

PCC Faculty Representatives Hear 'Progress Report' on Violations

Los Angeles—(U.P.)—Four University of Southern California football players, including All American Back Jon Arnett, said Saturday their careers in college football "could be ruined" by penalties and ineligibility that might be inflicted upon USC by the Pacific Coast Conference.

Arnett, Ellsworth Kissinger, Ron Fletcher and Dick Westphal jointly issued a statement concerning the PCC's probe into reported illegal athletic pay at USC. The players said: "If it's decided in San Francisco (where the PCC is meeting) that we aren't going to play, we'll promise that we'll play pro ball this year, even if it has to be in Canada."

Arnett said the "wait and see" policies of the PCC universities was wrong because "once a decision is made it probably will be impossible to change it." He said players weren't going to "wait around."

Arnett, acting as spokesman for the late Trojan players, threatened that there might be a mass exodus of star players from the USC campus if the conference is to stringent.

San Francisco—(U.P.)—Pacific Coast conference leaders, digging deep into code violations, spent seven hours Saturday discussing University of Southern California activities—but failed to reach any decision.

Faculty representatives resumed their discussions Saturday night in their special two-day session at the Sir Francis Drake hotel. They will study charges that USC has a "slush fund" comparable to the one which prompted the PCC to ban Washington and UCLA from the Rose Bowl.

Dr. Glenn Seaborg of California, spokesman for the group, said so far only Southern California was discussed at the meeting.

"But California and Washington State violations also will be considered before we conclude this meeting Sunday," he said.

Washington State's entry into the violations derby came as something of a surprise. Seaborg said that Emmett Moore, USC faculty representative, had offered evidence against his own school.

Seaborg also said Stanford's report of minor violations had not been received and therefore would not be considered at this meeting.

He said he was not certain a review of previous disciplinary actions requested by member college presidents would be made at this time.

In past actions by the faculty representatives UCLA was fined the equivalent of $95,000 and banned from the Rose Bowl for three years and Washington was fined the equivalent of $52,000.

Porterhouse Beats Nags

Inglewood, Calif.—(U.P.)—Porterhouse strengthened his hold on the sprinting championship of the west Saturday by racing to win by more than a length in the $27,300 Lakes and Flowers handicap at Hollywood park.

The Llangollen farm star, conqueror of Swaps earlier in the meeting, found the six furlong distance to his liking as he closed with a rush to nail Scent and Moolah Bux in the stretch and pull away by a length and a quarter.

The time of 1:09 flat was just a fifth of a second off the track record and Porterhouse accomplished his easy win with top weight of 124 pounds.

Scent and Moolah Bux raced as the entry of Monaghan farms and Trainer Hurst Philpot as they finished second and third. Spring Count was fourth, while the well-regarded Cyclotron was fifth in the seven-horse field.

Porterhouse was sent off an eight-to-five favorite by the crowd of 45,000 racing fans and he returned $5.40, 3.10 and 3.10. The entry returned $3.30 and 3.30 for place and show.

Sale Lake City—(U.P.)—The Brigham Young university track team left Friday for an overseas tour that will take them to Ireland, England, Germany, Norway, Finland and Sweden.

and banned from the Bowl for two years.

Seaborg denied any of the member schools were considering withdrawal from the conference—a persistent rumor since the UCLA case broke.

"As far as we know there have been no threats to quit the conference," he said.

Seaborg said that no "decisive action" has been taken on any subject Saturday and whatever action is decided upon probably will not be announced until Sunday.

USC was reported to have engaged a battery of lawyers to represent it at the meeting. But the only attorney in evidence was PCC Commissioner Victor O. Schmidt.

which was invoked by promoter Cal Eaton of the Los Angeles Olympic auditorium. Over that period, Frye had not been allowed to go past the dressing room door at Eaton's fight club.

It also was Eaton, and Matchmaker Babe McCoy, who sought permission to schedule the Robinson-Aragon bout. The commission had withheld approval last week, citing the difference between the boxers' weights. But today it voted flatly that such a fight would be a mismatch.

"Aragon is ranked fifth among the welterweights by Ring magazine and seventh by the National Boxing Association," Bucciarelli said before moving that the request be turned down. The vote was unanimous.

Jules Covey, a former member of the commission who now is Eaton's counsel, argued for about an hour and 10 minutes on behalf of the bout.

"Every match should be judged on its own merits," Covey said. "You can't apply the same slide rule to all contests."

Aragon, who listened from the spectator's row, at first said he had no comment but then went before the commission and declared, "Ray Robinson accepted my challenge and I'm certain I could have beaten him and maybe knocked him out."

Acaro Named In Charges

Los Angeles—(U.P.)—Jockey Eddie Arcaro has been accused by his stepmother of conspiring with his father to cheat her of community property.

Mrs. Edna Arcaro charged on Friday in a divorce suit against her husband, Pacquale, that he took premarital savings, her home and other property and put them in the name of the veteran jockey.

Mrs. Arcaro also accused her husband of taking $1900 of her savings to pay back alimony to a former wife besides borrowing $1500 from her to spend on himself. She said he coerced her into selling her home and used $10,000 she obtained for his own purposes.

The couple was married Nov. 17, 1949, in Bromley, Ky., and separated last Jan. 5. Her suit asked for a court order to restrain the jockey and his father from disposing of community property.

Bilko's 37th Homer Helps LA Tie Suds

Los Angeles, July 7—(U.P.)—Big Steve Bilko blasted his 37th homer of the year Saturday as Los Angeles jumped into a temporary tie with Seattle for first place in the Pacific Coast League by edging Hollywood, 4-3.

The Stars tallied their three runs in the top of the opening frame when Gene Freese socked a four-master with Carlos Bernier and Spook Jacobs on the sacks. But in the bottom half of the same inning, Casey Wise clobbered a round-tripper and then Bilko connected for another homer with Gene Mauch and Bob Coats abroad.

Bilko's homer, which qualified the winning margin, evaded his entire league-leading output of last year. The ball landed high up on a house outside the Wrigley field ball park.

Vancouver, B. C.—(U.P.)—The San Francisco Seals unleashed a 14-hit attack on two Vancouver pitchers and won the opener of a Pacific Coast League afternoon-night doubleheader by a 5-1 score.

A crowd of 1,735 watched the Seals score a single run in the second inning of the opener and then break a 1-1 tie with a pair of tallies in the fifth off starter and loser George Bamberger. Bamberger now has a record of five wins and six losses.

The winner was R. W. Smith (7-6), who needed help from Bill Abernathie in the eighth inning.
