

Antonelli Key Factor In NL All-Star Victory; Junior Loop Hurling Falterers

By LEO H. PETERSEN
United Press Sports Editor
Washington (U.P.)—Walter Alston credited the clutch relief pitching of Johnny Antonelli as the major factor today in the National league's 7-3 victory in the 23rd renewal of the All-Star game.

"Of course, that hitting didn't hurt us, either," said the Dodgers' manager who piloted the National leaguers to their sixth win in the last seven All-Star games.

"But Antonelli went out there and shut the door in their faces just when it looked like maybe they were going to catch up with us."

Casey Stengel, who lost his fifth game in six tries as the manager of an American league team, agreed that pitching beat us.

"Theirs and Ours," he said. He refused to go along with a questioner who asked if he thought he was jinxed as an All-Star pilot.

"Jinx, hell," he snapped. "Give me some pitching and I'll win."

He agreed with Alston that Antonelli was a key factor, but added:

"Their third baseman Ken Boyer of the Cardinals made some good plays and some good hits."

Pierce Losing Hurler
Boyer got three of the 11 hits with which the Nationals bombarded the six pitchers whom Stengel used, starting with Billy Pierce, the 13-game winner of the Chicago White Sox, who was charged with the loss when he yielded the Nationals' first run in the third inning.

Boyer's hits were all singles, but he batted in a run and scored another. Willie Mays and Stan Musial, each with home runs, and big Ted Kluszewski with two doubles, did the long range clouting.

That more than offset the two home runs which accounted for the American league scoring in the sixth inning. The Americans were behind, 5-0, when Ted Williams belted his fourth All-Star homer with Nellie Fox on base and Mickey Mantle, who struck out three times, followed with another homer.

These blows came off Warren Spahn, the second of the three hurlers Alston used. That's when Antonelli came in and took over. Stan Regains Record
Williams' homer tied him with Musial for hitting the most home runs in All-Star competition, but Musial didn't wait long to get the record back, for in the seventh he cracked his fifth.

Bob Friend, the 11-game winning right hander of the Pirates, started for the National league and was credited with the victory.

Williams called him "a helluva pitcher."

"I was warned to watch for his fast ball, but he showed me nothing but slow stuff with a fast ball motion," Williams said. "He really fooled me."

Pitched Four Innings
Antonelli yielded four hits, two to the first two batters he faced in the sixth, and the other two with one man out in the ninth. Actually the Giant southpaw pitched four innings. Under All-Star rules no pitcher can start more than three innings unless the game goes into extra innings, but Antonelli was permitted to go as long as he did because he did not start the sixth.

The National league also scored off Whitey Ford, Jim Wilson and Tom Brewer, who followed Pierce in that order. Only Herb Score, who hurled the eighth and Early Wynn, who worked the ninth, were able to hold the Nationals at bay.

The run off Pierce came when Roy McMillan, one of the five Cincinnati Redlegs in the starting line-up, singled, went to second on Friend's sacrifice, and scored on Johnny Temple's single.

Ford started out well enough when he struck out Musial to open the fourth, but then Boyer singled and Mays, pinch hitting for Gus Bell, hit his home run.

Stengel called on Wilson, a right hander, in the fifth. Temple greeted him with a bunt single down the third base line and he went to second as Musial grounded out. Boyer's third single scored him.

Big Klu Scores
In the sixth, Brewer felt the sting of the National league bats. Kluszewski, batting for Dale Long, doubled, went to third on McMillan's pop single over first base and scored on a wild pitch.

Brewer gave up two more runs in the seventh. With one out Musial homered. Brewer got Boyer—the only time the Cardinal third baseman was retired—but Mays walked and raced all the way home on Kluszewski's second double.

That ended the National league scoring but it was more than enough.

It was the National league's 10th victory against 13 defeats in the mid-summer dream game.

In addition to the American league pitching, there was one other thing which did not come up to expectations. That was the crowd. It totaled 28,843, more than 1,000 short of capacity.

