbed it by the blade and the knife hit a tree limb and flipped as it came down.

Montgomery was rushed to an emergency hospital where 15 stitches were required to close the wound. Doctors said the actor would not be able to work for several days.

A depression on a mountain top in Ceylon is regarded by Buddhists as the footprint of Buddha, left when he stepped from earth to heaven. Moslems consider it made by Adam, the first man, who allegedly stood 100 years on one foot in penance for original sin.

Couple Wins $100 Weekly for 12th Year

Hollywood — (U.P.) — Steve and Dorothy Rowland increased their total winnings to $58,400 Tuesday night by winning $100 a week for a 12th year on Edgar Bergen's television program "Do You Trust Your Wife?"

The couple, however, had to win a tie-breaking second quiz in order to emerge the victors. The Los Angeles pair defeated Gene and Jen Loven, operators of a Hollywood swimming school.

The winners on the CBS show receive $100 a week for a year each time they win on the weekly show. They also get the opportunity to return the following week and meet the current challengers on the program.

THE 'EASY' JOB
Newark, N.J. — (U.P.) — Police Monday arrested a burglary suspect who, they said, fell asleep on the job. John W. Palmer, 23, was found lying across a bed, snoring, in a flat that had been broken into and ransacked.

Around Hollywood

Hollywood — (U.P.) — When Buster Keaton reflects upon the five most beautiful sweater girls of all time in the movies, he thinks of beauty back in Mother's day.

And what about the busy queens of 1936?

Either top-heavy or ploney, he charges. The famed silent screen comedian didn't even hesitate when I asked him about the champions of today: Jane, Gina, Sophia and the rest.

"Too big!" said Keaton.

"Monroe All Right"
"Marilyn Monroe is all right, though," he added.

To him the most beautiful sweater girls "aren't necessarily the biggest, but the most beautiful." On his list the "undisputed champ of all time" is the late Barbara Lamarr.

"She had beautiful proportions plus a gorgeous face," he said. "Nowadays the girls concentrate too much on the bust. It's the all-over proportions that count."

The other Keaton champs in the measure department are Billie Dove, Betty Blyth, Ollie Thomas and Jean Harlow—all stars 25 and more years ago.

Buster explained he picked old-timers because in those days the female figures were not only top-heavy, but real.

Bras Not Needed
"The girls who had good figures didn't wear bras or girdles," he said. "Today you never know whether a girl's figure is real or not."

Keaton picked his list at Paramount studio where he's teaching Donald O'Connor his famous pratfalls and stunts for a movie on the deadpan comic's life. "The Buster Keaton Story."

Buster is extra busy these days. He also appears often on television. And with the fortune he collected from Paramount for his story he's setting up a one-acre "ranch" far out in the San Fernando valley.

Former Residents Visiting in Valley

Mr. and Mrs. Erle R. White, formerly of Medford, now of Sacramento, are visiting friends and relatives in the valley this week.

White came here in 1922, and worked for the C. E. Gates Ford agency until 1928, when he opened his own business, the E. R. White Machinery company. He left in 1942 and is now semi-retired, after some years in the real estate and insurance business.

They arrived Sunday and are staying at the home of Mrs. Cora White, 220 South Ivy st., and also are visiting with their son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Harold White, Jacksonville.

Also visiting with the younger Whites is their daughter, Mrs. Margaret Murphy, also of Sacramento, and her three children, Patrick, Judy and Janet.
