No Danger Seen To Rest of Nation In Polio Epidemic

Washington — (UP) — The Public Health Service indicated today that it sees no danger for the rest of the nation in the major polio outbreak which has hit Chicago.

"The sharp increase in the number of polio cases reported in Illinois," it was reported, "... is almost entirely due to localized outbreaks in certain sections of Chicago, mainly ... among persons of low economic status."

435 New Cases Reported

For the nation as a whole, 435 new cases of polio were reported last week, 130 fewer cases than were reported in the same week of 1955.

So far this year, there have been 3,365 cases compared to 4,676 last year. The paralytic figures are less encouraging, however. There were 212 paralytic cases last week compared to 204 the same week last year. And the paralytic total so far this year is running only slightly below last year, 1,740 compared to 1,856.

Reason Unknown

Authorities said they don't know the reason for the relatively high paralytic rate. A partial explanation, they said, may be the fact that more cases this year have occurred among very young children who are more susceptible to paralysis.

Salk polio vaccinations are designed to prevent paralysis. Authorities emphasized, however, that it is too early to tell what effect inoculations may be having this year.

Bergman Against TV Personal Appearance

London — (UP) — Ingrid Bergman said today she had not planned to make a personal television appearance in New York but was willing to make a TV film for showing on American screens.

A New York announcement earlier this week said the Swedish actress would appear on Ed Sullivan's television show.

"I'm sure they did not intend to convey that I would make a personal appearance," Miss Bergman said here.

"I don't like television. I thought they would make some film of me here and show it on the program."

Sullivan was scheduled to arrive here later today in a reported effort to talk the former Hollywood star into making a personal appearance.

Daughter Born To Olivia de Haviland
