Farmers Urge Hells Canyon Project

Chippewa Falls, Wis. — (U.P.) — The Wisconsin Farmers Union Saturday urged Wisconsin's congressional delegation to vote in favor of federal construction of the Hells Canyon Dam in Idaho.

Farmers Union President K. W. Hones wrote letters to each Wisconsin representative and Senator asking their support for the measure.

"The Hells Canyon Dam is of vital importance to the farmers if this state from the standpoint of the development of phosphate production," Hones said.

Cheap power from the Hells Canyon Dam could "easily make a difference of $6 a ton on supertriple phosphate and Wisconsin farmers use thousands of tons each year," Hones said.

The Farmers Union and the coops, Hones said, own millions of tons of phosphate rock in the Hells Canyon area "but without a rate comparable to the Tennessee Valley Authority, we cannot develop our phosphate mines."
