

Washington Studs Nine Plays Medford Cheney Aggregation Here This Saturday, Sunday

The Medford Cheney Studs, who appear this season to have just as good a chance as any other club to cop the Southern Oregon Baseball League bunting, take time out from their circuit this week end to engage in a couple of battles for prestige.

In the second matching of two clubs who have their home diamonds far apart but who have the same sponsor, Medford's SOL crew plays host to the Washington Cheney Studs of Seattle and Tacoma. Scuffles are billed for 8 p.m. Saturday and 2 p.m. Sunday at the fairgrounds diamond south of Medford.

A pair of triumphs over the Washington's would be a big boost to the Medford team's stature. The SOL club operates under American Baseball Congress rules. Last year the Seattle-Tacoma aggregation was runner-up for the national ABC title after taking the regional championship. Line-up of the Washingtonians this year includes a number of the 1955 squad plus a number of new players whom it is felt strengthen the club and give it more depth at key spots.

Standout Series
Contention between the two clubs sponsored Cheney Forest Products is expected to produce one of the top semi-professional baseball series at Medford this summer. The local Studs will be out to even up matters for a couple of losses a year ago. They will go into the scrapes with the memory that they should have won at least one of the games in 1955 and will be out to make up for that.

While the Washington Studs are billed as a possibly stronger team this season, the Medford counterpart looms as tougher than the 1955 edition. That could make this week end rivalry close and spirited.

The Washington Studs, who are meeting the Lakers at Klamath Falls tonight, will have a sizable squad here for their encounters. No definite starting line-up was available from the Washington team today, however.

Pitcher for the visitors likely will be picked from Monte Geiger who has a 4-1 record and a .440 batting mark. Pete Walski who is 3-0 and hitting .272, George Kritsonis who stands 2-0 and has been slugging at .414, and Gary Moore who is 2-1 on the hill and has yet to get a hit.

Walski is from University of California and is new to the club. Geiger and Kritsonis are Studs vets and 1954 and 1955, respectively, won most valuable player awards in the northwest ABC tourney. Moore, also new, was

Hunting Rule Hearing Set

Portland — Hunting regulations will highlight a public hearing to be held at 10 a.m. on July 13 at the offices of the Oregon State Game Commission for the setting of the 1956 tentative rules.

Seasons, bag limits, and other rules for the taking of elk, deer, antelope, upland game birds, and furbearing animals will be discussed at this meeting. All interested persons are invited to attend the hearing which is held at the commission's headquarters at 1634 S. W. Alder ave in Portland. Persons are advised that all suggestions and recommendations should be submitted to the commission in written form. However, these suggestions may be stated orally at the hearing.

Soon after the hearing is completed, the tentative regulations will be given to the press. A second hearing will be held July 27 to set the final regulations, at which time objections to the tentative regulations can be voiced by the public.

named best player in the Seattle prep all-star game this year and pitched seven no-hitters in high school.

Catcher may be Ron Dodge, a Stud veteran who is hitting .285, or Jack Brady a newcomer who has a .291 standing. At first base it may be Dodge or Ozzie Williams who is batting .225. Second baseman could be Jim Harney, from Seattle U., who is hitting .545 for Cheney.

Grant or Yurina
George Grant, .300 hitter chosen for the Washington state all-star club this spring, or Jim Yurina, 16-year-old promising baseballer, may be at shortstop with Walski or Don Jacobs, .250 at third.

Outfielders will be chosen from among Luther Carr, Kritsonis, Mel Manley, Roy Critzer, Dick Binford and Geiger.

Carr, former star in Tacoma prep athletics, is regarded as having a great future in baseball and football and will be a sophomore this fall at University of Washington. He's swatting .269 for the Studs.

Manley, .400, is a clutch hitter, who was named to the all-state club. Critzer, .312, also would see some pitching service. Binford, .400, another all-state selectee, is also a catcher.

Another pitcher on the club is Brian Bell, like Yurina only 16. White, Wooton or Selsor Manager Jack Cooney of Medford has indicated that he'll start hurlers from among Don White, Derald Wooton and Bob Selsor with Frank Roelandt scheduled to handle the catching. Cooney probably will be at first base with Bill Martell at second, Jim Taylor at third and Twink Pederson at shortstop.

Outfielders will be chosen from Wooton, Jim Steffen, John Kovenz and Bob Selsor.

The Washington Studs have won 12 and dropped four this season. Medford has been victor eight times and has lost five.

Last season the Washington Cheney club won 14 games straight in the Cascade League and then took four more victories for the state title in the northwest regional at Watertown, S.D., they won five victories all by lopsided or comfortable margins.

In the national play-off at Battle Creek, Mich., they nipped East Chicago 6 to 5 and lost to Houston, Tex., 6 to 2 and 7 to 2.

Medford Winner In Intermediate Baseball Scrape

Medford intermediates won their second Southern Oregon junior baseball game yesterday, nipping Ashland 3 to 2.

Pitcher Dennis Painter drove in two runs in the last inning to "win his own ball game."

The Medford club trailed 1 to 2 going in to the last time at bat. Pat McLaughlin drew a base on balls, Ken Durkee singled and Ray Konopasek was safe on a bunt to load the bags. Then Painter singled.

Painter threw a four hitter, walked two and fanned six, while he and his mates got six hits off A. McKinnis who walked four and struck out five.

Durkee doubled and singled in two times up for Medford and Dick Ragsdale also slapped two for two.

