At times I feel my racing system may not be capable of supporting me in my old age. Of course, there is nothing wrong with my system. It is the percentage it may have to battle against. The mutual "bite," now 15 per cent, may rise to 20. That would be an insurmountable obstacle for even my system. G. B. Shaw once said, "write plays, young man, they will keep you in your old age." That also goes for songs. So, I think I will write several plays and a few songs and not burden my racing system with supporting me in my old age in the manner to which I have become accustomed. I will start off with a play with a court trial background. That is the best bet for playwrights who are more interested in money than art. I cannot recall a period in Broadway history when there was not at least one such play on the list of hits. Right now we have two — "Inherit the Wind" and "Witness For The Prosecution." As for the song, I will follow the advice of that highly successful music publisher, who said, "write a song that a fellow can sing to his girl while dancing with her."

Always The Bride
Who is the youngest woman in the U.S.A. who has been married the most times? How about Mrs. Juanita Deere of Oklahoma, who is 33, and has been married 17 times? Mrs. Deere became a mother for the first time at the age of 11. Last I heard of her she was considering taking an 18th husband!

Asking
Queries from clients. Q. How old is Barbara Hutton, how many times has she married, how much did she inherit, how much has she left of her inheritance? A. Barbara, now the Baroness Von Cramm, is 43, she has been married six times. She inherited $28,000,000. Don't know how much she has left but she very recently said to a reporter, "I still have loads of money." Q. What is the origin of the name of that thoroughbred called "Sometime Thing"? A. It was inspired by the song in the George Gershwin opera "Porgy and Bess" titled "Woman Is A Sometime Thing."

The Family Council

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, a newspaper editor, a women's page editor and two newspaper writers. These consult with clergymen of all faiths and denominations. All letters are held in complete confidence.

K. M. — My son can't stick to a job.
Peter M. — Why stick when you're not getting anywhere?

K. M. — My son is 22 and has been out of the service more than two years. In that time he must have had about 100 jobs. Some have lasted a half day, others as long as six weeks. In the end he always gets into an argument with someone or starts coming late so he'll get fired. He claims there is no opportunity for advancement at the jobs he takes, but he has had jobs with friends of mine, who were willing to give him opportunities if he had the patience to do some menial, discouraging task for a time. He is building up a terrible job record and soon nobody will be willing to employ him. I think there is something wrong with the boy and he may need psychiatric treatment, but he refuses it.

Peter M. — The "opportunities" my father's friends have been willing to give me have all been in businesses I don't care for. I just seem to have had some bad luck with jobs and my father is trying to make a mental case out of me because of it. Why stick to a job when you are not getting anywhere? I can size up a job pretty well by now and I can tell whether it's worth sticking to. I don't mind menial work if I can see something at the end of it.

The Council: Peter certainly shows immaturity in his approach to the job problem if he thinks he can size up a job and its opportunities in the short time he devotes to each of his enterprises, but his father is probably being too hasty about wanting to hustle him off for psychiatric treatment — if the job situation is his only reason for doing so.

Peter's conduct is fairly typical of a young man who is floundering career-wise. It is possible that he simply wants to experiment in different fields. If this is the case he should acknowledge it to himself and his father, and decide in advance that he will give a reasonable minimum to each of his undertakings. That minimum must certainly exceed six weeks. If Peter gets into arguments with people on his jobs, it is possible that he is bored and seeking some diversion. Because he lacks incentive and direction he can't get interested in anything he is doing — although there are undoubtedly opportunities all around him. Peter should try to get some vocational advice. The school from which he was graduated may be able to help him, or a clergyman or social agency in his community may be able to direct him to a reliable vocational counseling service.

Once Peter has something like a career goal and a plan for training himself, either through study or on-the-job training, he should be able to stick to a job as long as it is advantageous to him from a realistic point of view. If he doesn't, it may then be worth investigating his mental and emotional problems.

West Coast To Start New Service on Coast

West Coast airlines will start a new non-stop service between North Bend-Coos Bay and Portland and new direct service between Seattle and Ephrata-Moses Lake with an intermediate stop at Wenatchee effective July 1, airline officials have announced. There will be only minor changes on four southbound flights from Portland to North Bend-Coos Bay, two of which continue on to Medford and Klamath Falls. No changes are anticipated on three northbound flights between North Bend-Coos Bay and Portland, two which originate at Klamath Falls and Medford.

EASY RULES FOR WINNING

- 1. PRINT clearly in the puzzle the letters you think will form words that best fit the clues. After you have filled in the puzzle, PRINT your name and address clearly on the entry blank. Be sure also to print the first letter of your last name in the box provided. Entries must be postmarked no later than midnight August 6, 1956, and must be received no later than August 20, 1956. Mail all entries to "The Trickster", Box 91, Cincinnati 1, Ohio.
- 2. You may submit as many solutions to this puzzle as you desire, using official entry blanks. With each entry send a boxtop from any size bottle of JOY (if you have one) or a facsimile copied from any source—OR enclose a separate sheet of paper on which you have copied the number from the bottom of any size JOY can, which now may be seen at your store. In this ad are pictures of the New Milder JOY bottle carton and can.
- 3. Carefully study the clues before writing your answers. The right solution requires the most appropriate and suitable word in each blank. The judges will determine which word is the most appropriate and suitable to the clue in each case. The judges have been appointed by Procter & Gamble to consider all entries and select the prize winner. Decisions of the judges are final.
- 4. Procter & Gamble will pay $32,000 for the right solution to this puzzle. If no correct solution is received, the most nearly correct solution, based on the number of correct words, will be the winner. One prize will be awarded. In the event of a tie, a separate "Trickster" puzzle and sentence for completion, "Joy makes dishwashing almost nice because... (25 words or less)..." will be mailed to those who have tied. No JOY boxtop or can number will be required with a tie-breaking entry. Entries in the tie-breaking contest will be judged on the basis of the puzzle. In the event of a tie, the prize money will be paid to the tying entrant whose sentence for completion is judged most apt, original and sincere.
- 5. Entries limited to residents of the continental United States (including Alaska) and Hawaii, except employees of Procter & Gamble, its advertising agencies, and their families. Government regulations apply.
- 6. All entries become unqualifiedly the property of Procter & Gamble for any and all purposes. No entries returned. Except for incidental, uncompensated help from family and friends, entries must be wholly the work of the person in whose name the entry is submitted, and will be disqualified for outside professional or compensated help. Mechanically reproduced facsimiles or numbers are ineligible. The winner or tying entrants will be notified by mail about 8 weeks after all entries are received.

CLUES ON JOY TO HELP YOU WIN

Procter & Gamble's new JOY is the liquid that makes dishwashing—no, not fun—but almost nice. Takes the greasy smell and look and feel out of dishwasher. Gets the job over quick, leaves your dishes sparkling clean. And it's milder than any other leading liquid—gentle to your hands. JOY saves you money, too. Penny for penny it does more dishes than anything else. Just one capful makes nice-smelling suds billow up. You try it. Get JOY today in the nice new can or the gay bottle.
