Adventurer Easily Answers Questions For $64,000 on TV

New York — (UP) — Peg-legged Peter Freuchen identified seven odd nautical objects on television Tuesday night, to become the fifth top prize winner on "The $64,000 Question."

The 70-year-old adventurer, author of several books, United Nations correspondent, and explorer from Denmark disdained the right to take an "expert" into the show's isolation booth with him. He said he didn't need any help, and he was right. Answers Come Easy

Freuchen easily ticked off the correct answers to the seven-part question. He identified a picture of the coelacanth, a species of fish 300,000,000 years old; the left eye tooth of a walrus; and a special piece of sea-faring gear, a whale bomb.

The bearded contestant also distinguished between two icebergs, telling from pictures which was found in the north and which in the south Polar regions.

Freuchen gave the correct answers to parts of the question dealing with a curious old map drawn by Benjamin Franklin and a harpoon head used by Eskimos to hunt seals and walrus. Wife Killed in Arctic

The question on Eskimos was particularly easy for Freuchen, as his first wife was a Thule, Greenland Eskimo. She was killed on a map-making trip into the Arctic that also cost Freuchen his leg.

Freuchen went to sleep under his sled one night and when he awoke he felt numb all over. It took him 11 hours to dig himself out of the snow. His toes became gangrenous, and he had to knock them off with a hammer.

Later, the whole leg had to be amputated up to the knee. Freuchen's face was so painfully frozen that he hasn't been able to shave since.

Freak Mishap Kills Mother of TV Actress

West Los Angeles — (UP) — A freak accident Wednesday claimed the life of the mother of television actress Anne Jeffreya.

Mrs. Kate Carmichael, 67, was run over and killed by her own car in the driveway of her daughter's home. The victim had parked her car and was removing some books from the trunk when the vehicle rolled over her down a slight incline of the driveway.

A witness told police the handbrake of the car was not set. Mrs. Carmichael was paying a holiday visit to the home of her daughter and son-in-law, actor Robert Sterling of the television series "Topper."