National Publinks Tourney Entrants Begin Match Play

San Francisco (U.P.)—Match play, the sudden death terror of golf, got under way today in the National Public Links Golf tournament — and when the smoke clears away tonight only 16 will be left from the field of 64 that started this morning.

Unlike the pros in tournament play, "these Sunday morning swingers" didn't have the opportunity to make up for that "bad first nine." Today's 36 holes separated the men from the boys in a hurry.

The spotlight centered on two men:

No Spot Now At Shortstop For Kindall

By ED SAINSBURY
United Press Sports Writer
Chicago (U.P.)—Jerry Kindall's style at shortstop produced a lucrative bonus contract with the Chicago Cubs, but if he makes the team to pay off, he'll probably be at another position.

Kindall, all Big Ten and All-American on the Minnesota team which won the conference and national collegiate championships this year, signed with the Cubs, even though the team is stronger at shortstop with Ernie Banks than at any other position.

"I thought about that," Kindall said today, "but Sid Matthews talked so nice, and they offered more money than anybody else, so I signed."

Kindall, who has appeared so far only as a pinch runner, will get every chance at another position. Manager Stan Hack said, even though he might not break into the lineup until after spring training next year.

Stick With Banks
"You don't weaken two positions to strengthen one," Hack said, "so I'm not thinking of moving Banks into the outfield to put Kindall at short. But I think a shortstop can play about any position."

"He could get into the lineup this year, under certain circumstances, but right now we're going to carry him along to let him see the other parks and teams and learn something. I've seen him in batting practice and infield drill, and he handled himself well. But that's all I can say until I see more of him."

Kindall, a good hitter in college with a .379 batting average and 12 home runs in 31 games this season, said he had to learn to hit a curve a year ago and that helped him. He also worked to go "in the hole" to handle balls. "I know the curve up here isn't the curve I've been hitting," he said, "but I hit the ones they threw in college."

Rocky Undergoes Spinal Therapy

Brockton, Mass. (U.P.)—Retired heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano today began treatments aimed at averting possible surgery for a ruptured spinal disc suffered while romping with his 8-year-old daughter.

Dr. Nathaniel Gould, orthopedic surgeon at Brockton Hospital, said the 31-year old Marciano would receive rest, heat massage and physiotherapy treatments "for two or three weeks."

If the treatments failed to correct the condition caused last week, "the question of surgery will then have to be considered," Gould said Tuesday after diagnosing the injury.

Rocky was confident that surgery would not be necessary. But he reiterated strongly that even if the condition is cleared up he has no intention of returning to the ring.

Greyhound Race Site Remains To Be Selected

Portland (U.P.)—One thing was assured today after the Multnomah Kennel club applied to the state racing commission for a shift in the location of its planned racing schedule — there will be dog races this summer.

The question that remained — and it may be answered in a meeting Friday — is where the dogs will run. Both the Multnomah county fairgrounds and Portland Meadows have said the Kennel club would be welcome to use their facilities.

Meeting yesterday, two of three Multnomah county commissioners approved the application of the club to hold the races at the fairgrounds. The racing would be held after the county fair, giving racing fans 46 to 50 days of the sport at the temporary plant.

Track Offered
Officials of Portland Meadows also formally offered the track for use by the Kennel club this summer.

The state racing commission took both offers under advisement.

Officials of the Kennel club indicated that stock will be offered for sale to the public to finance completion of the dog track being built just east of Portland. Work on the track was halted earlier this year when costs began to outdistance preliminary estimates by a wide margin.

Medford Nines Cop Games in Pee Wee League

Medford Tigers took over one hole on second place and the Medford Wildcats took sole grasp on fourth spot in the pee wee southern division of the Southern Oregon Junior Baseball circuit with victories yesterday.

The Tigers swamped Eagle Point 25 to 0 and the Wildcats nipped Ashland 6 to 5.

Bob Quinney pitched a two-hitter against Eagle Point. Jerry Piland slapped three hits in three times up and Larry Hamack slammed a double and a triple. Weidman got both Eagle bingles.

