The official announcement to that effect by a Syrian Army spokesman was published in all Syrian newspapers.

Mexican Border May Be Closed

San Diego — (U.P.) — Gov. Brault Maldonado of Baja California was prepared today to close the Mexican border to American tourists in order to clean up vice conditions in Tijuana, Mex., a border city 25 miles south of here.

Maldonado told Mexican and American newsmen Saturday he is "sick and tired" of hearing complaints about prostitution, gambling and narcotics traffic in Tijuana.

He said he has taken personal charge of a cleanup campaign. "If it is necessary to sacrifice economic interests to clean up Tijuana, we will close the border to American tourists," he said. "Perhaps we both will gain, you Americans in health and we in dignity."

The governor's vice campaign was touched off by the July 26 murder of vice crusader Manuel Acosta Meza, coeditor of the newspaper El Imperial.

Acosta Meza was conducting a drive against Tijuana's prostitution houses and narcotics trade when he was murdered. A gunman shot the editor three times when the victim answered the door at his fashionable home.

Efforts Made To Renew Aluminum Strike Talks

New York — (U.P.) — Federal Mediator Joseph F. Finnegan holds separate meetings today with representatives of the aluminum industry and striking steel workers to renew bargaining talks.

Some 28,000 steel workers went on strike last week at twelve plants of the Aluminum Company of America and nine plants of the Reynolds Metal company.

The strike halted 50 per cent of the nation's aluminum output.

Firebug Suspect Held in Manhattan

New York — (U.P.) — A 66-year-old man has been arrested on suspicion of being the firebug who set off a week end series of seven small church fires in Manhattan including a blaze in St. Patrick's Cathedral.

Salvatore Sorrentino, an unemployed laborer with a record of five previous arrests, who said he was once a theology student in Italy, was to be arraigned in court today. Police, who have booked Sorrentino on a formal charge of violation of the sanitary code, said they would recommend he be taken to Bellevue Hospital for observation.

Police and firemen reported fire in four Roman Catholic and three Protestant Episcopal churches, all set with newspapers and lighter fluid, and all apparently by the same person. No services were in progress and only a few worshippers in attendance when the blazes flared. No injuries were reported.
