

McKay Praised and Criticized; Boyer Declares Texas Favored

By UNITED PRESS
Praise and criticism of former Interior Secretary Douglas McKay highlighted the Oregon political scene today.

Interior Secretary Fred Seaton continued a tour through western Oregon and in a speech prepared for delivery to the Eugene Chamber of Commerce at noon said McKay made a "clean, strong imprint on the nation's business in Washington" that will endure for years.

Robert Boyer and Al Ullman, Democratic candidate for Congress from eastern Oregon, both criticized McKay, who seeks to unseat Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.) this fall.

Devotion Praised

Seaton appeared on television with McKay in Portland last night and praised the ex-Oregon governor's "devotion to the objectives and policies that have made the Eisenhower administration great."

In his talk prepared for delivery in Eugene, Seaton said the administration undertook a crusade "to restore the confidence and faith of the American people in themselves." He added, "We have justified our confidence in the people of this nation."

Seaton also called for both federal and private development of Northwest power facilities. "We cannot depend on the federal government alone. We cannot depend on private capital alone," he said.

Boyer, a Medford attorney, accused McKay of favoring the Texas oil industry, "against the interests of Oregon and the nation."

Boyer Lists Criticisms
Among his criticisms Boyer listed "opening up federal game refuge lands to extensive oil leasing." He also listed "putting the weight of his office (as secretary of interior) behind the give-away of off-shore oil riches to Texas and three other coastal states."

Ullman also was critical of granting of oil and gas leases on federal wildlife refuges. He charged that from Aug. 31, 1953, until Dec. 2, 1955, a total of 274 oil leases were granted on public lands and 60 of those on lands administered by the Fish and Wildlife Service without its consent.

Seaton was to go to Roseburg this afternoon and to Medford tonight to continue his efforts in behalf of McKay.

FBI Seeks Evidence To Bring Johnny Dio To Trial for Murder

New York — (U.P.) — FBI agents sought today to obtain enough evidence to bring labor racketeer Johnny Dio to trial for the gangland murder of columnist Victor Riesel's acid-throwing assailant.

U. S. Attorney Paul W. Williams described Dio, whose real name is John Dioguardi, as the mastermind of the plot that permanently blinded Riesel but admitted he lacked evidence to accuse him of murder.

Williams said, however, that the FBI was still in the case and trying to get enough information to connect Dio directly with the slaying of Abraham Telvi, a small-time hoodlum who allegedly blinded Riesel.

Dio and four other men linked with the plot to keep Riesel from giving information on labor racketeering to a grand jury were arrested Tuesday night and held Wednesday in $475,000 bail.

They were arraigned on the charges that they attempted to obstruct justice by plotting an attack on a grand jury witness. But maximum penalty on conviction of this charge would be only five years in prison and $10,000 fines.

The FBI was reported examining every clue in an effort to bring Dio to trial for murder by directly causing the death of Telvi after the hired thug had demanded more money for carrying out the plot against Riesel.

If the FBI obtains enough information, it will be turned over to District Attorney Frank S. Hogan for his use in preparing a case because the murder of Telvi is not in the federal government's jurisdiction.

DA Reported Angry
Hogan was reported to be angry because his office had received no information from the government in the Telvi slaying which occurred on the lower east side of Manhattan last July 28.

Williams said Telvi sealed his own fate after he learned that Dio had double-crossed him. He resented playing the role of fall guy, Williams said, and demanded adequate compensation.

According to information presented by Williams, Dio paid Telvi $1,000 to throw acid into the face of a radio disc jockey named "Marshall," who needed punishment for being unfaithful to his wife.

Telvi was reported to have carried out the assignment only to learn later that the man he blinded was Riesel.

He then asked for $50,000 and pressed for payment. Dio promised payment in full in two weeks. At the expiration of the deadline, Telvi received his "reward," a bullet in the back of his head.

Earlier authorities had reported Telvi was killed because he talked too much and also bore tell-tale scars from drops of sulphurous acid that splashed on him when he attacked Riesel in front of a Manhattan restaurant.

School Cooks Slate Annual Conference

Eagle Point school will host school cooks from Josephine, Jackson and Klamath counties Friday at the 12th annual school cooks' conference. Registration will start at 9 a.m. and the session will end at 4 p.m.

Highlights of the conference will include a school lunch preparation and methods demonstration by Hal Bolin, Washington, D.C., foods expert with the United States Department of Agriculture. Bolin's topic will be "Catering to Commodities." He will demonstrate use of commodities supplied by the USDA for the school lunch program.

Mrs. Laura Wells, state director of the Oregon school lunch program, will be speaker. Mrs. Beth Malone, head cook at Briscoe school, Ashland, will be in charge of registration and Mrs. Peggy Pech, head cook at Eagle Point, will be hostess.