Fontaine Doubles
Mike Glines walked and stole second base and Johnny Fontaine two-baggered in the fourth inning to produce the Wildcats' winning tally. Both Medford and Ashland clubs scored four runs in the opening inning when each was yielded three bases on balls. The 'Cats went in front 5 to 4 in the second inning but Ashland deadlocked the fuss in the third.

Chucker Glines held Ashland to its one run over the last four innings. Dave Guches doubled home two Wildcat runs in the opening panel.

SHORT SCORE:
Ashland 5 4 2
Wildcats 6 3 2
King, Wilson (2) and Stewart; Barnes, Glines (2) and B. Scruggs, L. Scruggs (2).

Athletics Obtain Wally Burnette

Kansas City, Mo. (U.P.)—The Kansas City Athletics, sunk in the American league cellar due in a large part to lack of pitching, today announced purchase of hurler Wally Burnette from the Denver Bears of the American association, and two other player changes.

The A's sold left-hander Tom Lasorda, who has a 0-4 mark, to Denver and called up outfielder Al Pilarcik from Columbus of the International league. Tuesday night, they announced that infielder Rance Pless had been optioned to Richmond of the International league.

ANYONE FOR MEASLES?
Brighton, England (U.P.)—A doctor advised British girls Tuesday to hold German measles tea parties so they may catch the disease before expecting a baby. "I would like to see the medical research council run a holiday camp to keep the disease going," Dr. G. I. Watson told the British Medical Association. He said the women should have German measles before expecting a child to reduce the chances of her catching them during the critical months of her pregnancy.

Northwest Members in 6-Way Knot

By RAY ANDREWS
United Press Sports Writer
No one could point a finger at the Northwest League today and accuse the circuit of being unbalanced. All six teams which have seen action are tied with identical 1-1 marks after two games of the second half.

Tri-City topped Salem 8-1. Eugene beat Wenatchee 11-3 and Yakima thumped Lewiston 15-3 to reverse defeats of the first night of the second semester.

Danny Holden returned to the Tri-City lineup for the first time since June 25 when he was sidelined with a broken toe. He belted the first pitch out of the park for a 2-run homer in the first frame and the Braves were off and running behind Vern Kindsfater.

Three Hitter Hurdled
Kindsfater pitched 3-hit ball, gave up one unearned run, notched his 12th victory of the year and lowered his season's earned run mark to 2.07 runs per game. Eugene sent ten men to the plate in the ninth inning and got seven runs to cap its victory over Wenatchee.

Nino Valdes, Machen Vie

Miami Beach, Fla. (U.P.)—Cuban heavyweight contender Nino Valdes meets Eddie Machen in a 10-round bout tonight which can "make or break" his pro career.

Bobby Gleason, the 31-year-old Cuban's manager, concedes Valdes can't afford a defeat and adds, "if he loses, I may ask him to retire." However, Gleason predicted that Valdes would reverse a loss to the 10th-ranked Machen earlier this year.

Machen, a 24-year-old slugger who will enter the ring with 14 straight victories as a pro, is expected to weigh in at 195 pounds and will be conceding Valdes about 10 pounds.

tory and spaced nine hits. He had trouble only with Don Lundberg who hit a solo homer in the fifth and Larry Segovia who belted a two-run circuit blow in the seventh.

Yakima unloaded 16 hits for its easy decision over Lewiston. Vince Moreci led the way with a pair of homers. The contest was delayed 42 minutes in the seventh because of a power failure.

B. Askwith SOL Chief

Bill Askwith of Central Point, business manager of the Medford Cheney Studs, is the new president of the Southern Oregon baseball league. Askwith succeeds Hal Zurcher, Roseburg, who recently resigned.

Zurcher, who resigned last week, pointed out that he has sold his business at Roseburg and has moved to Portland. He said that because of the distance from his new home to the circuit, he felt that he would be unable to properly carry on his duties as president.

Askwith was elected as vice president at a league meeting last spring.