Deadly Cobra Venom Fatal To Young Girl

Miami — (U.P.) — "My blood could have saved her," snake handler William Haast said today, but a Navy jet could not outrun the deadly cobra venom in the veins of an 18-year-old girl.

Haast, who claims a transfusion of his blood will save snake bite victims, was sped toward New Orleans in the jet Thursday night in a desperate attempt to save Miss Irene Laub after she was bitten by the dread reptile.

But after less than an hour's flight the Marine pilot received a radio report that Miss Raub had died in an iron lung at New Orleans where she was rushed from her snake farm at LaPlace, La.

A DRESSY THIEF
New York — (U.P.) — Police in search of one purse snatcher have their work cut out for them—unless the thief changes his clothes. Miss Florence Thompson reported that a man she met in a bar followed her home and as she opened her apartment door, he ran up and yanked her purse out of her hand. She said the thief was wearing plaid kilts, a matching Tam-o-shanter, white shirt with black tie, and long white hose.

Dead line Sunday Classified is at noon Saturday; 10 a.m. Monday for Monday; other days 5:30 previous day.

WASHINGTON STUDS MOUNDSMAN—George Kritsonis, above, likely will draw a pitching assignment when the Washington Cheney Studs appear at the fairgrounds this week end for a two-game series with the Medford Cheney Studs. The two semi-pro baseball teams meet Saturday night and Sunday afternoon. Kritsonis pitched an eight-hit 8 to 6 decision over the Medford nine here last year and went on to win the award of most valuable player in the American Baseball congress northwest regional tourney. When not pitching Kritsonis plays in the outfield. A 19-year-old five-foot 11-inch 160 pounder, he throws and bats right handed and is a good sticker. He attends University of Washington. —(Richards studio, Tacoma).

Lew Hoad Gains Net Title at Wimbledon

Wimbledon, England — (U.P.) — Lew Hoad of Australia established himself as the world's best amateur tennis player today when he won the Wimbledon's Men's Singles Championship by defeating his countryman, Ken Rosewall, 6-2, 4-6, 7-5, 6-4.

A capacity center court crowd of 15,000, which included Princess Margaret, Prime Minister Anthony Eden and Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies of Australia watched the all-Australian final.

This was Hoad's first Wimbledon singles championship and returned to Australia the big silver trophy won by Frank Sedgman in 1952. The triumph also put Hoad in position for a $100,000 professional offer in the United States next winter. He had considered such an offer last year but changed his mind and decided to remain amateur another year.

Hoad's power, both on service and ground strokes, was the deciding factor in this battle between the two Aussie 21-year-old "whiz kids" who had beaten Americans to reach the final. Rosewall, master of the delicate lob and the excellent backhand, won only the second set when his game reached its peak.

The final round in women's singles, matching surprising Shirley Fry of St. Petersburg, Fla., and Britain's Angela Buxton, will be held Saturday. Hoad and Rosewall both gained the men's singles finals by beating Americans, thus making the Aussies an even heavier favorite to retain the Davis Cup this year.

After Rosewall ousted Seixas on Wednesday, Hoad ripped through Ham Richardson of Westfield, N. J., 3-6, 6-4, 6-2, 6-4.

The fifth-seeded Miss Fry, who upset the fourth-seeded Miss Gibson in the quarter-finals, came through with an even greater surprise Thursday by ousting defending champion Louise Brough, 6-4, 4-6, 6-3.

Texas Man Sentenced To One Year in Jail

He will be taken to the Rocky Butte jail, Multnomah county, where better facilities are available for persons serving longer sentences.

Stevenson Tours Parched Croplands In Midwest States

Creston, Iowa — (U.P.) — Adlai E. Stevenson today drove into dry croplands of Northwestern Missouri for more roadside talks with farmers on the second day of his farm belt tour.

The Democratic presidential aspirant followed a flexible schedule which allowed him to stop at will at farms along the way. He made his first overnight stop here Thursday night on his four-day trip through drought stricken areas of Iowa, Missouri and Nebraska.

Stevenson's visit to Iowa came on the heels of a soaking four-inch rain which began falling Sunday. He took advantage of the rainfall to boost his party. Compliments of Democrats

"We sent the rain ahead with the compliments of the Democratic party," Stevenson said.

He announced he had come to Iowa to get first hand reports from the farmers about falling prices on their products.

"I would be able to learn very little from Secretary Benson in Washington," he giped.

The former Illinois governor shed his coat and tie before sitting down cross-legged for discussions with tanned farmers in Seymour and Maloy.

The farmers did most of the talking. At times, Stevenson simply sat and listened as the farmers fell to arguing among themselves about their problems and the best solutions.

He said he wanted to "educate myself on why farmers are going broke."

Girl Receives Stern Warning Over Radio

Providence, R.I. — (U.P.) — While Bruce Williamson was conducting a record program over radio Station WHIM, his wife phoned to say that their two-year-old daughter had locked her out.

Figuring that the radio would be on at home, Williamson addressed to his daughter a stern warning of what she might expect unless she unlocked the door.

Mrs. Williamson phoned back soon afterward to report that the daughter had let her in.

Smooth as Silk!

How does Kessler do it?

It's one thing to produce a fine whiskey when price is no object... but to produce a whiskey that's smooth as KESSLER at the price of KESSLER—that takes generations of experience. In fact it's a feat only KESSLER can boast.
