Roving Policemen On Duty in Chicago

Chicago—(U.P.)—Chicago has a new "flying squadron" of 225 policemen created to crack down on crime in full force wherever it pops up within the city.

The squadron has no permanent beat but operates on roving assignments. It is sent in to blanket areas where crime rates are high or rising.

The squadron is divided into 20 teams of 10 patrolmen and a sergeant. Each team patrols a beat about three to six blocks long. Each team also has a traffic man on a three-wheel motorcycle.

Four lieutenants and a captain complete the corps and supervise its operation.

According to the American Municipal Association, the special unit is flexible. It might work in one area for one night and concentrate its efforts the next night on a section of the city miles away.

In each case, the "saturation" force supplements regularly assigned police.

Re-enlistment rate of U. S. soldiers in Europe was up sharply in 1955 over 1954. During the first 10 months of the year, nearly 14,000 signed up for another hitch compared to slightly more than 4,500 in the same period of the preceding year.

The Medical Roundup

by Walter Alvarez

Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic
Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation

Is Paget's Disease Heriditary?

In a recent column I mentioned that it has long been felt that the most probable cause of Paget's Disease of the bones is heredity. Now a friendly correspondent sends me proof of this. He says that the disease has afflicted several persons in his family.

Walter Alvarez

His parents had four children who today, range in age from 67 to 58 years. The three eldest—two brothers and a sister—have Padget's disease in an advanced stage, but the youngbrother shows no sign of it. The disease has afflicted the three for at least 25 years, and it is slowly getting worse. My correspondent says that all of his bones, from head to foot, have become enlarged.

Although neither of the parents was affected, the mother was one of five children, all of whom had large bodies with large bones such as the two brothers and the one sister now have. My correspondent wonders if these large bones were a mild manifestation of the disease. He knows of no appearance of the disease in his mother's antecedents.

Table of Antidotes for Poisons

The El Monte Community Safety Council, El Monte, Calif., has devised an excellent chart giving the antidotes for all the several poisons children and adults can get hold of in a home. It is the sort of a chart that should be tacked up inside the medicine chest in every home where there are children. Mrs. Don Begley tells me that groups of people who would like to reproduce this chart and distribute it among their members can get in touch with her (please do not write to me for it). A small fee will be charged for the chart.

Dr. Alvarez hopes his readers will understand that it would be impossible for him to answer requests for information or to attempt to diagnose by mail.

Shoe Polish Used To Paint Pictures

Philadelphia —(U.P.)— According to Clarence G. Bird, a retired tool room foreman, pictures painted with shoe polish come out "better than oils."

"When you're wrong, it's easier to wipe it off and get it just right," he explained.

Bird, 86, was invited to show several of the pictures he began painting as a hobby at the Second Annual Philadelphia Hobby Show for Senior Citizens, sponsored by the Emergency Aid of Philadelphia.

He started painting about three years ago after impulsively deciding to sketch in charcoal scenes from his boyhood in Columbia County. After a while he thought he would try painting in oil.

"Trouble was," he said, "one day I needed some white, and the kits seldom have any white in them, so I decided to use the wife's shoe polish. Just what I needed, too."

Mother Attends Son's 50th Anniversary

Milwaukee — (U.P.) — Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schultz recently celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary, which a number of couples manage to do.

But the presence of one of the guests took it out of the ordinary and made it an event. Schultz's 93-year-old mother, Mrs. Wilhelmina Schultz, was one of those celebrating the anniversary.

The Family Council

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, a newspaper editor, a women's page editor and two newspaper writers. These consult with clergymen of all faiths and denominations. All letters are held in complete confidence.

Evelyn — He expects me to chase the relatives.

Fred—Her easygoing attitude endangers the child.

Evelyn—We have a year-old-boy, who is very pretty and the pet of both sets of grandparents and a wide circle of uncles, aunts and cousins. Our child's great popularity—he is the first baby in both families — is the source of serious arguments with my husband, Fred.

He has very definite ideas about bringing up a child, and he feels that I am hopelessly easygoing with the relatives and thereby ruining our child's future development.

To make matters more trying, Fred expects me to do the policing job against the relatives. He is nice enough to them when they visit, but after they leave, he complains bitterly to me because I allowed the baby to be kept up late, or because I allowed someone to play with him, or because something was delayed out of schedule.

Much as I would like to please my husband, I do not feel I would be insuring our child's happiness by quarreling with all our relatives and isolating ourselves. Nor can I believe that the things my husband complains about can be half as serious as he contends.

Fred—I suffered, along with the rest of my family, from a badly spoiled little brother, and I have good reason to guard against this happening to our son.

The trouble is that my wife does not make the slightest effort to control the situation. She disregards schedules and yields to every suggestion that is offered about the care of the child. And always, the family conferences seem to take place in the nursery.

I quarrel with my wife because she seems to prefer drifting along this way, and has no plan or method for raising the boy, and seems to resent my having definite ideas. If she would stiffen up just a bit, I do not think there would be much difficulty with the relatives. Evelyn will never think, for instance, of telling a visitor that the baby is asleep or that it is time for him to sleep.

The Council—Fred complains that his wife is too yielding, but his real complaint is that she refuses to yield to his very tense attitude about the raising of the child.

Extremes should be avoided, and the nursery should not be the family conference room. But Fred should realize that his feelings about his spoiled little brother are distorting his attitude toward the raising of his own child.

There may be too much family in the nursery, but isolation may be even more harmful than too much attention. Besides, the rift between father and mother is more threatening to the child's welfare than the situation he describes.

If there is to be any policing of family visits, it should be moderate and tactful and not extreme. And this job should be shared and not imposed entirely on the wife. Perhaps she should try to restrain her relatives, and the husband his.

Husband and wife should recognize the fact that they are reacting against each other's attitude to the point where both are extreme. They should make a conscious effort to moderate their attitudes; Fred should be less deadly about his theories and Evelyn should realize that order and discipline are necessary in the raising of a child.

Reunion Follows Entry in Wrong Home

Memphis, Tenn.—(U.P.)—A man walked into the wrong home, and Mrs. Ora Morgan was reunited with the father she hadn't seen in 36 years.

Mrs. Morgan had lost track of her father in 1920 and finally given up a search when told he was dead.

Then one day an elderly man wandered into her house here by mistake.

"I had a funny feeling inside when I saw him," Mrs. Morgan said.

She watched him when he left and saw that he had a room in the home of a friend of Mrs. Morgan.

The man would sit on the porch every day, and every day Mrs. Morgan would walk by, look at him and speak.

"When I'd get home I'd take down the picture I kept over the mantle, the one of my father and mother taken in 1910."

The man in the picture had a moustache, the one down the street didn't.

Finally, Mrs. Morgan told her friend, "That's my father lodging with you," and asked her to bring the man, Irvin Leslie White, to see her.

When the man walked in, Mrs. Morgan showed him the picture.

"Lord, that's my wife, my wife," he said.

The San Francisco Bay Bridge between San Francisco and Oakland is eight miles long while the ferry boat route between San Francisco and Alameda is only four miles.

INSECT STUDY

Berkeley, Calif.— (U.P.) —How are insects able to shake off poisons that were lethal 10 years ago? The University of California is trying to find the answer to this. Investigators hope to find out where an insecticide goes after an insect contacts it. The first experiments will be made with DDT.

CATTLE FANNING

El Centro, Calif.—(U.P.)—Fanning cattle during warm weather makes them grow fat, according to experiments at the Imperial Valley field station of the University of California. Revealed that hereford steers during hot weather showed better weight response to fanning than to any other method of increasing their comfort.
