Overnight Campers Pour Into State In Record Numbers

Salem — Overnight campers, many of whom are seeking to relax the strain on the family vacation budget, are pouring into Oregon state parks in record numbers, continuing a three-year-old trend toward an annual increase of 50 per cent, according to the travel information division of the state highway department.

Nearly all state parks along the Oregon coast are jammed to the boundary lines, and some are maintaining a higher daily average than there are campsites available.

Last year, according to Parks Director C. H. Armstrong, attendance totaled 158,000 camper nights, each car occupant being counted once for each night spent in a state park. A preliminary survey taken recently indicates the trend towards a 50 per cent increase is continuing, and Armstrong looks for a total of more than 230,000 camper nights by the end of 1958.

The average annual increase began at nearly 50 per cent in 1953, just one year after the parks were opened to camping, and has continued to rise comparatively each year since then.

Armstrong said that principal parks where the overnight camper might best find space during the rush season are Oswald West park, ten miles south of Cannon Beach; Silver Falls, 26 miles east of Salem; Cove Pallsades, five miles west of Culver; Emigrant Springs, 26 miles east of Pendleton; and Cascadia, 42 miles east of Albany.

480 Labor Day Road Deaths Seen

Chicago — (AP) — The National Safety Council has estimated 480 persons may die in traffic accidents during the Labor Day weekend, the last holiday of summer.

The council hoped, however, that the three-day toll could be held to no more than 350—the normal traffic death toll for a non-holiday Saturday, Sunday and Monday at this time of year.

Cities and states made final plans and preparations for efforts to hold down the number of accidents and deaths in their areas.

Labor Day is usually rated by the council as the second deadliest holiday on the highways—Christmas being the first—since it signals the end of summer vacations, the closing of cottages and the opening of schools and colleges.

Team play by the "man behind the wheel" and the "man behind the badge" was urged by the council to keep the death toll at a minimum and well below its estimate.

Many states have cancelled leave for state policemen during the holiday. In some states, National Guardsmen will join police efforts in patrolling highways and dangerous intersections.

The White Mountains of New Hampshire include 86 peaks more than 3,000 feet high, concentrated in a small area close to the 6,288-foot summit of Mt. Washington, highest mountain in the Northeast.