Also on the program will be Mrs. Maxine Berryman, directing a song session; Oris Moore, county sanitarian, speaking on "What's Important in Serving the School Lunch"; Mrs. Virginia Wait, Medford, speaking on "Kitchens in the Pentagon"; and Mrs. Una B. Inch, assistant superintendent of Jackson county schools, presenting diplomas.

Local Home Owner Reports Break, Entry

A break and entry at the home of Mrs. Charlene Combs, 1487 1/2 Ridgeway ave, was reported to the county sheriff's office Saturday at about 11:45 p.m.

Investigating deputies said Mrs. Combs told them the house was left temporarily vacant during the evening. When she returned home at about 11:30 p.m. the lights were on. The lights went off as she drove up to the house and apparently the person or persons inside escaped through the back door.

Deputies reported that the entry was made through a front window. Nothing was found to be disturbed or taken.

Woman Said Recovering From Beating by Stepson
Portland — (U.P.) — Mrs. Florence Lyle of Oregon City was reported today by hospital attendants as in "fair condition" and improving.

Mrs. Lyle, suffering from a skull fracture after she was beaten with a claw hammer at her home Monday, has undergone surgery at Good Samaritan hospital here.

A 17-year-old stepson, Hubert M. Lyle Jr., shot and killed himself in the home, apparently after he had beaten Mrs. Lyle over the head with the hammer.

Juniors to Begin New Schedule Soon

New school term schedule of Bliss Heine's Juniors has been announced and will go into effect Sept. 1.

Drummers will meet at 9 a.m., baton twirlers over seven years old at 10 a.m. and baton twirlers under eight years of age at 11 a.m. Special arrangements are made for beginner drummers and flag twirlers. All classes are held on Saturdays at the Moose hall, 11 Newtown st. New members may register at any of the classes.

The drilling drummers appeared in five programs and three parades between July 22 and Aug. 19. Jack Webster was recently advanced to captain of the drum section and is now directing drills.

A tap ceremony was recently held for Stephen Bishop, who was killed in the Grand Canyon plane crash a few weeks ago. He was one of the original drummers when the Juniors were organized in 1945.

Specialist, Agent View Alfalfa Seed

More than 600 acres of alfalfa seed, most of it the locally developed Talent variety, have been inspected by Earle Jossy, county agent for agriculture, and Ernest Smith, certification specialist from Oregon State college.

Jossy said the inspections were completed Tuesday after the two men spent a total of six days in the field.

The prospects are for a better than average alfalfa crop this year. Growers are raising alfalfa on more than twice the number of acres of land as last year, Jossy said.

In addition to the alfalfa, the inspector certified 145 acres of ladino clover, 16 acres of graniger lotus, 14 acres of penncross bent grass, six acres of panlawm fescue, 72 acres of marion blue grass, and 19 acres of white federation wheat.

The Talent alfalfa seed grown in the valley will be shipped to Greece, Jossy reported. Talent alfalfa was developed at a local experiment station in this county about 10 years ago. After samples were sent to many foreign countries a good market was built up in Greece. This year's order from there is for 50 tons of seed according to the county agent.

Laughs of the Day . . .

New Orleans — (U.P.) — An elevator operator was charged with drunken driving of his elevator. Police Sgt. Edward C. Tecoul said he experienced a harrowing ride up and down the six floors of a downtown office building. Safe on the ground floor once more, Tecoul arrested the operator, Jack Greeson, 52-year-old Negro.

Newark, N. J. — (U.P.) — Police swiftly retired a man who set himself up in a theater lobby as a solicitor for the "Employees Retirement System."

Robert Lavery, 47, allegedly had collected 70 cents in 10 minutes when police questioned him. They learned the money was strictly for Lavery's retirement and charged him with illegal solicitation of funds.

Norton Canes, England — (U.P.) — When Albert Longmore, 21, was in the Army and the sergeant said "jump," he jumped.

At home asleep, Longmore, now a civilian, dreamed the sergeant said "jump." Longmore did, right through his bedroom window 15 feet to the concrete path below. He suffered a sprained wrist.

Berlin — (U.P.) — Berlin's newest anti-Communist joke: A teacher in a Soviet zone school asked Hans to name the elements.

Hans replied: "Water, earth, air, fire and vodka."

"Why vodka?" the teacher asked.

"When my father sees a photograph of Khrushchev in the newspaper drinking vodka he always says 'Now he is in his element again."

Norfolk, Va. — (U.P.) — Hospital officials quoted an unidentified woman, being treated for the effects of a bottle of clorox she drank by mistake, as saying, "it was just a little stronger," than her whiskey.

Butler, N.J. — (U.P.) — Mrs. Karl Griner told the town fathers she would rather go to jail than pay a personal tax bill of $12.87. She said the city has been "months and months" putting in a water main in front of her home and it would be all right if she went to jail because "it would be quieter there."
