Juvenile Detention Home Discussed at Roundtable Meeting

Mrs. Kay Crowell, director of the Jackson county juvenile office, discussed plans for the county's new juvenile detention home yesterday at the Jackson County Chamber of Commerce roundtable at the Jackson hotel.

Mrs. Crowell, director of the juvenile department since August, 1952, said she accepted the position here because of the challenge in operating a juvenile office without a detention home. She came to Medford from Stockton, Calif.

The first step in procuring a detention home, she said, was to gain the support of the community. After Jackson county voted 3-1 in favor of a detention home, Mrs. Crowell explained, county taxes were raised last year to finance the home.

Total Cost

Total cost of the building, she said, will be $65,000. The detention home will have a capacity of 12 children, eight boys and four girls, she pointed out. Another $25,000 is being spent on an annex to be added which will provide offices and a court room for county juvenile officers, she said. William Seibert of Medford is architect for project, she said.

Mrs. Crowell explained the most important consideration they had in designing the home was to make it home-like rather than into a jail, but still provide security measures so the children could not run away. She said children up to their 18th birthday will be eligible for admission. Children will be kept there not more than 10 or 11 days, she said, while awaiting court action.

Mrs. Crowell pointed out that children will not be kept in the detention home to be punished but because they have gotten beyond parental control or because the community has become antagonistic toward them.

Allocated Land

She said the detention home has been allocated about two acres of land behind the Foot-lighter's theater on the old fair-grounds.

The detention will include a fenced-in playground, a recreation room, kitchen, dining room and separate rooms for all the children with a toilet and wash basin in each one. Mrs. Crowell added. There will also be a waiting room for the court and detention area, a living room, bedroom and bathroom for parents, and a judge's chambers, she said.

The detention home will be staffed by a man and women and a relief crew with living quarters provided for them, Mrs. Crowell said. Pay for the couple will be about $4,500 a year, she said. Operating expenses for the detention home will be about $16,500 annually, she concluded.

Republican Group Would Dump Nixon

Ventura, Calif. — (UP) — The Republican League of California has warned that California will go Democratic if Vice President Richard M. Nixon runs for reelection.

Albert Levitt, president of the local group, disclosed Monday that the organization will support Harold E. Stassen in an attempt to keep Nixon a native of California, off the 1956 ballot.

The league, however, is not a major statewide GOP organization but the action could lead to other California groups taking a stand in the controversy.

Levitt in a telegram to Stassen declared:

"Your opposition to Vice President Nixon is proper and justified. If the Republican party nominates Nixon for vice president, California will go Democratic in the November election."
