Phone Line 'Hogs' Object of Research

Berkeley, Calif. — (U.P.) — The "line hog," who holds those never-ending conversations on the telephone party line while fellow line users fret and fume, has been the object of considerable research by California telephone men.

Many devices have been used, including that of automatically breaking calls at eight minutes (a practice used in the small farming community of Farmington).

But the best general solution to the problem is "education," say telephone men.

This education takes the form of letters explaining good party line usage or a telephone call to each party on the line.

"Line hogging" is a special problem in California's farming areas, so much so that the California Farm Bureau Federation urged at its annual meeting last November that the problem be brought to the attention of party line users everywhere.

Motion on Legality Of Jury Dismissed

Portland — (U.P.) — A motion which questioned legality of the grand jury which completed a nine-week investigation with series of indictments here was denied yesterday by Presiding Judge Frank J. Lonergan.

If the motion had been granted it would have nullified the grand jury's indictments.

The action was filed by James M. Hafey, a Portland attorney, on behalf of a client awaiting grand jury action on a statutory rape charge. He argued the jury was improperly drawn because it did not take names from both the assessment rolls and the voter registration books. Judge Lonergan ruled that statutes permit drawing of jury lists from assessment rolls and voter registration books, or from either.

Nevada Sportsmen May Hunt Wild Pigs

Las Vegas, Nev. — (U.P.) — Nevada sportsmen may be enjoying wild pig hunting in the not too distant future if nature cooperates with the state fish and game commission.

The commission has released eight javelinas, the wild pigs of the southwestern deserts, in the McCullough Mountains of Clark county. Three boars and five sows were turned loose and commission game experts believe the animals, to be protected from hunters for several years, will multiply rapidly.

Thirteen more of the animals are to be released within the next few weeks, obtained from the Arizona fish and game department.

Stockmen in the area where the pigs are being released have promised to cooperate in the project, making feed available if this proves necessary.

TOURNEY STARTS

Denver — (U.P.) — The $5,000 Mile High Women's Open gets underway here today with 16 pro and 21 amateur golfers in quest of the championship at the Lakewood Country club course.
