

Medford Couple Injured In Accident Yesterday

LaMarr C. Wilkinson, 32, and Janet C. Wilkinson, 34, both of route 1, box 400, Medford, were in "good" condition at Community hospital today after suffering injuries in a car accident at the corner of Thomas and Sunset rds., about 8:20 p.m. yesterday.

State police who were called to the accident scene said the car was totally demolished. The cause of the crash was unknown. Both persons were taken to Community hospital by Medford Ambulance service. According to state police, both received chest injuries and Mrs. Wilkinson had both her legs broken.

Pieces of Wedged Metal Said New Evidence of Mid-Air Plane Crash

Grand Canyon Village, Ariz.—(U.P.)—New evidence that a Trans World Airliner Super Constellation and a United Air Lines DC7 collided in flight before plunging into Grand Canyon was uncovered today in the wreckage of the UAL plane.

Two pieces of metal, one a cowling from a motor of the UAL plane, the other a piece of metal with red markings identical to that of TWA aircraft, was found at the site of the DC7.

The new evidence was uncovered by a helicopter crew which made a daring descent to a point 30 feet above the wreckage. The helicopter carried Capt. Walter Spriggs, El Dorado, Ark., and Chief Warrant Officer Howard Proctor, Kings Mountain, N.C. They spent about 10 minutes on the ledge.

Metal Wedged Together
Spriggs was the first person to reach the DC7 wreckage. He found two pieces of metal, and said they were wedged together.

A UAL official said the markings on one piece of metal were similar to those on TWA airliners. But, he said, United airlines also have a thin red stripe on part of the tail section.

The UAL official said it was not certain from which part of the airplane the piece of metal came.

A second helicopter landing was made and a mountain climber, Tom Batson, Boulder, Colo., was dropped at the scene. He was to aid a team of mountaineers attempting to reach the wreckage from the floor of the canyon.

Darkness forced four climbers to halt operations Wednesday but they were confident of reaching the wreckage of the DC7 in their second attempt.

Charles J. Lavlik, Fred Welsh, Raymond Baston, and David

Lewis—all expert members of Colorado mountain climbing clubs—reported they came within 200 feet of the wreckage strewn on a ledge of a steep cliff in the scenic but rugged gorge. Allen Hutten, of Denver, joined the quartet today for the second try.

The climbers said they reached a level near pieces of the wreckage, but were about 200 feet under the place where the airliner slammed into the side of Temple Butte, killing 58 persons. Less than a mile away, rescue teams on Tuesday finished collecting all that remained of the 70 persons who perished in the crash of the TWA plane.

Inch-by-Inch Grind
It was a slow inch-by-inch grind working their way up the face of the rocky cliff. The climbers made an alpine staircase in the face of the cliff by pounding spikes into the stone wall for footing. One mis-step meant death for a climber as far below loomed jagged rocks and boulders bordering the Colorado river.

They began the ascent at dawn despite the desert heat and tricky winds blowing through the gorge. By sunset the climbers decided not to chance going any further. One by one they descended on a nylon rope back to the canyon floor.

Truman Reasserts Nominee Neutrality

New York—(U.P.)—Gov. Averell Harriman, a presidential hopeful, wore the hat he threw into the Democratic political ring when he walked in the rain today with former President Harry S. Truman.

"Keep it," Mr. Truman told him. "It's going to be valuable."

But Mr. Truman again asserted his neutrality about selection of a Democratic presidential nominee.

On a brisk 12 block walk to Harriman's home, where he was a breakfast guest, Mr. Truman said he took the same position toward the candidacy of Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) as he did toward the presidential aspiration of Harriman and Adlai E. Stevenson.

"I want to remain neutral," he said.

Asked about Sen. Estes Kefauver, Mr. Truman noted that he had said in Europe that he was "glad Stevenson won the primary in California."

Harriman met Mr. Truman on Madison ave. between 77th and 78th sts. Mr. Truman remarked to him that there had been reports that they were plotting against a no other presidential hopeful and added "I don't do any plotting."

Harriman told him "since I've seen you, I've thrown my hat into the ring. In fact, this is the hat."

A FAMILY SUICIDE

Tokyo—(U.P.)—A 40-year old janitor and his 38-year-old wife strangled their four children in a city park and then took their own lives with poison, police reported today.

Yule Music Played For Drunken Drivers

Miami Beach—(U.P.)—Disc jockey Art Green spent the Fourth of July playing Christmas carols dedicated to drunken drivers and speeders who may not be around next December.

Green stages his safety campaign every Fourth of July over radio station WKAT.

Green dedicated the Christmas music, including such tunes as "White Christmas" and "Silent Night," to motorists who drive too fast, drink while driving, and who drive with bad brakes and bad judgment.

"They never will last until Christmas so I am giving them an earful of this beautiful music now," Green said.

PARKING FINE UP

Petoskey, Mich.—(U.P.)—No more 10-cent parking fines here, the city council has ruled. Over-time parking will cost violators 25 cents starting June 1. The hike in fines will mean more respect for the rules, Petoskey officials explained.

BIKE LORE

Walham, Mass.—(U.P.)—A 10-seater bicycle? Such a strange contrivance startled pedestrians and horses hereabouts during the Gay Nineties as it whizzed over city streets and rural roads. Charles Metz built the big machine at a cost of more than $1,200. He was one of the 10 men who were first to ride the giant bike.

Train Smashes Into Throng on Trestle

Fox Lake, Ill.—(U.P.)—A speeding Milwaukee Road passenger train killed three persons and injured five others Wednesday when it plowed into a screaming throng watching fireworks from a railroad trestle.

A number of the 200 persons crowding the trestle vantage point leaped into the water below to escape the train which appeared from around a curve. All those in the water made their way safely to shore.

Witnesses said the three-coach train powered by a diesel locomotive caught the spectators by surprise. They said the noise of the approaching train was drowned out by exploding fireworks.

One bystander reported the crowd had been chased from the tracks 15 minutes earlier when a freight train approached. He said they were warned to stay away, but returned when the first rocket burst lit the sky.

It was barely a minute later that the headlight of the passenger locomotive bore down on the group in the darkness. Officials estimated the train was traveling between 55 and 60 miles per hour.

The dead were identified as Mrs. Lillian Pavechek, 38, Round Lake, Ill., her son, Gary 7, and Carl Strand, 42, Wauconda, Ill.

Portland Lad Drowns In Diving Accident

Yakima, Wash.—(U.P.)—Victor Quist Jr., 12, Portland, drowned yesterday in a freak accident while he was diving in a swimming pool in the Donald district near here.

Sheriff's deputies said the boy was diving in a private pool when his hand wedged in a drain pipe on the pool's bottom.

He was dead when brought to the surface 20 minutes later following the frenzied efforts of others at the pool to free him. Officers said the pipe apparently was not screened.

Guernsey Bull Shipped Here From Pennsylvania

A one-year-old Guernsey bull, jointly purchased by T. K. Nelson, Medford, and Robert M. Howard, Grants Pass, arrived in Medford Tuesday from Pennsylvania.

Nelson and Howard purchased the registered bull, Wyno Bond's Buccaneer, from Alvin C. Bush, owner of Wyno Farms. The new arrival is a descendant of the Fleming herd, which Bush purchased from the Fleming farm at Troutdale in 1954. Both Nelson and Howard own cattle from that same herd.

POLICE SEIZE OPIUM

Havana—(U.P.)—Cuban authorities held four crew members of the British tanker "Standella" in jail today after maritime police seized 27 pounds of opium aboard the ship. The opium was valued at $20,000.
