Oregon Vaccine Supply Increases

Portland — (U.P.) — The state board of health said today that more Salk polio vaccine is expected to be available during the next six weeks than the state received during the entire past 16 months the program has been in operation.

Dr. Harold M. Erickson, state health officer said that "prompt" use of the vaccine will give protection to a large percentage of the state's currently-eligible population before the height of this year's polio season." All persons up to the age of 30 and all expectant mothers now are eligible to apply for commercial shots.

The state health officer said that despite the abundance of vaccine and the threat of the approaching polio season, Oregon's consumption of vaccine has been averaging only about 13,000 cc's a week. Latest state board of health estimates showed that only about 300,000 persons in Oregon have received one or more shots.

The height of Oregon's polio season is expected during September and October.

The Medical Roundup

by Walter Alvarez

Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic
Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation

Old Prison Guard Speaks Up

I was so interested when a fine and thoughtful man who, for year was a prison guard, agreed with me that many law-breakers seemed to be condemned by their nature to be criminals for life. As he said, a high percentage of the men in prison are repeaters. They admitted freely to him that crime was their profession, and as soon as they got out they inevitably would go back to it. It was the only way they knew of earning a living and it was the only job exciting enough to hold their interest. They were just not made to settle down somewhere to a steady job.

Walter Alvarez

As the old guard said, it is distressing to policemen and prison wardens to see dangerous men like some of the Dillinger gang pardoned or paroled and sent out to prey again on society. All it means is that the police and FBI must soon be working hard to catch the men all over again. How much simpler it would be to keep such men in jail until perhaps they are old enough to calm down and behave. The guard feels, as I do, that these people should not be punished or abused in any way. In prison they should be allowed to lead as normal a life as is possible. They only thing that must be denied them is freedom to go out into the world to steal and kill.

Some readers will be wondering why I, a physician, feel so concerned with this problem, and the answer is that the habitual criminal is not quite sane. If he were sane he would settle down as the rest of us do. He would want a steady job, a home, and a nice wife and children. He would have sense enough to see that a lifetime, much of which is spent in a prison cell, is badly worth living.

Tendencies Repeat

Actually, anyone who will take the trouble to read books such as Dugdale's and Eastabrook's on the Jukes (a large tribe of mentally backward vagrants, petty thieves and prostitutes) will see that a tendency to criminality can show up again and again in families in which some members are insane or mentally retarded. In other words, criminality can be inherited as an equivalent of insanity, or any other disease of the brain. The victim lacks those mental qualities that cause the normal man to want to work steadily, to put roots down, and to take his place in the community as a good citizen.

As many a fine sensible judge realizes when an habitual criminal comes up before him, the man is so mentally ill that he needs a doctor as much as a jailer.

Unfortunately, as yet, we supposedly civilized people in America are still treating these mentally ill persons with punitive technics inherited from the Middle Ages and from 3000 B.C. We are still thinking only in terms of punishment that will fit the crime. We rarely think of protecting society.

Dr. Alvarez hopes his readers will understand that it would be impossible for his to answer requests for information or to attempt to diagnose by mail.

The Family Council

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, a newspaper editor, a women's page editor and two newspaper writers. These consult with clergymen of all faiths and denominations. All letters are held in complete confidence.

Stan — Our boy shows criminal tendencies.

Ruth — Why call "outsiders" into our family?

Stan—My wife and I and my daughter are having a painful disagreement over our 15-year-old son. He has been a source of grief to us for years, and we seem unable to handle him. He has repeatedly stolen money from us, gotten into all kinds of scrapes in school and gotten us into hot water with our neighbors.

All along, I felt along with my wife that it was better to be silently patient in the hope that he would grow out of this condition, rather than to bring outsiders into our family problem. Now, however, I feel differently, because he seems to be growing out of amateur mischief, into serious crime.

There was an incident in school recently in which a boy was seriously injured. It had all the earmarks of junior gang warfare. The point is that we just learned that our boy carries brass knuckles in his pocket. That isn't all. From the amount of money we found in his pocket, we can't help suspecting that he has been in on some robbery or theft, since I know he did not get the money either by working or from us.

I feel we are being unjust to him and to ourselves if we do not turn him over to the juvenile authorities, but my wife and daughter say I would be betraying all of us if I turned him over to outsiders.

Ruth — My husband, it seems to me, is giving up too soon and jumping to conclusions. Our boy has given us a great deal of anxiety, but it does not follow that he uses his brass knuckles or that he stole the money for which we are unable to account. It may be that there are innocent explanations of both these facts. In any event, before we call in any outsiders, we should try to have it out with him.

The Council: The parents have blundered seriously in being "silently patient" all this time. It is quite possible that the boy has felt provoked and driven by their excessive patience. It is not infrequent that a juvenile will be driven to misbehavior by a desire for getting more attention.

Parents should argue such problems out with erring children but they should manage to combine self-control with authority; we suspect that the parents here remained silently patient because they were afraid they would lose their self-control and punish their boy excessively.

Calling in an "outsider" is certainly better than doing nothing. There should be no prejudice against calling in a qualified "outsider" because such people can be closer to the boy's problems and reactions than a harrassed father or mother. The question is whether to call in "outsiders" on the police level or on the assistance level.

Before considering the juvenile authorities, these parents should try discussing matters with the boy after consulting with specialists to whom his teachers or clergyman might direct them.

We would definitely rule out both continued "silent patience" and blind prejudice against "outside" help.

Oregon City Woman Killed by Automobile

Oregon City — (U.P.) — Mrs. Etta Porter, 76, Oregon City, was killed here last night when she was struck by a car as she started to cross the street in front of her home.

State police said that Richard A. Middleton, 20, of Molalla was the driver of the car. Officers said the elderly lady apparently stepped directly into the path of the car as she started to cross the highway to board a bus.

The accident occurred about three miles south of Oregon City.

Carson City, founded in 1858, was made the capital city of Nevada in 1861, and today is the nation's smallest capital in population.
