

'EADS UP!—A picture of determined concentration is former British Prime Minister Winston Churchill as he aims to display his talents as a dart tosser at Ascot, England. The hand that once guided the nation's destiny guided the dart skillfully in the exhibition at the West Essex Conservative Club in Sir Winston's constituency.

Court of Claims Badly in Need Of New Quarters

Washington — (AP) — Space, not law, is the main problem facing the Court of Claims, one of the nation's busiest and least-known tribunals.

The court, which protects John Q. Citizen in his financial bouts with the government, is cramped into a century-old building located about 150 yards from the White House.

The building was constructed in 1849, and Washington architects want to preserve it. But the court, which now has two of its commissioners in the basement of the decaying old building, is more concerned with practicality than antiquity.

For a century the court has been deciding whose toes the government has stepped on and for how much. It deals in dimes and millions, and will treat just as thoroughly a case involving a few dollars as one where several million are at stake.

Dixon-Yates Case

Last year, the tribunal decided 2,389 cases involving claims against the government. It allowed $11,000,000 of the $24,000,000 asked for in these suits. The claims ranged from $1.82 to more than $5,000,000.

Congress created the court in 1955 to protect the citizen's rights. But it also protects the government since the citizen's alleged grievance is not always legitimate.

As the government's activities expanded, so did the work-load of the court. It had 4,909 cases pending at the start of 1956.

The most controversial suit now pending is probably the one filed by the Dixon-Yates power group. This group seeks $3,000,000 because the government cancelled its contract to build and operate a power plant at West Memphis, Ark.

However the case is finally decided, it is sure to displease some faction in the dispute. But the court will consider it as just another claim—like the time a government employee sued for $1.50 lunch money, argued his own case, and won.

Buses-Only Lanes Used in Nashville

Nashville, Tenn.—(AP)—Lanes for buses only are in use here during rush hours in an effort to ease downtown traffic conditions.

The right-hand lanes on five heavily traveled downtown streets are marked for buses only during morning and afternoon rush hours.

Vice-mayor Sanders Anglea said the city decided on the plan because "we recognize bus passengers have a right to the same speedy travel as those in cars."

St. Mark's To Get Assistant Priest

Portland—(AP)—Five Oregon men will be ordained to the deaconate of the Episcopal church Friday at St. Stephen's Cathedral here. It will mark the first time in the history of the Diocese of Oregon that the ordination service will be conducted by two bishops—the Right Rev. Benjamin D. Dagwell, bishop of Oregon, and the Right Rev. James W. F. Carman, bishop coadjutor of Oregon.

Three are recent graduates of the Church Divinity School of the Pacific at Berkeley, Calif. They are John Adams Bright of Portland, who will become assistant priest at St. Mark's church, Medford; William R. Rees of Gresham, who will be assigned city missionary work in the Portland area, and Loren H. Bush of Eugene, who will be in charge of churches at Myrtle Creek and Riddle.

The other two will be ordained perpetual deacons. They are Lt. Robert E. S. Clark and Stanley B. Ports, of Portland. They will work under direction of Bishop Dagwell.

Presbyterian Synod Raps Racing, Ads

Portland — (AP) — The Presbyterian Synod of Oregon, meeting in its 66th annual session at Lewis and Clark college here yesterday, spoke critically of dog and horse racing, the prominence of liquor advertising and gambling.

The synod also praised Gov. Elmo Smith, Attorney General Robert Y. Thornton and the Oregonian for what it termed a "sincere" effort to expose and rid Multnomah county of alleged vice.

Wheat Allotments Are Mailed by ASC Office

Wheat allotments have been mailed according to Harry E. Martin, manager of the Jackson county agriculture stabilization committee office here.

The 1957 wheat allotment for Jackson county's 187 wheat growers is 1,453 acres. A list of allotments is available in the ACS office in the court house, Martin said.

REACTOR FOR ARGENTINA

Buenos Aires — (AP) — John A. Hall, director of the International Affairs Division of the U.S. Atomic Energy commission, said Wednesday that the United States will give Argentina an experimental atomic reactor within the next two years.
