New Yellow Bulbs Good for Outdoors

If you're bothered by night insects, try using the new yellow enameled bulbs for outdoor lighting. These new bulbs are ideal for porches, over picnic tables, doorways and gardens, where you want to discourage night-flying insects.

There's no magic in the yellow bulb, but according to General Electric lighting specialists insect pests are less attracted to a yellow lamp than to a white bulb of equal wattage. Available in both 60 and 100-watt sizes, the bulbs have a glass coating which is "fixed" on the bulb so it won't wear or wash off.
